DID NOT FIRE ON ROWANMORE'S LIFEBOATS

CHARGES ARE CALLED FALSE

U-Boat Commander Declares Men Owe Lives to German Precautions.

AMERICANS WERE ON DOOMED SHIP

German Version of Sinking of British Steamer is Given to Public.

Berlin, Wednesday, Nov. 15 (by wire to The Associated Press).—Assertions that the German submarine which sank the British ship Rowanmore, on which there were several Americans, fired upon lifeboats containing members of the crew are dismissed as utterly false in the report of the commander of the submarine, further details of which became known today. In fact, it is said the men on the Rowanmore owe their lives to the precautions taken by the Germans and the skill with which their operations were carried out.

During the twenty-minute pursuit of the steamer the submarine's shots were aimed accurately astern to limit the danger to the crew, which was congregated at the bow. The Rowanmore was hit ten times, the last shell disabling the propeller. The submarine ceased firing, the report continues, immediately it was observed the Rowanmore had decreased her speed and abandoned the effort to escape.

No shots were fired at the men in the boats. Just before she stopped the Rowanmore hoisted a signal, but it was impossible to read it from the submarine at that time, about 2,000 yards away. Later it was shown that the signal was "I surrender."

There were two white Americans and five Filipinos in the crew of the Rowanmore, all of whom were saved. Last

TEACHERS URGED TO HELP IN CORN SHOW

County Agent Directs Letter to Pedagogues of the County.

Teachers of Allen county are asked to become interested in the corn contest at the show to be held in the assembly room of the court house in this city, December 12 to 16, inclusive, in a letter sent to them by A. J. Hutchins, county agent, who is directing the show.

"As the corn show is now planned there will be two general classes, one for men and one for the boys of the seventh and eighth grades, and as teachers, you should be interested in the boys' contest," says the letter. According to present plans there will be classes for white, yellow and mixed corn with good prizes in each class.

The letter further says in part: "It is desired by D. O. McComb, county school superintendent, and myself, that every school where agriculture is taught, be represented by at least one boy sending a ten-ear sample of corn. The corn can be sent to the office of the county agent and must be sent on or before December 11. No corn will be received after Monday, December 11. The corn will be taken care of and properly labeled. Have each sample well packed and do not put in bag. Have each boy write his full name plainly stating his township and school."

"On Saturday morning at 10 o'clock Prof. J. A. Linke, of Purdue university, will be present to talk to the boys. This talk will not only be for boys having corn on display but for all boys interested in club work. Please take note that a white cob in white corn and a red cob in white corn will disqualify the exhibit. One or more dead ears in the sample will disqualify it."

Passengers View Sea Battle at a Distance

New York, Nov. 15.—The sea battle between British and German destroyers in the English channel on the night of October 26 when German war craft made a raid on the channel transport service, was witnessed at a distance by passengers and officers on the Cunard line steamer Andania, which arrived here today from London. Reports brought to the ships after the battle, the passengers said, were that eight British outpost vessels, two destroyers and one transport were sunk.

Chief Officer T. A. Chester of the Andania said today that on the evening of the 26th a line of British destroyers were seen moving to the east at a rapid pace. Soon after they had passed flashes of light were seen and the thunder of guns was heard, coming from an estimated distance of about twelve miles.

The flashes and detonations indicated that a brisk battle was in progress which lasted all night. The Andania later being permitted to go to sea, had her ports painted black and all her lights were screened. She was accompanied by two British destroyers until well past the danger zone.

COAL WAGON DRIVERS HOLD UP STRIKE MOVE.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 16.—Leaders of the coal wagon drivers' union today held up their proposed strike order for several hours while they waited action of the Cleveland Federation of Labor and the arrival of Thomas Farrell, international organizer of the teamsters' union.

In the meantime schools, hospitals and orphanages were making desperate efforts to obtain as much coal as possible.

BORDER WAR GAME BEGINS

25,000 U. S. Soldiers Take Part in Big Maneuver Along Rio Grande.

FT. WAYNE MEN IN ARMY OF DEFENSE

Company E and Battery D Aid in Resisting "Invaders."

Brownsville, Tex., Nov. 16.—Twenty-five thousand soldiers comprising national guardsmen from nine states and several regular army organizations today began what army officers declare to be the most extensive maneuver attempted since the coming of the national guard to the Mexican border. The soldiers are about equally divided into two armies, one to be known as "the brown army" and the other as "the white army."

The "invading force," the "brown army," is to try to wrest a large section of territory known as the "lower Rio Grande valley" from "the white army," the defending forces, which is to be stationed in the neighborhood of Llanero Grande, forty-six miles west of Brownsville. The territory in which the armies are to be active is bounded on the east by the Gulf of Mexico, on the south by the Rio Grande, on the north by Harlingen, twenty-nine miles north of Brownsville, and on the west by Llanero Grande.

C., B. & C. ROAD MAY BE SOLD FOR JUNK

Such is Story Emanating from Portland—Will Be Sold Monday.

A story originating at Portland that a plan is on foot for the junking of the C., B. & C. railroad which operates from Huntington to Portland has caused no little excitement in the towns through which the road passes. The report started as the result of a remark made by an employee of the company to the effect that scrap-iron dealers have been inspecting the property during the past couple of weeks. In view of the fact that the road is to be sold on Monday, November 20, it is believed that the junk dealers will submit bids with a view of tearing the road up and junking it. In their inspection of the property they have made very careful estimates of the "old iron value" of the rails and the rolling stock and have figured on the possible "salvage" in selling the right-of-way back to the farmers along the line.

According to the story from Portland a number of scrap-iron dealers are pooling together to pull this deal with "ready cash" in an effort to stampede the court into a sale without committing themselves to operate the road. Fort Wayne junk dealers Thursday denied any knowledge of the contemplated purchase of the road by scrap-iron dealers.

THESE FIVE MEN WILL HOLD BALANCE OF POWER IN HOUSE.

Top to bottom, around the question mark: C. H. Randall, California prohibitionist; T. D. Schall, Minnesota progressive; W. P. Martin, Louisiana progressive-protectionist; Meyer London, New York socialist; A. J. Fuller, Massachusetts independent.

Latest figures on the election of members of the house apparently gives the republicans 217 votes, the democrats 213. Randall, of California, aligns himself with the democrats. Representative Martin, of Louisiana, is a democrat except on the subject of protection. The democrats now have revised the sugar tariff to suit him and his district, and he has no excuse for doing anything except support that party in the house.

Alvan Fuller, of Massachusetts, entered the race against a republican, Roberts, in the Ninth Massachusetts district, and was elected by democratic and progressive voters. He is absolutely independent in politics, but would not under any circumstances line up with the old guard republicans. Thomas D. Schall, of Minneapolis, leans toward the republicans. His action, however, is uncertain. Schall is a blind man now about to serve his second term. His election was due largely to his wife's campaigning. This shows a line-up of 217 republicans against 216 democrats, with Schall and London unaccounted for. If Schall drops into the democratic line-up, the balance of the house, the lone socialist may decide the course of legislation for two years to come.

(By Frederick M. Kerby.) Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—Who will control the next house of representatives? The answer lies in the attitude of five members of the house who are not affiliated with either the democratic or republican parties. They are Charles H. Randall, prohibitionist, of the Ninth California district; Whit P. Martin, progressive-protectionist, of Louisiana; Thomas D. Schall, progressive, of Minnesota; Alvan T. Fuller, independent, of Massachusetts; and Meyer London, socialist member from New York.

SEEKING MOTIVE FOR MISS DIEMER'S DEATH

Pontiac Authorities Delve Into Mystery Surrounding Girl's Case.

Pontiac, Ill., Nov. 16.—Establishment of a motive for the death of Miss Christine Diemer in connection with her father, Jacob Diemer, wealthy retired farmer, churchman and former county surveyor, her mother and her sister are being held, occupied the attention of authorities here today. The body of Miss Diemer showing a broken neck and little water in the lungs was found in the Vermilion river a week ago. Miss Diemer was 33 years old. She was a college graduate. Magdalena Diemer, the sister held by the authorities, said Christine had been subject to "queer spells" and had undergone treatment in a sanitarium. She said she believed her a suicide. Christine's will disposing of $2,000 in cash, her automobile and other personal property had been made out in her favor, Magdalena said.

HOSPITAL PATIENTS PERILED BY BLAZE

Carried Out by Firemen as Flames Attack Brazil Institution.

Brazil, Ind., Nov. 16.—Fire in a private hospital here early today endangered a number of patients recovering from operations and caused a heavy loss to Dr. James Rawley, who conducted the institution. An overheated furnace was the cause of the fire. Patients able to get out of the hospital did so, but others were carried to the roof of a porch by firemen and left there until the fire, which got to the stairway, was extinguished. The patients that were taken to private homes were not taken to private homes.

MAY AGAIN BLOCK WAY

Attitude of Cabrera as to Border Agreement is Uncertain.

HIS COLLEAGUES SEEM CONFIDENT

Believe Mexican Chairman Will Sanction Plan Now Proposed.

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 16.—Interest in the sessions of the Mexican-American joint commission today was in learning what would be the attitude of Luis Cabrera, chairman of the Mexican commission. During his absence at Philadelphia, Ogunco Bonillas and Alberto J. Pani, the other Mexican representatives, virtually agreed with the American commission on the essential points of a plan of border control. They expressed confidence in the support of Mr. Cabrera notwithstanding the opposition offered by him on Tuesday, the last time he appeared in the conference.

The optimism displayed by the two Mexican commissioners was not shared by all those in touch with the conference early today. By a few of them it was regarded as not improbable that Mr. Cabrera might again stand in the way, although preparations have been made for reducing to writing the agreement and Mr. Bonillas and Mr. Pani appeared confident that another hitch would be avoided. Mr. Cabrera remained non-committal.

READS OF OWN DEATH; THEN RECOVERY STARTS.

Danville, Ind. Nov. 16.—Since reading an account of her own death in a local newspaper, Mrs. Cuningham H. Stuart has been convalescing rapidly. She suffered from blood poison and her death was expected momentarily. By mistake a notice of her death was published and the nurse attending Mrs. Stuart left the paper lying near the bed. Mrs. Stuart got the paper and read the notice. She laughed heartily and began to improve immediately.

BURN TOWNS IN RETREAT

RUSSO-RUMANIAN RALLY CONTINUES

Somme Fighting Still Intense, With Little Advantage Shown.

Today's War News Given in Summary

Field Marshal von Mackensen's army, in the Rumanian province of Dobrudja, is in retreat, the Petrograd war office announces today, burning villages as it falls back. Increasing pressure by the Russo-Rumanian army in Dobrudja, which rallied after its severe defeat by von Mackensen last month, has been in evidence for several days. Bucharest reported a further advance yesterday toward the important Tchernavoda-Constanza railroad, which the Teutonic allies captured in their drive. Berlin today entered a denial of the Rumanian claim and in its report on the Dobrudja campaign reported only encounters between advanced detachments.

Fighting in the Somme region of northern France shows little diminution in its intensity with attack and counter attack, following swiftly. The British advance in the Ancre region seems to have halted. London announces only artillery activity during the night. Berlin, however, reports heavy attacks by the British yesterday, notably one on the village of Grandcourt, which is declared to have been broken down. The successes against the French scored by the Germans north of the Somme yesterday are reported by Berlin today. They consisted, according to the statement, in the capture, in the house to house fighting of the eastern section of the village of Sailly, where the French were menacing the German positions in the St. Pierre-Vaast woods, and of French trenches on the northern edge of this wood. For their part the French reacted against the Germans south of the Somme, near Chaulnes, where a German counter attack was announced yesterday to have wrested a part of the village of Pressoire from French possession. The French recaptured this crown last night. Paris announces in today's official bulletin.

The invasion of Rumania is continuing successfully, Berlin announces in today's official bulletin. Petrograd, Nov. 16.—The war office announces that Field Marshal von Mackensen's army is in retreat in Dobrudja, burning villages as it falls back. On the Transylvania front in the region of Campulung, Rumania, fierce fighting is in progress.

NOW NEARING MONASTIR.

French and Russians Continue Pursuit of Bulgarians.

Paris, Nov. 16.—French and Russian troops on the Macedonian front are now within four miles of Monastir, it was announced officially. The war office says the pursuit of the defeated Bulgarians continues. On the eastern end of the line British troops have again assumed the offensive, defeating the Bulgarians in the region of the river Struma and capturing the village of Karakula.

During the night the Bulgarians abandoned their principal positions west of the Cerna river. The French and Serbians took 400 prisoners and made progress toward Yaraschok in the Cerna bend west of Monastir.

Southeast of Monastir the French and Russian troops are reported to be making substantial progress. It is in this region to the north of Kenali that they have advanced to within four miles of Monastir.

The French last night recaptured the village of Karakula, a strategic position on the Cerna river.

WITH THE MINISTERS.

A. J. Hutchins, county agent, Wednesday attended a rural ministers' conference at St. Joe, DeKalb county. Rev. O. E. Tomes, of Fort Wayne, was one of the speakers. He spoke on the work of training school for Sunday school teachers. Others on the program were W. A. Link, professor of Purdue university; J. E. Erhart, county agent of DeKalb county; and O. K. Hall, superintendent of the Indiana state school for the blind.

WILL SEEK AN EARLY RULING

Department of Justice to Press Adamson Law Actions to Decision.

WILL BE RUSHED TO THE SUPREME COURT

Hoping to Secure Final Judgment Not Far from January 1.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—Early decision by the supreme court of one of the railroad suits attacking the constitutionality of the eight-hour law probably will be sought by the department of justice. An appeal probably will be made in the first case decided in the hope that the supreme court may be able to pass judgment as near as possible by Jan. 1, when the law would become effective, if not suspended by injunction.

Official notice of the filing of sixteen suits had been received today by the department, but no determination reached as to where it would endeavor to have the first hearing.

Preparations were being made today for the meeting Monday of the joint congressional committee to investigate railroad questions, including government ownership. The committee has sent notices to every state governor and attorney general and all state railroad commissions, to commercial and industrial organizations and to the president of every railroad in the country. No dates for the appearance of witnesses have been set, but the hearing will open on Monday, with testimony by state railway commissioners.

JOHN R. EXTON IS OVERCOME BY GAS

Physicians Succeed in Reviving Stricken Man. After an Hour.

While at work in a trench at Washington street and Broadway, Thursday John R. Exton, 1219 Lafayette street, employed by the Northern Indiana Gas and Electric company in the street department, was overcome by gas. He was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital where immediate medical attention was given him.

Physicians worked with him for nearly an hour before he was restored to consciousness. It was evident that when the men were at work at the trench they were about to leave for their noonday lunch, he would have met death by asphyxiation.

Earlier in the morning he had been working on Broadway near Swinney avenue. At 11 o'clock the gang of men was moved to Washington street. Exton was making a coupling in a trench. When the workers started home at 12 o'clock they looked into the trench and saw him lying there unconscious.

He was taken to the hospital. At 1 o'clock the attending physician succeeded in bringing him back to consciousness. He was in a serious condition. S. M. Crawford, superintendent of the street department of the gas company, refused to talk on the subject. Exton is 55 years of age.

INDIANA TOWNS HIT WHEN GAS GOES DOWN

Anderson, Ind., Nov. 16.—Gas consumers in Anderson, Muncie and other cities supplied by the Central Indiana Gas company are suffering today from the gas shortage of the winter. At 8:30 a. m. today the gas pressure in the mains suddenly failed and at noon only a quarter of a pound pressure is being registered. The usual pressure is five pounds. Local company officials state that it is probable that a leak in the main line from West Virginia, where the gas is secured, is causing the shortage.

A. J. Hutchins, county agent, Wednesday attended a rural ministers' conference at St. Joe, DeKalb county. Rev. O. E. Tomes, of Fort Wayne, was one of the speakers. PRELIMINARY WORK STILL UNDER WAY

National W. C. T. U. Convention at Indianapolis Opens Tomorrow.

Indianapolis, Nov. 16.—The preliminary meeting of the official and executive boards of the National Woman's Christian Temperance union, which opens its annual convention here tomorrow, were continued today. In addition to the evangelistic conference of the national organization also was held. General underlying thought in all the addresses at the conference was that evangelism and prohibition go together.

Mrs. Ella Kroft, state superintendent for Indiana, welcomed the conference delegates, after which Miss Anna A. Cordon, the national president of the W. C. T. U., spoke on "Prohibition in Action." She declared that abundant prosperity followed prohibition. Other speakers at the morning session were Mrs. Ella Bools, vice president of the national union, and Mrs. Frances Parks, the corresponding secretary. Mrs. Elizabeth Preston Anderson, of Fargo, N. D., spoke on "Evangelism in Activities."

WILL DROP WILSON PORTRAIT.

New York, Nov. 16.—Customers of a local wholesale dry goods house may no longer order "a thousand yards of Wilson," the firm announced today after receiving a letter from the White House requesting it to cease using a pen and ink portrait of the president as a trademark. The trademark will be eliminated. According to a statement by the firm no objection was offered when the idea was submitted for approval in 1912.

BRITISH DRIVE BROKEN.

Germans Check Attack in Hand Grenade Fighting.

Berlin, Nov. 16.—(By wireless to Sayville.)—Attacks by British troops on the German lines along the road from Mailly to Serre and also to the south-east of Baume, north of the river Ancre, were beaten off by the Germans in hand grenade fighting, the war office announced today.

Strong British forces attacked Grandcourt, but the assault broke down under the German fire.

South of the Somme, eastern section of Sailly was taken from the French, and French trenches on the northern edge of St. Pierre Vaast wood were captured, together with more than 300 prisoners and five machine guns.

An attack by Russian troops on the German lines southeast of Riga, on the Russian front, was repulsed, the war office announced in today's official statement.

The German statement reporting operations on the Transylvania front, adds: "The activity north of the Carpathians increased. Along the roads leading southward through Rottenburg and Szurlok passes, the Rumanians tenaciously defended their own territory. We made progress yesterday and captured five officers and more than 1,200 soldiers."

Russian troops in strong force attacked the Austro-German lines east of Putna valley, on the western Moldavian border, the war office announced today in its statement on the campaign against the Rumanians. The attacks were fruitless, the announcement declares.

SHELLING DURING NIGHT.

British Report on Somme Activity Is Very Brief.

London, Nov. 16.—"During the night there was considerable enemy shelling of our battle front north and south of the Ancre," says a statement from the war office today. "Otherwise there is nothing to report."

Capture by the Serbians of the villages of Topavits and Gniles, south-east of Monastir, is reported in a Reuter dispatch from Saloniki. It says the Serbians, in co-operation with the French, captured all the positions south of Topavits after fierce fighting. German troops which were defending the positions sustained considerable losses, the survivors being captured or taking refuge in flight.

The prisoners already counted, the correspondent says, are 500 soldiers, two officers, and five cadets. Details in regard to the amount of war material taken have not been received.

The Greek steamer Barbara and the Norwegian steamer Lokkan are reported to have been sunk.

The Barbara, 2,331 tons gross sailed from Barry, Wales, November 8, for St. Johns, N. F. The Lokkan, 1,954 tons gross was last reported in the Tyne on October 26.

BULGARIANS ADMIT RETREAT.

Sofia, Nov. 16.—The retreat of the German-Bulgarian forces in the Cerna bend under the assaults of the Serbians is admitted in the official statement issued by the war office today. According to the statement the Bulgarians have fallen back on a line four to six miles west of Ivan, the last town west of the Cerna, reported captured by the Serbians.

RUMANIAN FORCES TURN.

Bucharest, Nov. 16.—Rumania's forces operating in southern Transylvania yesterday returned toward Aradut and Radaceni, in the Alt valley, in the direction of Capaciocsa, in the Jiu valley, according to an official statement issued today by the Rumanian war department.

BLAST ON AMMUNITION SHIP.

London, Nov. 16.—The Stockholm newspaper Afton Tidningen says that some days ago an explosion occurred on board the Russian ammunition steamer Baron Brecenti on the Russian coast of Archangel, causing the death of 150 persons and the wounding of 650 others, according to a dispatch from the Swedish capital to the Exchange Telegraph company.

TURKEYS TO WHOLESALE AT 30 CENTS A POUND

Crop is Short and Prices as a Consequence Are Booming Upward.

"Old Hi Cost of Living" will also exercise his powers on Turkey as Thanksgiving time, according to local poultry dealers and cold storage men. It is predicted that the bird which occupies the center of the table at dinner on November 30 will wholesale at thirty cents, which will make the retail price very near the thirty-five cents a pound mark.

Dealers state the crop locally has been very short this year, partially accounting for the much higher price than that of last year, when turkeys were more plentiful. Reports have also been received by Fort Wayne dealers that the crop generally has been very short, so that shipped turkeys will not be any less in price.

Another cause of the advance in price says dealers, is the fact that there are many culled ones in a flock. Buyers will buy a whole flock, had ones and good ones altogether for one price. Naturally, when they are dressed the price on the good ones must be advanced to make up the loss on the bad ones, it is claimed.

LODGING HOUSE IS EMPTY.

Chill Falls to Bring Penniless Itinerants to Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—The municipal lodging house is empty today, although wintry weather has prevailed for nearly a week. Itinerants have failed to appear this year, it is said, on account of the great demand for labor throughout the country. Orders of public lodging houses are complaining that while ordinarily at this season their places are filled to capacity and they have to turn men away, at present, despite the cold snap, less than half of their beds are being occupied.

TAKE UP WARSHIP BIDS.

Washington, Nov. 16.—Navy officials and heads of ship building companies resumed conferences today over awarding contracts for the 53 new ships for which bids have been received. Upon the outcome may depend whether the government will undertake the building program itself or let it go to private yards which propose modifications.

TAKES NOTE OF MOVE OF NEGRO NORTHWARD

Labor Federation Calls It Menace to Workers in Northern States.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 16.—The emigration of southern negroes to northern labor centers was brought to the attention of the convention of the American Federation of Labor today, when the committee favorably reported a resolution intended to eliminate what is called a "menace to the workers in the northern states." The resolution, which subsequently was adopted by the convention, was framed by members of Ohio federations. It recited that the investigation of such emigration and importation of negroes in the state of Ohio had demonstrated to the satisfaction of labor leaders in that state that they were being brought north for the purpose of filling places of union men in the case of freight handlers. A resolution also was adopted looking to the organization of a department comprising those organizations directly connected with the theatrical industry.

The executive council was instructed by a resolution emanating from the delegates to place an organization in the province of Quebec as soon as practicable.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 16.—Edward A. Fitzpatrick, of Madison, Wis., secretary of the conference on University and Public Service now being held here today, emphasized the need of a new national civil service law. He advocated placing the classification of the civil service in the hands of the civil service commission, instead of allowing it to remain in the hands of cabinet officers.

PAIGE PICTURE EXPE- DITION NOW AT WORK IN SOUTH WEST.

Travel Films Taken From Detroit-Made Cars to Reveal Novel Color Effects

Will Be Made By New Combition Process Which Simulates Nature With Remarkable Accuracy.

The Paige expedition for the making of the new Pathe motion picture weekly of scenic films to be known as "Know America" is now busily engaged in the southwest. A. L. Westgard, under whose direction the pictures are being made, left Trinidad, Colo., October 20, with five people, a complete camping and motion picture outfit in two Paige cars. At the first of this month Mr. Westgard was at work in the Santa Fe, New Mexico, district. He will cover the western sections of the country during the winter months and it will probably take him a year and a half to complete his work which will put before the public the most complete and comprehensive series of American travel pictures ever thrown on a screen.

Two Paige cars are used by Mr. Westgard because the exacting nature of the work requires a great deal of equipment. Besides camping and motion picture outfits the cars carry ropes, search lights, barometers, grandometer and the like, not only to make it possible to get to ordinarily inaccessible points, but to enable Mr. Westgard to make maps and to collect road data, a line of work in which he has long been engaged for the National Highway association and which has won for him the title "The Man of Many Miles."—Advertisement.

GREATEST DRAMA OF ALL TIME IS COMING

"Civilization" to Be Presented at Jefferson Next Week.

No doubt you have heard them all say that there never would be another "The Birth of a Nation." Doubtless there never will be—just as there never will be another "Secret Service" in the melodrama that talks out loud. But this does not mean that Mr. Griffith exhausted the possibilities of the photoplay. He showed the way, Thos. H. Ince followed the lead and created a masterpiece. It is doubtful if it ever will be equalled. Indeed "Civilization" is so little like the ordinary drama of the theater, so far above the photoplays of today that one cannot find words to describe it.

"Civilization" boldly and thrillingly sets forth in actual pictures the processes of a wonderful dramatic imagination. The scenes are so terrible, yet so exquisitely poetic, tender and human, that the sheer beauty will linger in your memory for a long time to come. There's no escape from its utter power. It rushes you on and on, breathless for the sequel. It takes you miles and miles away from the four walls of the theater. A whole vast country is the stage—fields, roads, villages and cities, the sea and down in the depths of the sea, and far into the air above in biplane and gas ships.

"Civilization" has received the highest press endorsements ever accorded any form of entertainment, the critics throughout the country unanimously proclaiming this attraction as "the revelation in photoplay craft." The production was over one year in preparation, cost a million dollars to produce, required forty thousand people in the cast, the use of six thousand horses and loads of paraphernalia.

The massive attraction comes to the Jefferson for five days next week—Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday—as a regular road show attraction, carrying special men who produce the effects to make the picture more life-like, and special original music score played by an augmented orchestra.

BUILDING COMMITTEE MET THE ARCHITECTS

Plans for New Y. M. C. A. Home Discussed Wednesday Night.

The building and site committee for the Young Men's Christian association held a meeting Wednesday night with Charles R. Weatherhogg, architect, and the firm of Shattuck & Hussey, of Chicago, consulting architects for the new structure regarding features of construction and the desirability of certain sites with reference to the size of building to be erected. E. E. Stacy, state Y. M. C. A. secretary, conferred with the committee and architects. Another meeting of the building and site committee will be held Monday night.

In his work as state secretary Mr. Stacy has had relations with twenty-five of the thirty Y. M. C. A.'s in the state which have buildings. He was thus able to give the committee some valuable information as to the methods of construction. E. M. Pearce, general secretary of the Young Men's Christian association, said Thursday that it was the aim of the building committee to get the maximum results with the money at its disposal. To do this, he said, the experience of other Y. M. C. A. workers in helping erect buildings was always valuable.

COMMEND CITY ON TRAINING SCHOOL

Great Help Say Speakers at Sunday School Convention.

While speaking before the Allen County Sunday School convention at the Plymouth Congregational church Thursday the two state Sunday school workers, George N. Burnie and Miss Emma Leman, praised Fort Wayne for its community training school. Only two cities in the state have this feature, the other school being at Plymouth.

A good attendance marked the morning and afternoon sessions and it is expected to be a great deal larger in the evening. The morning session was opened by Rev. C. O. Shirey with devotional. Subjects vital to the growth and greater efficiency of Sunday schools were discussed and addresses covering the study of child life given.

The report of the treasurer showed the excellent financial condition of the association. The country survey produced statistics which showed the exact condition of work in the county and proved to be of great interest to the delegates and enabled each to understand the kind and quantity of work which must be done if Allen county is to hold a high position in the Sunday school work of the state.

The discussions of this evening's session will be of a more popular character than those of the day.

The Doctor's Advice

By Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply in any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Building Sts., Dayton, O., enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

Answer: I advise that you begin using three grain sulphur tablets (not sulphur pills) three times a day, after meals. These tablets are laxative, act on the liver, kidneys and bowels and tend to keep the blood pure, by arousing the eliminative functions. Relief should follow quickly.

"Secretary" writes: "I have pains in my spine and frequent headache in the back of head, fainting spells, twitching and trembling, nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of appetite and strength, and in fact am 'run down' when it comes to performing accustomed work and duties. Please advise."

Answer: In all such cases the assimilative functions have not kept pace with waste functions and a powerful harmless tonic treatment is needed. I find three grain cadomene tablets unexcelled and astonishingly beneficial in such cases and advise them for you.

Mrs. C. W. R. asks: "I suffer greatly owing to too much fat. Can you advise me of a good reduction remedy?"

Answer: Any well stocked pharmacy can supply you with 5 grain arbolon tablets, packed in sealed tubes with full directions for use. These tablets have proven wonderfully effective in reducing abnormal fat.

"Fern" writes: "I have suffered with a bad cough for some time and I am also weak and tired most of the time, which I think is due to the severe coughing. Can you give me a remedy?"

Answer: Yes, your weakness is due to the coughing, but you should be well relieved by using the following: Get a 25c package of essence mentho-laxene and make according to directions on the bottle, then take a teaspoonful every hour or two until the cough is cured. This makes a full pint of the very best and safest cough syrup. If your druggist does not have mentho-laxene, have him order it for you of the wholesale firm.

C. O. C. asks: "I am constipated, tongue coated, have headache, dizzy spells and indigestion sometimes. Please advise."

DUCK DISLIKES AIRSHIP.

Kiel, Germany, Nov. 17. Ornithologists have discovered that the wild duck does not like the aeroplane, apparently taking it for some huge bird of prey. From the North sea coast of Schleswig-Holstein it is reported that the great flocks of ducks which in previous years stopped for rest and food on the coastal sand islands on their flight from the far north to the south have avoided that region this year. The explanation offered is that they were frightened away by the many aeroplanes that are constantly scouting along the coast.

FOOD DICTATOR NAMED.

Budapest, Hungary, Nov. 17.—The appointment is announced of Baron Knerthy to the newly created position of food dictator for Hungary. The new official, whose post is regarded as of almost equal importance to that of a cabinet minister, is practically unknown in the capital. He has held for some time past the position of governor of a northern province, where his work won the admiration of Count Tisza.

40 WOMEN TO INSPECT RUSSIAN FACTORIES

Half the Workers in Some Districts in Czar's Empire Are Women.

Petrograd, Russia, Nov. 4.—The imperial duma has had under consideration a bill providing for the appointment of forty women as inspectors of factories. This bill was introduced in February, 1913, by the Moscow deputy, M. M. Novikov, and was initiated by the Moscow branch of the League of Equal Rights for Women.

The inspection of all factories and workshops by women is in contemplation. At its inception only the inspection of minors was provided for, a matter for which women are peculiarly fitted. Thereafter, the protection of labor through factory inspection was extended also to women workers.

The work of women in our industries threatens to bear hard on the work of men. As long ago as 1908 a census was taken of the increase, both relative and absolute, of the number of woman workers in our factories and workshops. The increase in the number of woman workers exceeded the total increase of workers, which shows that, in certain industries, the work of women is displacing the work of men.

And women's work is steadily finding its way into the more arduous industries.

In the first decade of the twentieth century the number of women employed in metallurgical industries doubled; in industries engaged in the manufacture of metal objects the number of woman workers increased one and a half times, and in chemical industries (which are younger) it more than doubled.

In 1900 25 per cent of the factory workers were women; in 1908 31 per cent, and in 1912 45 per cent.

The war has quickened this process, has made it conspicuous. Through evil necessity, women have been compelled to take up activities demanding special physical endurance, accompanied by a high degree of risk. Thus the immense new metallurgical undertakings in the Urals are possible under war conditions only because women fill all the positions of unskilled labor.

According to the data of the just published Journal of Commerce and Trade, of the number of those engaged in metal works, the women were from 25 per cent to 33 per cent in 1913; in 1914, at the end of 1915 the number of women was already 11 per cent; that is, the number of women had increased five or six times. In technical industries, the number of women, after one and a half years of war, had increased 74 per cent. In the Moscow district in 1915 there were 49.8 per cent of woman workers in all districts.

TOOK THE HURT OUT OF HER BACK.

Physicians report more cases of kidney trouble among women than men. Mrs. Anna Byrd, Tusculum, Ala., writes: "I was down with my back so I could not stand up more than half of the time. Foley Kidney Pills took all the hurt out. They are the best kidney pills I ever took." Rheumatic pains, swollen ankles, backache, stiff joints, sore muscles and sleep disturbing bladder ailments indicate disordered kidneys. Foley Kidney Pills act promptly. Mrs. William R. Beatty, of Bluffton, has been visiting with Ossian relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Otto Wilson had as dinner guests, Mr. and Mrs. Gibson Rogers. Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Morgan and son, Curtis, are just home from a week's visit near Reading, Mich., with Mr. and Mrs. Jonah Cousin, the latter a sister of Mr. Morgan. While in Michigan Mr. Morgan purchased a one hundred acre farm and will move to it in the spring. For this winter they will occupy the Jennie Stine property on East Levee street, where they moved Wednesday.

Ossian relatives had word this week that Russell Gorrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Gorrell, of Bremen, had been quite badly hurt at Denver, Colo., while participating in a ratification. He lost one eye and was otherwise much hurt, as the result of an explosion. Mr. Gorrell had gone there some weeks ago for his health, being a sufferer from asthma.

Mrs. Will Cotton was hostess for the Pleasant Word circle Tuesday night. Those present were Mesdames L. E. Miller, Harold Mahnensmith, Jesse Shaffer, Ernest Vananda, W. Kellogg, Sidney Swain, Tom White, E. R. Rector, Robert Hall, Fred Vananda, C. G. Koons, Maude Swarth, Ma Miller, Carrie Melching and Mrs. Oliver.

'MUM SHOW RECORDS BROKEN.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—All records were broken at the sixteenth annual chrysanthemum show of the department of agriculture, which recently closed with a week's exhibition, and as a result this annual event hereafter will be conducted on a much larger scale. During the exhibition this year nearly 25,000 people visited the government's greenhouses on the Mall and enjoyed the beauties of the rare collection of prize blooms. At the close of the show the government officials distributed many of the blooms to persons ill at their homes and in the various hospitals of the city. On Sunday, the last day of the show, more than 7,230 inspected the flowers and at times during the day there was a waiting line where some persons remained an hour before gaining admission.

INDIVIDUALS GROW RICHER.

Berlin, Nov. 17.—In making up the income list for 1916, which is to yield the city of Berlin 45,072,981 marks this year instead of 42,700,000 last year, the authorities find that the incomes of individuals in all classes of taxpayers have increased, while those of firms and business houses in general have as consistently decreased.

There are 30,834 more persons with taxable income under 3,000 marks than in 1915, and 595 more who are taxed on incomes over 3,000 marks than there were a year ago. On the other hand there are a total of 156 less firms who will help fill the city's coffers than there were.

Luke 2:1-10.

1 And it came to pass, that, as he was praying in a certain place, when he ceased, one of his disciples said unto him, Lord, teach us to pray, as John also taught his disciples.

2 And he said unto them, When ye pray, say, Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, as in heaven, so in earth.

3 Give us day by day our daily bread.

4 And forgive us our sins; for we also forgive every one that is indebted to us. And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil.

5 And he said unto them, Which of you shall have a friend, and shall go unto him at midnight, and say unto him, Friend, lend me three loaves;

6 For a friend of mine in his journey is come to me, and I have nothing to set before him?

7 And he from within shall answer and say, Trouble me not: the door is now shut, and my children are with me in bed; I cannot rise and give thee.

8 I say unto you, Though he will not rise and give him, because he is his friend, yet because of his importunity he will rise and give him as many as he needeth.

9 And I say unto you, Ask and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you.

10 For every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1916.

State Highway Department

One of the newly-elected members of the legislature from Indianapolis is already framing for introduction a bill to create a state highway department, modeled along the lines suggested by the highway bureau of the department of agriculture, in order that Indiana may share in the federal appropriation for good roads. There will no doubt be other bills of similar character and like purpose, and it will be up to the state solons to select the best one or to evolve an altogether different measure embodying the better points of each of them.

Past opposition to the creation of a state highway department has been general and pronounced, chiefly because it was feared that its machinery might be expensive, its control too highly centralized, and that it would be too little disposed to give hearing to residents and property owners along the roads regarding improvements. Within the past few years the state highway bureau idea has gained many friends, particularly among those who have come to realize that returns from expenditure for road improvement are infinitely greater when road improvement is scientifically and systematically done, than when the piecemeal, haphazard plan is followed, and when, as was the case in many instances, it was followed without competent direction and without sufficient care.

It is freely admitted on every hand that there has been tremendous waste in road-building through both incompetence and neglect. There will be agreement that recent progress toward betterment has been conspicuous, and there will be a general desire for its continuance. The opportunity to secure federal aid that amounts to $135,000 for the first year, $270,000 for the second year and an increasing sum for the succeeding years is one which Indiana has no desire to spurn, and we trust there may be compliance with the terms under which it may be obtained. So splendid a state as Indiana should be first in highway improvement as in everything else.

Another interesting sight these days is the long procession of job-hunters who are encamped on the trail of successful republicans who have just been elected to state office in Indiana. The scramble started the moment it became apparent Mr. Goodrich and his ticket had been swept in by Hoosier voters, and it has been gaining strength, height, depth, width, thickness, numerical scope and momentum every day since that historic occasion. There may not, and doubtless will not, be enough good things to go round, but despite Mr. Goodrich's campaign declarations that he intended to wipe out an uncounted number of useless state positions under a reform and business-like administration of affairs, there are indications that meat tickets may be provided for a good many of the faithful during the next few years. And we wish 'em all well. Grabbin' is free, but it's satisfying only when you succeed in being able to hold fast after you've got something.

And speaking of preparedness, it may be noted that one big Indiana brewery is now developing as a side line the manufacture of carbonated and clarified sweet cider—a non-alcoholic beverage that is said to be attractive, refreshing and thirst-quenching, and its exploitation on a large scale was begun at the Indiana apple show now in progress at West Baden. It is pretty clear that this particular brewery sees what's coming in a few years at most, and is displaying foresight in selecting a soft spot on which to alight when the blow-up comes.

Ninety-one electoral votes from the equal suffrage states divided on the presidential race as follows: Wilson, 57; Hughes, 34. The score is chiefly interesting as affording an illuminating illustration of what happened to the effort to line up a distinctly woman's party and line it up wholly for the republican nominee. The women appear to have very sensibly refused to divide on sex lines. They followed sane judgment and voted their sentiments as individuals, precisely as did the male voter.

Car shortages are rather intangible things—interesting enough by way of variation in conversational theme but hardly worth worrying about—until they begin to result in coal famine with the mercury headed downward and going strong. Then we begin to realize that there are drawbacks even in a situation which finds the country with so blamed much business that it cannot properly take care of it all.

Perhaps, too, you fondly imagined you were through with the election business for awhile, but you're mistaken. Another vote comes along in Indiana on Saturday, December 16. It's for road supervisors, when the 1,016 townships in Indiana, voting between 2 o'clock and 5 o'clock in the afternoon, will select highway officials.

Doubtless a good many of the horses forced to stand unblanketed in the chill these days cannot help noticing that the radiators of standing automobiles are a good deal more fortunate in that regard than are the equines they have all but supplanted.

No Place to Ride

THE DEUTSCHLAND.

The principal item in the submarine Deutschland's supposedly secret cargo is said to be nickel; and most of it is from Canada!

What a feat for the Deutschland's directors, to obtain war supplies from a British colony, by devious methods, and to sneak it across the ocean under the very keels of the British navy that "rules the waves"!

Whatever commercial value the Deutschland may have, and whatever point there may be in its masked threat to the United States, the strange craft's greatest value to the Germans must lie in its ability to make the lion mad.

The more fury Britain wastes on inward fuming the less she will have to use against the outer enemy.

A JOB FOR A REAL INVENTOR.

A Kansas genius has invented a "shaving harness." It's an affair with straps that you put over your shoulders, and it holds a shaving mug with brush, a shelf (grooved) for the razor, and an adjustable mirror. It is so arranged that as you turn your head to one side and down the mirror follows automatically, this being controlled by movement of the shoulder straps. Thus any man can shave in comfort and without bothering the neck.

Our thanks to this Kansas inventor. When our flier is paid for well by one of his contraptions. But a greater debt will be humanity's to that man, blessed be his auburn beard, who invents an unlooseable or self-finding collar button!!

UN-AMERICAN.

Americans are known the world over for their gameness. They are good losers, the Europeans will admit.

When it is officially established that President Wilson has been re-elected, Charles Evans Hughes will lose no time in sending him a telegram of congratulations and good wishes.

Hughes has lost the greatest prize in the world, today. Everyone, winner or loser, gives him credit for his fight and, when that telegram is sent, will praise him for his American spirit of gameness.

But along comes Rev. Francis von Glafenbeck, of Tillamook, Ore., and resigns his citizenship of the United States just because Wilson has been re-elected! The pastor, let it be known, is a naturalized citizen.

"To see a man returned to power after an administration and policy such as we have seen during the past four years is too much for me," he writes.

It is too bad that Paston von Glafenbeck has been disappointed. All good Americans will grieve with him, for that, just as they express condolence for the losing candidate.

But here is where good American tolerance ends. A real American is a "sport." He gives credit where credit is due. He hears and heeds the voice of the majority.

Did the pastor of Tillamook ever witness a baseball or football game where thousands of fans rooted for one side or the other? Did he notice the applause the losers were always ready to give the winners?

Did the pastor realize that, when he swore his allegiance to the United States, he also swore his faith in American spirit and gameness?

Let's hope Europe does not hear of this extraordinary conduct of a naturalized American! If she does, let's hope she does not take it as a criterion upon which to judge the rest of America.

Taft as Peace Envoy.

BY THEODORE MARBURG.
(Former United States Minister to Belgium.)

To prevent such failure as that of the congress of Vienna the nations should declare war now in favor of "some sort of joint guarantee of peace"—President Wilson's words—to be set up after the war.

If, for example, the allies, embracing so many states, should do this now, it would go far to insure the ultimate success of the project. And so to declare their purpose now would not only strengthen their cause in the neutral world—just as Lincoln's proclamation of emancipation in the middle of our civil war won for the northern cause the sympathy of the world—but it would likewise stiffen the purpose of their own armies; for men who felt that they were fighting to help end war would fight with new zeal.

The best way to secure this declaration from the powers now is to ask no less a personage than an ex-president of the United States, Mr. Taft, to accept the mission and go abroad for this purpose. Until the United States is ready to commit herself to a plan of which her leading statesmen approve, but which involves so radical a departure from her traditional policies that it ought perhaps to be first indorsed by a joint resolution of congress, the task of getting the European powers to declare now in favor of the principle can be undertaken most appropriately by one of their own number.

No one is better fitted to urge this course upon them and to co-operate in acquainting the various chancelleries with the project than Mr. Taft, who knows the problem in all its phases and has been such a consistent friend of improved international organization.

WOMAN SANTA HAS SECRET PRAYER TO MAKE TOYS "LIVE."

Boston, Mass., Nov. 14.—There's a woman Santa Claus in Boston!

Mrs. Maria Weniger has imported from her native home in the Black Forest district of Germany, ideas for making children happy and has her own workshop where she carves out weird creatures of wood and paints them to look more quaint and humorous.

Since the earliest days she could remember, this woman Santa Claus had a knack for making toys. When a child she whittled playthings for herself and friends. Later she took a course in man-the secret, the incantation, you must say over the dolls and other toys before they are real live things," says Mrs. Weniger. "Before this, they are just pieces of wood."

But the prayer is Mrs. Weniger's secret. If that were known by others, she would not be a woman Santa Claus, she contends.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage
Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Now, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease. Advertisement.

Lagrange Man May Lose His Arm as a Result.

Lagrange, Ind., Nov. 16.—The bite of a rat may cause Will Davis to lose his arm. Monday afternoon Mr. Davis attempted to release a live rat from a trap at the Timmis meat market, where he is employed. The rodent suddenly turned on him and bit him on the left hand near the base of the index finger. The hand became inflamed at once and started to swell, giving him much pain. A local physician was consulted, but he was unable to stop the swelling, which was rapidly affecting his whole arm. Fearing blood poisoning, Mr. Davis was taken to a hospital in Fort Wayne by Dr. C. C. Rozelle and James Brady.

Mr. Mohr, (the gentleman in question) in his pre-election ardor for the G. O. P. candidate for the presidency, made a bet with a fellow townsman, a strong pro-Wilson man, that he would walk to Van Wert backwards if Hughes was defeated.

It is now up to Mr. Mohr to make good, which he says he will do. He will start from Grover Hill Friday and expects to reach Main street, Van Wert, via Washington street, in a space of time that would do Weston credit.

The bride's bouquet was composed of bride roses and swansonia blossoms and was made with a shower of ribbon and flowers. MOTHERS' CLUB MEETING.

Uncommonly Good Program Carried Out at Important Gathering.

When the president, Mrs. Arthur Remmel, called the Mothers' club to order at the Y. W. C. A., on Wednesday afternoon, it was a large and later a most keenly interested audience of women that responded. The announcement that both Mr. and Mrs. George Bailhe would appear on the program and give something unusual from the customary routine of club meetings had served to attract much interest and everyone was glad she had been there when the program ended. Mr. Bailhe's talk concerned the "Value of Music to the Child," and every one present caught the practical as well as educational idea, that music is no longer merely an accomplishment for those who have money, or just worth while to those of marked talent. Mr. Bailhe made plain that music is a necessary part of an education, the cultivation of the ear being as an important factor in its study as the training of the fingers on an instrument. A new thought to many was that as child is taught music in the home that the rest of the family may be taught to enjoy music, too. Intelligent musical enjoyment is a part of popular education and is a part of the life of many things, in fact, in theory, and through ear cultivation that they might otherwise miss altogether. Mr. Bailhe emphasized the fact that the first teacher of the child in music should be one of the best, that faulty instruction at the beginning may be almost impossible to overcome. Quality and not price is considered by the careful mother. Mr. Bailhe characterized as an illusion the considering of one "method" or another, saying there is but one correct method, and that is to have none at all, but to consider each pupil as a separate individual with regard to his talent, ability, temperament and natural inclination to work. Mrs. Bailhe sang a group of songs in a truly delightful manner with Mr. Bailhe at the piano. Mr. Bailhe answered questions willingly after his talk. Miss Erickson, a kindergarten teacher in the South Wayne school, gave a talk to mothers that was very practical and interesting. Miss Calmerton spoke of the difficulty to secure proper picture films to show children and highly recommended the story hour at the public library every Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. The Mothers' club also took action on a plan of work for which they adopted resolutions commending the plan of the Rotary club whereby each member has agreed to look after one new boy until he reaches manhood, were passed by the Fort Wayne Mothers' club. The plan was characterized as one of the most worthy undertakings that could have been conceived for the help, advancement and encouragement of the young street merchants. The secretary of the Mothers' club was instructed to send a copy of the resolutions to the president of the Rotary club.

South Wayne School P.-T. Club.

The Parent-Teacher club of the South Wayne school will meet on Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Rev. E. W. Averill will speak on "The Golden Mean." Parents of the district are cordially invited to be present and assist in the work of the club.

AT THE PALACE.

THE METROPOLITAN DANCERS.

George and Mae LeFevre's Famous Act at the Palace.

The international dancing revue, an annual offering arranged by the famous exponents of the modern dance, George and Mae LeFevre, with a group of six Metropolitan dancers, is the feature attraction on the bill that will run the remainder of the week at the New Palace. Lavishly costumed, brilliantly staged and gracefully executed this dancing revue is the mark at which all others in vaudeville shoot. For several years the LeFevres have taken on tour a group of the most promising dancers of New York, presenting them with remarkable success over the vaudeville circuits.

Rice, Elmer and Tom, in their tramoline act; Ash and Shaw, presenting The Mosquito Trust, a foolish farce; Edna Brothers, and company appearing in the novelty hit, The Might Have Been; Lane and Harper in the snappy, smart comedy skit, The Manicist; and the Man, and the Swiss song birds in harmony and yodeling, complete a bill that includes twenty-three artists.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

"Broadway After Dark" Again This Evening.

"Broadway After Dark," the modern melodrama in four acts, which will come to the Majestic tonight, is from the pen of W. C. Herman, and is offered by the producer, Halton Fowler. The play tells the story of the downfall and the redemption of a young woman and the story is told with many thrills, with many stirring climaxes and with many good comedy points. It is a human play, in which some excellent types of modern life are depicted vividly.

"The Girl of the Whispering Pines" on Saturday.

The International Amusement company has touched the psychological moment in presenting Miss Grace Joyner, supported by an excellent cast of players, in Sherman L. Jones' great play, "The Girl of the Whispering Pines." This splendid production comes to the Majestic theater on Saturday, matinee and night.

This startling melodrama is gripping in interest and filled every moment of it with tense action and good, bubbling comedy.

To see "The Girl of the Whispering Pines" adds much to the sum of human happiness and enjoyment.

The play is a great laugh producer and yet it holds you in a vice-like grip. It is uplifting and makes you feel that there is something worth living for in life. It tells the story of a lone girl of a loving and tender nature, of how she was left motherless, the death of her mother, of her travels to the city and to finally find a home among the whispering pines of New Mexico.

AT THE TEMPLE.

Playgoers are this week having every opportunity to see a first-class production of "Arizona" at the Temple theater.

ter, as the stock company is offering Augustus Thomas' great story of the western plains, ranch life and military as one of the best drawing cards of the season. There are no battle scenes, or letting of blood, although the military scenes are suggestive of that sort of thing. Instead the author has written a drama full of human interest around the eleventh U. S. cavalry, who is the beau ideal of a soldier. True to his commanding officer, who is also his friend and benefactor, Lieut. Denton frustrates the attempt of Col. Bonham's wife to elope with an army officer, who has momentarily turned her head, and in so doing finds himself enmeshed in a network of circumstantial evidence which causes his colonel to believe him to be the guilty man. Sooner than tell the truth, which would wreck the domestic happiness of Col. Bonham's home, he sacrifices his chosen military career and leaves the service. Later the young officer is exonerated and wins a bride in the bargain, who is the colonel's own sister-in-law. There will be two performances at the Temple today and two as usual on Saturday.

Next week a great story of dramatized human interest and appeal will be seen at the Temple with "Deserted at the Altar" as the special attraction.

AT THE JEFFERSON.

E. H. Sothorn, Noted Stage Star, in Film Drama at Jefferson.

With the distinguished American actor, E. H. Sothorn, and the charming London beauty star, Peggy Hyland, the Jefferson today is offering a program of unusual excellence in "The Chatter," with another chapter of "Gloria's Romance" by Billie Burke as the companion offering.

The supreme genius of the modern stage, the man whose mastery will leave its indelible influence on the drama for all time gives the most wonderful performance of his entire career in this production. His motion picture appearance vindicates every claim to distinction and respect which the motion picture ever possessed; his art elevates the theme to realms of genius and renders an inspired portrayal. Assisting E. H. Sothorn in the charming London beauty star, Peggy Hyland, who has never appeared to better advantage than in this play, which constitutes one of the best-balanced bills seen at the Jefferson.

"The Chatter" is a smashing story of the revolt of woman against the bondage of tradition and the tyranny of a man's domination. To the superb work of Sothorn and Peggy Hyland is added the wonderful stage effects of the master producer, Frederick Thomson, which goes to make up one of the best ever unfolded on the screen. Billie Burke will be an extra feature today, which constitutes one of the best-balanced bills seen at the Jefferson.

REALTY MEN DIVIDED

REGARDING TAX LAWS

Theme is Big Subject Before State Convention at Evansville.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 16.—Booming enthusiasm on the part of hosts and guests marked the opening of the third annual convention of the Indiana Real Estate association here yesterday afternoon, which will continue two more days. Real estate men of the capital city of Indiana's "Pocket District," presented streets all belaguered and cluttered with the spirit of welcome.

Taxation and city planning are the pre-eminent issues that confront the convention. Decisive action is certain and the temper of the delegates now is to declare in favor of radical revision of the taxing system and to push with all their power the legislation now proposed for a city planning commission in Indiana. Next to these subjects come those of agricultural development and a state road department, both of which are intimately linked with the progress of the real estate business in Indiana.

It is probable that the convention will approve the movement to bring a federal land bank and a government armor plate plant to Indiana. Indianapolis is accepted as the logical place for the land bank and Evansville will receive the benefit of the association's organized effort on the armor plant proposal.

These six topics form the basis of recommendations made by the governors to the committee on resolutions, and a report incorporating practically all of them is expected when the committee is heard Friday afternoon.

On the taxation question there is a divergence of views and it is probable that the discussion to be held tomorrow afternoon, following an address by William L. Elder, of Indianapolis, will show the cleavage between adherents of constitutional amendment and property classification, and the others who believe that the present tax laws are adequate if they are strictly enforced. Mr. Elder, who is chairman of the special committee appointed by Governor Ralston to study the tax question, indicated that he will propose reforms that will not require either a constitutional amendment or property classification.

Schaaf Has Bill.

A. H. Schaaf, of Fort Wayne, chairman of the committee, has drafted a bill which, with such amendments as are considered necessary, will be presented to the next legislature. While real estate men generally recognize the need for municipal regulation of streets, buildings and other conditions of private property that affect values adversely, there is a feeling among the delegates here that the Schaaf bill is too drastic and should give more latitude to subdividers of rural or suburban additions. This object is not vital, however, in the opinion of the men who urge it, and they are positive that a bill embodying the essential ideas of all members can be drafted and pushed forward by the legislature.

Midday luncheons and committee sessions put a kink into the schedule of the first session yesterday and it was 2:40 o'clock when the gavel of Pres. Lee J. Ninde, of Fort Wayne, fell. The large auditorium of the Evansville chamber of commerce, on the top floor of the new eight-story building of the Old State National bank, was well filled with visitors and local newcomers. The spirit of jolly fellowship that permeated the hosts was infectious and uproarious applause, ably abetted by songs, horns and ear-piercing rattlers, broke the thread of the afternoon's short session at frequent intervals.

Mayor Delivers Welcome.

After an invocation by Rev. Morton P. Giffin, the first address of welcome was delivered by Mayor Ben Bosse, who, besides mayoring, does considerable real estate work. He touched indirectly on the need for a city planning commission and complimented real estate men in Indiana for the lively co-operation to their power the legislation which they displayed through their local boards and state associations.

Dr. John R. Mitchell, president of the Evansville real estate board and the probable successor of Mr. Ninde as state president, spoke a welcome on behalf of local agents.

President Ninde's address covered briefly the principal activities of the year, including the promotion of membership, the development of new boards, of which three are now forming, and the splendid financial condition of the association. Mr. Ninde spoke in highly complimentary terms of his predecessor, J. Edward Morris, of Indianapolis, who, he said, had set a gauge of efficiency which subsequent presidents would find it difficult to match.

The report of Treasurer Jay A. Egbert, of Indianapolis, showed receipts of $6,195.45 in the year and expenditures of $6,185.27.

The following committees were announced:

Resolutions—Jay A. Egbert, Indianapolis; A. H. Schaaf, Fort Wayne; C. P. White, Lafayette; J. W. Paris, Peru; W. N. Bergen, South Bend; Orin Jessup, Tipton; H. G. Mauzy, Gary.

Nominations—J. P. Pfister, Terre Haute; L. H. Moore, Fort Wayne; M. S. Sonntag, Evansville; J. S. Cruse, Indianapolis; J. J. Kelley, Gary; William C. Meyers, St. Francisville; Joseph Bruns, New Albany.

Auditing—John W. Holmes, Portland; H. C. Venn, Indianapolis; J. C. Shafer, Anderson.

South Bend, Anderson and Kokomo are contestants for the 1917 convention. The latter two cities probably will pool their interests and decide which one shall make the fight against South Bend. The precedent has been established in the association of giving the presidency to the city in which the convention is held and under this rule Dr. John R. Mitchell would become the successor of Mr. Ninde.

PAINTING BRYAN'S PORTRAIT.

New York Artist Prepares Picture for Department of State.

New York, Nov. 16.—A New York artist is painting a portrait of William Jennings Bryan to hang on the walls of the department of state at Washington beside the portraits of other former secretaries of state. Several months ago Mr. Bryan was asked to find an artist to paint his portrait, but campaigning in the west caused a postponement of the search until he came to New York after election.

Anna Case

the miracle girl of the Metropolitan, proving by direct comparison of her living voice with Edison's Re-Creation of it that the one is absolutely indistinguishable from the other.

There Are Only Two Ways

There are only two ways in which you can become fully familiar with and truly appreciative of a great artist's voice—or instrumental performance.

The first way is to hear him sing—or play.

The second way is to hear the Re-creation of his voice—or instrumental performance—on the New Edison.

No talking machine is sufficiently realistic in its reproduction of an artist's performance to give you a true conception.

The New Edison Is Not a Talking Machine

It differs from any and all talking machines in that talking machines give but a hollow imitation of an artist while the New Edison literally Re-creates the artist's performance.

Great artists have stood beside the New Edison and have sung—or played—in direct comparison with it.

More than 200,000 music lovers have seen and heard these comparisons and have been utterly unable to distinguish the living artist's performance from Edison's Re-creation of that performance.

More than two hundred of America's leading newspapers concede freely in their own columns that the New Edison Re-creates music so perfectly that the Re-creation cannot be distinguished from the original.

The New York Globe refers to the New Edison as "the photograph with a soul." The New York Tribune says, "Edison has snared the soul of music."

You Do Not Need Imagination

With the New Edison in your home you do not have to imagine what an artist's voice sounds like. When you play an Edison Re-creation of that artist's voice you know exactly how the artist's voice would sound if you heard it in real life.

Visit Our Store

We want you to hear "the photograph with a soul."

We want you to hear the Re-created voices of Emmy Destinn, Margarete Matzenauer, Marie Rappold, Anna Case, Julia Heinrich, Alice Verlet, Lucrezia Bori, Zenatello, Anselmi, Aldoleno, Urtius, Gortiz and Chalmers.

We want you to hear the Re-creation of the masterly bowing of Albert Spalding and Carl Fleisch.

We want you to hear the Re-creation of every kind of musical instrument.

There is no obligation to buy. We merely want you to come and hear and be convinced that "Edison has snared the soul of music," just as the New York Tribune says.

CORNERS ON FOOD ON LAND WILL BE PROBED

Federal Official Has His Own Ideas as to High Living Cost.

BY BASIL M. MANLY.
Washington, Nov. 16.—Louis F. Post, assistant United States secretary of labor today, discussing the rapidly increasing prices of all elements of the cost of living, said:

"Until there has been opportunity for complete investigation of the recent sharp increase in prices, it would be rash for one to hazard any opinion either as to its causes or remedies.

"However, there are two primary causes which operate constantly on prices and which should be carefully and thoroughly investigated. These two causes I may call 'individual cornering' and 'social cornering.'

"By 'individual cornering,' I mean the conscious action of one individual or a group of individuals to monopolize some of the products upon which the people are dependent. This occurs when a group of dealers restrict the sale of eggs or when a great trust undertakes to control some primary product. There is much evidence that this has been operating in the present crisis. The department of justice is now directing its investigations along this line.

"Of greater importance as a cause of high prices is 'social cornering' by which the use of the land and natural resources is so restricted that there is a maladjustment of national opportunities. The holding out of use of land which any human being can utilize is equivalent to a corner, not only in the land itself, but also in all the products which might be obtained from that land.

"The great problem of the nation is to secure the maximum utilization of its land and natural resources by its people. If all the available farm land in the United States should be put to efficient use, there would be no such prices.

"It is of the greatest importance that the wage standard of all classes of labor be adjusted to meet the rapid increase in the cost of living. A nation is burning the candle at both ends when it fails at their standard of living.

"But where the welfare of the entire business fabric of the nation is dependent upon its laborers, not only as producers but as consumers of its products, the most elemental business policy would seem to dictate that this problem should take precedence over all others."

IRELAND CROP FAILURE.

Dublin, Ireland, Nov. 16.—Ireland is faced with partial failure of its all-important potato crop. The official estimates indicate a yield of at least a third, and probably a half, less than last year. The loss to farmers through the damage to potatoes is figured at $15,000,000.

Trial Would Open German Secrets, Says Alleged Spy

Graves, called the "international spy," is charged with attempting to blackmail Countess von Bernstorff, the German ambassador's wife. He has expressed confidence the trial of his case will not be pressed because, he says, the code letters he is charged with trying to sell to the countess contained German diplomatic secrets which would be revealed on the witness stand and which would put the ambassador in a serious position.

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME!

SHIPPING INCREASE SEEN.

Edinburgh, Scotland, Nov. 16.—A striking illustration of the increase in value of shipping since 1914 is given in a will contest now before the Edinburgh courts.

The estate involved is that of John Galt, a Glasgow shipowner, who died in December, 1914. At the date of his death his property was officially valued at slightly over $400,000. The division of the estate was prevented by litigation among the heirs, and it was stated at the final hearing in the case that the value of the property has increased, during the time devoted to legal wrangling, to over a million dollars.

DRASTIC ACTION IF ROADS FAIL TO OBEY

McChord is Determined to Have Coal Cars Sent Back Promptly.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 16.—Commenting upon the apparent failure of several carriers to fully observe informal instructions for the return of foreign coal cars to the owning roads, Commissioner C. C. McChord, of the interstate commerce commission, said today that continued laxity in this connection would result in drastic action.

Today when called upon for reports as to what their lines had done to carry out the informal instructions, carriers for a number of carriers reported that cars were being returned to certain lines and that the "conservation rules were being lived up to," or that they had not understood the commissioners' instructions to apply to roads which had on their lines fewer coal cars than they owned. "The commission," said Mr. McChord, "does not want to do anything drastic. It has preferred to achieve its objects through argument with the carriers, but it seems that this method is not meeting with success, and I am less sanguine than I was a few days since that efforts along this line will be successful. The railroads do not seem to trust each other; they do not want to take each other's word."

"If the commission is forced to take drastic measures it will be done and I will serve notice now that I am done issuing informal requests and that next instructions you get unless those already given are complied with will be in the form of formal orders from the full commission."

B. P. LUGIBHL IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Business Manager of Bible Training School Passes Away.

B. P. Lugibhl, business manager of the Fort Wayne Bible Training school, passed away at noon Thursday at the school where he had made his home. He was 67 years of age. The deceased had been in failing health for the past year, but had been seriously ill only about four weeks.

Mr. Lugibhl was born in Bluffton, Ohio, but came to Fort Wayne when the Bible Training school was founded in this city. Since that time with the exception of two years he had been serving in the capacity of business manager for the institution.

He is survived by the widow and two children—Rev. Walter Lugibhl, of Lima, Ohio, and Mrs. Hinkley, a missionary in China. Both children, however, were at his bedside when he passed away.

The remains will be shipped to Bluffton, Ohio, Saturday morning, where funeral services will be held and burial take place.

20 DRIVERS IN START FOR VANDERBILT CUP

Santa Monica, Cal., Nov. 16.—Twenty drivers got away today in the eleventh Vanderbilt cup road race with M. J. Moosie and Lewis Jackson getting the starter's flag first, the others following in pairs at ten seconds' intervals over the 8.401 mile triangular boulevard course for thirty-five circuits, a total distance of 294.035 miles.

Besides the cup and prize money there was at stake for the winner 500 points in the season's American automobile association's competition for the title of "master driver of the world," and $13,500, in which Johnny Aitken has a lead of 240 points over Dario Resta.

Fair weather with a slight fog promised good conditions for the long grind, and there were expectations of breaking the record of 75.67 miles an hour, established on the same course by De Palma, winner in 1914.

Johnny Aitken and Earl Cooper fifth and third in starting order, drove into the lead immediately and crossed the line at the end of the first lap with Moosie and the field following. Unofficial time for the first lap was six minutes and fifteen seconds, bettering the record.

GULF STATES STEEL JUMP SPECTACULAR

New York, Nov. 16.—Recent upward movements in the securities of the Gulf States Steel company in the stock market culminated today in spectacular advances. The common stock, which a few months ago sold at 71, today touched 193, an overnight gain of 34 points and 64 since Saturday. The second preferred gained 23 points to 290, an advance since Saturday of 61 points.

Gulf States Steel is a reorganization of the old Southern Iron and Steel company, with headquarters at Birmingham, Ala. The company's capitalization is small and its earnings for the past year are reported to be very large. There has also been rumors of a consolidation of

FIRST FLOWER SHOW OPENS AT ANTHONY

Fort Wayne and New Haven Organization Offers Its First Exhibit.

The first flower show to be given by the Fort Wayne and New Haven florists' association since its organization two weeks ago opened Thursday afternoon in the ballroom on the second floor of the Hotel Anthony and will continue tonight. Miss Rhoda Doswell is president of the association; Edgar Wenninghoff, vice president; Miss Marguerite Flick, secretary, and Herman Leitz, treasurer. A. J. Lanterner is general chairman of the show.

There are eight florist firms with displays, including A. J. Lanterner, New Haven Floral company, George Doswell, F. J. Knecht & Co., Flick Floral Co., W. J. and M. S. Vesey, Edgar Wenninghoff and Markey Brothers.

"The chief purpose of the show is to get people acquainted with flowers," declared Mr. Lanterner. By attending the show, he said, the public would be better able to fix their opinions as to the kind of flowers they wanted to buy.

In discussing the fact of its being the first show held by the new association, Miss Margaret Flick, secretary, said it would be an annual affair and that the association hoped to hold its next display in the new convention hall.

The ballroom was a mass of flowers as the florists in many ways had to crowd their exhibits to fit the space allotted. The Franklin orchestra furnished music from 3 to 5 and tonight will play from 8 to 11 o'clock.

The Flick Floral company offered a display of chrysanthemums, roses, potted plants and other flowers in season. As a special feature wax figures representing a wedding party were erected in a corner of the floral exhibit of the Flick Floral company. There was also a table decorated in flowers of the season. (Wax figures furnished by courtesy of Wolf & Dessauer and table by D. N. Foster Furniture company).

The display of A. J. Lanterner, including ferns, decorative and blooming plants, stock baskets and a special feature, the Anthony Wayne fern. The Lanterner display also included white, yellow, pink and red (novelty) chrysanthemums, with American Beauty roses.

The Doswell display included lilies, roses, potted plants and chrysanthemums in the usual varieties.

Has Display of Orchids.

The exhibit of W. J. and M. S. Vesey was made up of orchids and a general plant collection of the New Haven Floral company contained carnations, spring and bedding plants.

The display of F. J. Knecht & Co. specialized in the Russell roses; also the Sawyer rose.

Roses, chrysanthemums, ferns and potted plants were in the display of Edgar Wenninghoff.

The exhibit of Markey Brothers has roses, potted plants and all flowers in season.

Invitations to the show were sent out in limited number, but the public is cordially invited to attend both afternoon and evening.

PUTS BAN ON NEW YEAR'S HILARITY

Police Chief Lenz Will Allow No Liquor to Be Sold.

The new year will steal over Fort Wayne like the passing of a silent winged angel.

In the fading hours of the old year the solemn chant of well-known and church organs to soothe the flagging spirits of that ancient wielder of the scythe. Approach of the new-born year will not be heralded by the blare of brass, groans of the deep basso and tinkle of wine glasses.

The last day of 1916 is on Sunday this year. The New Year's revel would start on Sunday evening if the watch were to be kept in buffet or hotel wine-rooms. But no such orgies as have been known to prevail in past years will mark the coming of 1917.

Police Chief Lenz says the lid is on tight. Saloons are to be closed on Saturday night and be kept shut until Monday morning. No sale of wine will be allowed in any hotel on Sunday evening.

In some of the larger cities wine-rooms are to open from 12 until 1 o'clock on Monday morning. There will be none of that in Fort Wayne. Police will see that no joy feasts start on Sunday evening.

"This drinking beer and whisky is not my idea of a proper New Year's celebration anyway," Lenz said, Thursday. "There should be some meditation when another year is counted out."

At least 1917 headaches are to be tabooed in Fort Wayne this year. No use for anybody to save their nickels for a grand "send off" for none of the sparkle of wine, rattle of ice, bits of broken song and a glorious, hilarious, reeling into the next year goes.

SULTAN ELATED AT TURKISH VICTORIES

Hopes for Ratification of a New Agreement With Germany.

Amsterdam, Nov. 16.—A Constantinople dispatch says the sultan opened parliament in the presence of the cabinet and the German ambassador with a speech from the throne in which he referred to the Turkish victories at the Dardanelles and eulogized the achievements of Turkish troops in all theaters of war.

The sultan said that after the abolition of the capitulations, granting extra territorial rights to foreigners, Turkey began negotiations with Germany in regard to an agreement to regulate their legal relations on the basis of European laws and the principle of reciprocity. He hoped the agreement would soon be ratified.

PRaises His Troops.

Berlin, Nov. 16.—A Constantinople dispatch says that in the speech from the throne the sultan dwelt on the achievements of the Turkish troops at the Dardanelles, at Kut-el-Amara and in Persia, saying: "One of our aims in the war is to obtain good conditions for the free evolution of Persia." Turkish soldiers, he continued, had freed Kermanshah and Hamadan from the Russians and were approaching Teheran.

"Our troops fighting in Yemen (south-western Arabia) far from the fatherland," the sultan continued, "have driven the British army to the district of Aden. Troops fighting in Tripoli under command of Turkish officers have inflicted defeats on the enemy."

The ruler eulogized Aikmed Pasha, chief of the Senussi tribesmen (who had been fighting against the Italians in Libya), and said that he had been defeated by the irresistible advance of the armies of the central powers. In Galicia and Dobruja Turkish soldiers were fighting bravely side by side with the most courageous and best organized armies of the world.

AND THE LITTLE FORD RAMBLER RIGHT ALONG

A Ford runabout turned the corner at Wayne and Clinton streets. There was a loud report as that of an explosion. The car lurched forward. As it neared Calhoun street a large piece of sheet metal, perhaps tin, went clatter-clatter to the pavement. The driver jumped out and picked up the article, threw it into the wheel and resumed his position at the wheel. He got the signal and went on his way rejoicing.

The entire muffler was blown to pieces when gas gathered there and then exploded. Nevertheless the little Ford rambler went right along.

ODD FELLOWS WILL MEET HERE FRIDAY

Afternoon and Evening Sessions Will Be Held at Majestic.

Officers in charge of the I. O. O. F. meeting in Fort Wayne Friday, are expecting between 1,500 and 2,000 Odd Fellows. The Marion Rebekah lodge, No. 247, will exemplify the Rebekah degree at 2 o'clock and the Indianapolis lodge, No. 465, will give the first, second and third degree in Odd Fellowship at 7:30 o'clock. The work will be given at the Majestic theater.

These degree staffs are among the best in the world and this is one of the few opportunities which Odd Fellows of this section of the state will get to see their work.

Every Odd Fellow and Rebekah within a radius of fifty miles is invited, urged and expected to be present. Many surrounding cities will send large delegations. A most interesting program has been arranged.

Among the state officers who will be present at this gathering are Grand Master Jesse MacBeth, of this city; Fred A. Stewart, grand patriarch, of Indianapolis; Miss Florence McGregor, president of Rebekah assembly; Dr. A. A. Spears, deputy grand master of Brazil; Judge W. E. Deupree, grand warden, of Franklin; Fred A. Rogers, grand secretary of the state of Michigan, and Grand Master Schupbach, of Michigan, and Lois Chesley, secretary of Rebekah assembly, of Marion, Ind.

GIVES PRECAUTIONS AGAINST DIPHTHERIA

Dr. Gilpin Explains How Spread of Disease May Be Prevented.

Diphtheria days are here. Indianapolis is in the grasp of a diphtheria epidemic, which has reached critical proportions.

Dr. J. H. Gilpin, secretary to the board of health, gave the following precautions Thursday, to be followed by way of preventing diphtheria reign in Fort Wayne.

"Take children out of school the minute they are discovered to have sore throat."

"Call in a physician. Do not take chances by trying the old home remedies. Diphtheria may develop in a day."

"Keep the sick children at home. Do not let them visit neighbors' children or parents of other children. Isolation is the only method of stopping spread of the disease."

"Do not allow the child to play with other children until he or she has been examined by the health board and pronounced cured."

"Do not invite bad colds by getting very warm and cooling off too rapidly."

Keeping the body at an even temperature is not a matter of heavy underwear, Dr. Gilpin adds. Children in the class room all day do not need to wear woollens. They are the more likely to catch cold by allowing their bodies to be overheated by heavy garments while in the warm room. A warm wrap, when they go out of doors, is more essential.

ARE PUTTING OUT GLASS DOLLARS

Counterfeit dollars, made of glass, iron pyrites and silver are being put out in Paulding county, Ohio. Captain of Detectives, Bank of the Nickel Plate railroad, is carrying one of the coins about. It was received by the Nickel Plate station agent at Payne, Ohio, on election day in exchange for a railroad ticket to Fort Wayne. The coin was broken in two in a Cleveland bank and returned to the railroad company, labeled "counterfeit."

The broken and valueless dollar was turned over to Bank by railroad authorities. He will give it to the next federal inspector who visits Fort Wayne.

It is said that a number of the counterfeit coins have been circulated through Paulding county, Ohio, and a strenuous effort is being made to locate the makers of the spurious currency.

The dollar in possession of Bank is dated 1881 and is properly "aged" to pass for a coin of that date. It bears the rounded, edges of the mold, when closely inspected. Glass is the principal mineral used in the making of the coin, which is coated with silver. It has a "ring" which makes it hard to detect from the real product of Uncle Sam.

LETTER FROM KARL DETZER.

Elias H. Bookwalter, the newly elected recorder of Allen county, is in receipt of a letter of congratulations from Karl W. Detzer, a former Fort Wayne newspaper man who is now a member of the Second Indiana infantry stationed on the Mexican border. The letter says: "Election night we were encamped on the Rio Grande far from the nearest town and while our field wireless picked up bits of election news we watched the camp fires of the Mexican outpost on the opposite shore. It was not until today that I knew of the Allen county result and I send heartfelt congratulations."

Ara Weldon, trustee in the bankruptcy of Louis Goldstein, has filed suit in superior court against S. TRAIN DELAYED BY SNOW.

Storm Along Nickel Plate in Ohio Causes Trouble.

Snow to the depth of four or five inches fell in northern and eastern Ohio Thursday morning. It was particularly heavy along the Nickel Plate and as a result trains were delayed. No. 1, the west-bound passenger train due in Fort Wayne at 11:50, did not arrive until 2:20. It was necessary to "split" the train at Bellevue and send it forward in two sections, the first carrying all through passengers and the second the local passengers and the baggage and express.

SAYS PLAIN MAN WILL REGARD IT AS PROTEST

London, Nov. 16.—Commenting upon the announcement from Washington that instructions have been sent to Joseph C. Grew, American charge at Berlin, to take up with the German government the matter of deportation of Belgian civilians into Germany, the Manchester Guardian says the plain man will think this amounts to a protest, adding:

"If, therefore, such a measure is conveyed to the German chancellor, we welcome it, not because any change in the German policy is likely to follow, but because it is at any rate a declaration that the latest German offensive is not only the power of the sword, but also the power of the pen."

SHOP AND RAILROAD NEWS

INAUGURATE THE SOCIAL SEASON

Firemen at the Electric Works Will Eat Oysters and Play Games.

The volunteer fire company of the General Electric works will inaugurate the winter social season tonight, when it will have an oyster supper at 6 o'clock, followed by cards, shuffle and pool in the firemen's hall in the office building. There are now thirty-five members of the fire department at the works and each will be on hand this evening to take part in the festivities. Oysters will be served in every known form to the company chef, who is an expert in that line. There were five of these events last winter, and it is the intention to hold as many and maybe more this coming winter.

SURPRISED HER ASSOCIATES.

A Resignation at the Lights Brings out Marriage News.

When asked her reasons for wishing to resign a position with O. B. B. F. Dickerson, the husband, is a foreman of a department in a large foundry at Zanesville. He and Miss Baker, who had been friends many years, were married at Covington, Ky., Sept. 2. Mrs. Dickerson returned to Fort Wayne to resume her duties at the electric works and said nothing about the wedding until yesterday, when she tendered her resignation to become effective the latter part of next week. The announcement was a surprise to all of Mrs. Dickerson's associates at the works, where she is held in the highest esteem.

At present the trains are busy on the fill at Coombs street, getting the earth near New Haven. The Carland company has its own train and engine crews, but the Nickel Plate furnishes a pilot for each train. They are Conductor W. D. Erickson, Conductor J. W. Miller and Conductor C. D. Snyder.

BOUGHT A RAIL LOADER.

The Western division of the Nickel Plate now owns an American rail loader, an ingenious machine that with five men performs 50 per cent more work than they could do by hand. It consists of some air cylinders, a long arm with holding connections, some hose and levers. It is operated by air and is connected with the airbrakes just like the cars. It is light and can be readily transferred from one car to another. The purchase was made Monday, after a demonstration was made at Stony Island in the presence of C. B. Hoyt, the superintendent of construction, and R. A. Blair, the track supervisor. Many of these rail loaders are in use in the country, but this is the first one purchased by the Nickel Plate.

FIND ONE EFFECTIVE PRICE-CONTROL METHOD

Government Competition is About Only Thing That Has Succeeded.

BY GILSON GARDNER.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—In view of the high cost of living agitation—and that is the principal agitation today in Washington—the success and failure of the different remedies employed by the federal government in meeting the question has been reviewed by the officials of the various departments with the result that one method of price-control has been found to show beneficial results, namely, control by government competition.

The parcels post went into competition with the express companies and the result was beneficial to both the public and the express companies. The former got a real reduction in parcel prices with vastly increased facilities, while the express companies awoke from their lethargy and developed an enormous new line of business so that the past year showed a profit of 300 per cent!

Meantime, it is found that regulation by investigation has failed, as for instance in the investigation of food prices two years ago, four years ago and eight years ago by the department of labor statistics, the department of justice and a special committee appointed by congress. Another instance is the recent inquiry into the increased cost of gasoline by the federal trade commission.

Regulation by Sherman anti-trust law prosecutions has also failed, as shown by the government's successful prosecution of the Standard Oil and other trusts.

Regulation by federal control of railroad freight rates has failed. See the general railroad situation with particular attention to the 5 per cent increase in freight rates granted by the interstate commerce commission, and the prospective increase promised by President Wilson, if necessary to take care of the eight-hour day for railroad trainmen.

Regulation by state laws and state commissions has failed as proved by the recent increases in the prices of bread and milk.

This about covers the ground. Agitation and threats of litigation may temporarily check local and individual extortions, but the fundamentals of relief are found only in the one instance of regulation by the use of government competition.

Who is responsible for Wilson's election?

John M. Parker says the progressives elected Wilson. William Allen White backs him up and says it was the idealism of the west and revival of the old spirit of 1896 that did the job.

The "fighting pacifists" claim that they did it. The American Union Against Militarism, of which Amos Pinchot, Lillian Wald and Jane Addams are leading lights, point to the defeat of Dupont, the ranking republican member of the senate committee on military affairs, and of William S. Bennett, of New York, who ran on a platform including universal military service, and to the rejection of such ardent peace advocates as Gen. Isaac Sherwood and Representatives Gordon and Crocker as evidence that it was the "kept us out of war" voters in the west that did the business.

Samuel Gompers points with pride to himself and says: "The cause of labor, justice and freedom has been vindicated!"

The Navy league says, "President Wilson declared for preparedness and the American people decided to keep him four years more."

But from the west comes the statement of Hiram W. Johnson, governor of California, that "General Otis, W. H. Crocker and Francis V. Keessling have the proud distinction" of having elected

Rheumatism

Remarkable Home Cure Given by One Who Had It. He Wants Every Sufferer to Benefit.

Send No Money—Just Your Address.

Years of awful suffering and misery have taught this man, Mark H. Jackson of Syracuse, New York, how terrible and costly to human happiness rheumatism is, and how it can be cured. He has given his sympathy with all who are afflicted with it, and he has given his own experience to the world. He wants every sufferer to know how he was cured. Read what he says:

"I Had Sharp Pains Like Lightning Flashes Shooting Through My Joints."

"In the spring of 1883 I was attacked by rheumatism and inflammatory rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried every remedy, and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number of who were terribly afflicted and even headriders with Rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case. I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatism to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be the best long-looked-for means of curing your Rheumatism, you may send the price of it one dollar, but, understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when positive relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today. MARK H. JACKSON, 30-389, Cursey Bldg., Syracuse, N. Y."

A LASS OF THE LUMBERLANDS

by E. ALEXANDER POWELL

NOVELIZED FROM THE MOTION PICTURE SERIAL OF THE SAME NAME. PRODUCED BY THE SIGNAL FILM CORP.

Third Episode.

Helen's exceptional intelligence and mental alertness made her an apt pupil of the telegraph operator at Dawsonville, so that within three months after her meeting with Rupert Holmes, she was able to send and take messages with a facility that astonished her instructor. Within six months she was able to take the messages of the fastest sender on the circuit.

The situation existing in the lumber territory adjacent to Dawson was peculiar one. The railway itself was but a pawn in the shrewd game which the trust was playing in its effort to control the northern forests. It had been built by the Amalgamated at the insistence of Rupert Holmes, in order to tap the rich holdings of the independent owners to the north and east of Dawsonville.

No sooner was it put in operation than Holmes gave orders to boost the freight rates, for he was not hampered in that day by interstate commerce legislation, and he figured that if the rates were gradually raised to a point where the independents could no longer ship except at a loss, they would be forced, in order to save themselves, to sell their holdings to the trust at the trust's price.

But just as Holmes had ridden to success on the importance of a river, so his latest scheme was doomed to failure because he had forgotten the fact. The Calapooia boom rights, which had been the basis of all Holmes' wealth, had been no more important proportionately than were the boom rights of the Oregonians.

And just as Holmes, twenty years before, had owned the boom rights on the Calapooia, so the same privileges on the smaller stream were controlled by a shrewd old homesteader named Timothy Thomas. Under the terms of the homestead act Thomas had still five months to live on his land before the government would give him clear title to it. And the boom rights on the Oregonians went with the land.

With the completion of the railway, old Tim Thomas began to see a light shining on the tortuous channel of the Oregonians. When the Amalgamated put its staggering freight rates into effect on the new line, independent owners turned perforce to the only other channel of transportation—the river.

As a result, within a year after the last rail had been laid and the last spike driven, the railway sidings were filled with flat cars lying idle, while the once despised Oregonians was fairly choked with logs hurtling along on their way to the coastwise mills. It was a transformation that delighted old Tim Thomas, for on every log floated away its owner paid him toll.

It is not difficult, therefore, to comprehend why Rupert Holmes was in an unpleasant mood, when, on his return from a prolonged business visit to European points, he summoned his confidential manager to a conference.

"Clarkson," he began, abruptly, "that fellow Thomas, with his cursed boom rights has us in a devil of a hole. He seems to be doing all the business while the railroad is not paying for its grease."

"The railway is in bad shape," Clarkson admitted. "There is hardly any business outside the passenger traffic and a little local freight."

"You're right there," said Holmes. "We can't compete with the river so the job we've got before us is as plain as the nose on your face. We'll have to close the river up."

"How?" demanded Clarkson, curiously.

"By buying Thomas out, lock, stock and barrel," Holmes answered. "He'll make us pay through the nose, I suppose, but it can't be helped now. We're in a hole and we've got to get out of it before we sink any deeper."

"I ran down to Dawsonville a month ago," said Clarkson, "and had a talk with Thomas. I told him we might consider buying the river rights if the price was low enough."

"Oh, he'll sell, all right, if we offer enough," Holmes said cynically. "Every man has his price. Where is Behrens now?"

"He was at Dawsonville a day or two ago," the other replied.

"Good! That's just where I want him. He can put through this deal, if anyone can. Just take down this telegram:

There was only one thing to do, she decided. She would show the telegram to Dave Dawson, her foster father, and abide by his decision.

It was five o'clock. In an hour the night operator would report for his trick and Helen would be free to leave her post. A few minutes after six she ran breathlessly into the living room of the Dawson home.

"Uncle Dave," she cried, holding out the square of yellow paper, "read this! I wanted you to see it before it was delivered to Behrens."

Twice, thrice, David Dawson read the message. Then, his mind made up, he rose and donned his hat.

"Come along, my dear," he said. "We'll go over to Tim Thomas and have a talk. He's pretty hard-headed, is old Tim, but whatever they may say of him he's not hard-hearted. If we can make him see things as we do, he'll not be likely to sell to the Amalgamated at any price."

Tim Thomas listened to the story, absently poking the fire as he did so. An inscrutable grin overspread his mahogany-hued countenance. At last he turned to Dawson with a gesture indicating that he had heard enough.

"Dave," he said, "you've sized me up right. I reckon I've got the reputation around here of being a close-fisted old fellow, but I ain't so greedy for money that I'd ruin somebody else to get it. You needn't worry no more about this business, Dave, nor you either, Miss Helen—I ain't going to sell to the Amalgamated, no matter what they offer me. I'm getting a pretty fair income from the boom rights, anyhow."

So intent on their conversation were the three in old Tim's cabin, that they did not hear the approach of two men whose footfalls were deafened by the soft earth they trod. These new arrivals stood for a time outside the cabin door, listening intently. One of them was "Big Bill" Behrens, the other was Hewitt, the lawyer.

They were not slow to realize the desperate state of their mission, these two worthies. It was well into the evening before they again approached the cabin.

"Little matter of business to talk over with you, Thomas," said Behrens, as the old man opened in response to his knock. "Mr. Hewitt, here, happened to be in town so I brought him along."

"Go ahead," said Thomas, but none too amiably, for he had no love for the Amalgamated, or its emissaries. "Spit out what you've got to say," urged the old lumberman.

"It's about your boom rights on the Oregonians," said Behrens, easily, "while ago you offered to sell out to Mr. Holmes. Isn't that so?"

"I offered to sell the rights and he refused to buy them. Now they ain't for sale."

"Perhaps you'll change your mind when you hear my offer," suggested Behrens.

"They ain't for sale, I tell ye," repeated the other.

"What would you say to an offer of thirty thousand?"

"You've had my answer," said Thomas, shortly, "there's nothing doing."

"Forty thousand."

"Nothing doing, I say."

"Now be reasonable, Thomas—I'll make it fifty thousand and we'll close the deal right now. Mr. Hewitt will draw up the papers. What do you say to that?"

"I'll say this," cried Thomas, "now thoroughly exasperated, the Amalgamated ain't got enough money to induce me to sell. And you fellows get out of here—we've had our talk."

"No man can talk that way to me and get away with it," snarled Behrens, advancing on the old man with a threatening gesture. But he had reckoned without his host. Old man Thomas had a frame of steel. Behrens realized too late that the bluff he intended had failed to work.

"You fourflusher," shouted the old man as he clutched at Behrens. "If half the stories I've heard are true, you ought to be wearing a striped suit."

The next instant Behrens was lifted high and sent crashing through the door which stood ajar. The Amalgamated agent landed with a crash, while Hewitt, his legal aide, fled in terror. With a contemptuous glance at his crumpled foe on the ground, Tim Thomas turned to re-enter his cabin.

Crack! sounded the report of an automatic. It proceeded from where Behrens lay. The defeated servant of Rupert Holmes was shooting through his pocket.

The old lumberman stopped at the first shot. Half turning, he started again for the cowardly Behrens, but the first shot had taken effect. With a shuddering gasp, Tim Thomas fell forward on his face. Within a few seconds he was dead and the man who had killed him was skulking off through the dense timber.

David Dawson, sad at heart, walked slowly over to his own home where the other members of the family were eagerly awaiting news of Thomas' condition.

"The old man's gone," he said, dropping into a chair. "He was mortally wounded. I guess the whole thing was deliberately planned. Now the Amalgamated will step in and grab his claim. That means ruin for the poor fellows up river."

"But how can the Amalgamated take Tim's claim?" demanded Helen. "Won't it go to his heirs?"

"Tom didn't leave no heirs," said Dawson, "leastways, none that I ever heard of. Even if he had any heirs it wouldn't make no difference, for he had still five months to live on his land before he could get a clear deed. Now he's gone the title lapses."

"Do you mean to say," Helen interrupted excitedly, "that Behrens could file a homestead claim on Tim's land and the boom rights that go with it?"

"That's about the size of it," Dave admitted.

"Tom," cried Helen, "have you got steam up on the engine?"

"Sure thing," was the answer. "I'm pulling out for Port Jefferson in thirty minutes."

"No, you're not," Helen fairly screamed. "You are pulling out for Big Falls in three minutes, and I'm going with you."

"Why, what on earth—" Tom began, but Helen interrupted him.

"No talk," she ordered. "We haven't a second to lose. Don't you understand? Behrens and Hewitt have heard that Tim is dead. They know that his claim has reverted to the government so they've gone to Big Falls to file on it."

It should be explained that the railway parallels the Oregonians from Dawsonville to Shore Race Bend, a distance of fifty miles, after which it makes a long detour through the hills, reaching the river at Big Falls, the county seat. Between Horse Race Bend and Big Falls the river pursues an almost straight course, racing with the speed of a derby winner between high walls of rock.

Caution to the winds, Dawson threw wide his throttle and the engine hurried at terrifying speed over the twin lines of steel which stretched ahead. Telegraph poles flashed past like pallings in a picket fence. Behind them, a single flat car, retained to balance the engine, rocked and swayed like a raft in a rough sea. Lashed to the car was Helen's Indian canoe. What the intrepid girl had in her mind Tom Dawson knew and it terrified him. Helen's plan was to leave the railway at Race Horse Bend and shoot the rapids into Big Falls.

Meanwhile Behrens and Hewitt were having a scarcely less thrilling ride in the latter's motor car. Though they were quite unaware that they were being raced for the county seat, they nevertheless were taking no chances.

Twenty miles they covered at reckless speed—thirty . . . forty . . . fifty miles an hour. Then, swinging round a curve in the road as a racing machine turns into the home stretch, they saw before them an old fashioned wooden bridge spanning the river. A repair gang was at work on the bridge and one of the men started forward waving his arms, but too late.

"Hang tight!" screamed Behrens, to his companion. "Half the planks are out and we've got to take it flying."

There was a growling rumble as the tires hit the bridge structure—then the crash of rending timbers as the rotten old supports gave way, dropping the car and its occupants into the rushing torrent beneath.

Almost simultaneously Tom Dawson brought his panting engine to a stand on the curve at the Horse Race.

The canoe was quickly lowered into the water, and leaving his engine with banked fires on the siding, Tom Dawson accompanied Helen on board the frail little craft in which they were to complete their journey.

Twenty minutes of hard paddling brought them to the wrecked bridge where lay all that was left of a yellow automobile. A little shriek of triumph broke from Helen's lips and a roar came from the powerful lungs of her escort, as they saw two men standing on the rocky shore. They squeezed through the mess of timbers with only inches to spare, and were on their way, while Behrens and Hewitt shook their fists in impotent rage.

Ten minutes away lay Big Falls. The chimneys of the mills were already visible. From that on it was a mere canoe trip.

When Helen stepped down the broad stone front entrance of the courthouse an hour later, a buckboard furiously driven, drew up at the curb. From it leaped two men. Helen smiled upon them sweetly.

"If you've come to file on the Thomas property, Mr. Behrens," said the young woman, "you're just a little late. I filed a claim for it myself an hour ago. Tell your employer, Mr. Holmes, that if he still wants the boom rights on the Oregonians, he will have to deal with me."

Why He Saluted Her.
As a pleasant-faced woman passed, the corner Jones raised his hat to her and remarked feelingly to his companion:

"Ah, my boy, I owe a great deal to that woman."

"Your mother?" was the query.

BABY HAD WHOOPING COUGH
Mothers who have used Foley's Honey and Tar would not be without it. Mrs. Sam C. Small, Clayton, N. M., writes: "My grandson had whooping cough when he was three months old. We used Foley's Honey and Tar and I believe it saved his life. He is now big and fat." It is a fine thing to have in the house in case of whooping cough, croup, coughs, colds. The first doses help, loosen phlegm, heal inflammation, clear air passages, stop racking coughs. Dreier Drug Co.—Advertisement.

Friar Players Get Together for Game

ENTIRE TEAM READY FOR SUNDAY'S GAME

Friars Showing Up in Full Force as Time for Mas-sacre Nears.

Word has been received from Gus Tordis informing the interested ones of his convalescence and that he will be in the game Sunday. Anyone who saw last Sunday's contest can have a bit of the best words for Conny Checkey and the way he played, but an All-American quarterback makes it sort of comfortable to think about when he's on your favorite team.

There's a certain end named Showalter who plays football with the Wabash A. A.'s and who is going to have the time of his life Sunday when he starts to play the mysterious Howard off his feet, for Howard will be here Sunday and he will know the signals, too. Then on the other end of the line of the Wabash team is our old friend Reno. This tricky gentleman will have the honor of testing his wits against our other mysterious wingman, whom we call Hunter.

The Friar front wall from one end to the other Sunday will be as tight as the proverbial brick wall. And the back field—Lewie, Chambers, Pliska, Johnson—can be depended upon to put up the necessary fight to send Wabash rooters back home with tears in their eyes.

RESTA FAVORITE IN VANDERBILT CUP RACE

Aitken and Rickenbacher Are Possibilities in the Motor Classic.

Santa Monica, Cal., Nov. 16.—Twenty-one racing cars, primed for speed, were given their final tuning up yesterday preparatory to the Vanderbilt race here today. All eyes were turned on the "Big Three," Resta, Aitken and Rickenbacher. Dark Resta, champion of England, nursed his French Peugeot around the eight mile triangle with an ease and quiet that stamped him a gentle driver, while Rickenbacher thundered his Duesenberg around for the fastest time ever made on the course.

Resta is favorite, Rickenbacher and Aitken also are well backed, while Pullen, Neerer and Cooper, Stutz, are considered likely dark horses.

Managers of the races are preparing for 150,000 spectators for each of the big events. The 294 mile Vanderbilt will be started at noon today and the 400 mile grand prize at 11 a. m. on Saturday.

TALKS TO FRIARS.

Before nearly one hundred members of the Friar club Wednesday evening, C. B. Eitch, a prominent business man of this city, gave a talk that was full of good suggestions and points for the younger business men who make up the club. His talk was highly appreciated by those who heard it and Mr. Eitch expressed his pleasure in addressing them. He presented the club an interesting volume, "The Kingdom of Self-Control," which is to be added to the club library.

The address was preceded by a short business meeting, in which football and other business was discussed. Eight new applicants were elected to membership and now only ten vacancies separate candidates from the waiting list.

CAN YOU IMAGINE THIS?

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Jess Willard, the heavyweight champion, is considering entering the real estate business in Chicago, according to information received by his associates. His contract with a circus has expired and he plans to motor from Fort Worth, Tex., to Chicago, arriving here about November 27. He is reported to be much heavier than when he started out with the circus. He weighs in the neighborhood of 275 pounds, it is said.

STAGG ASSUMES BLAME FOR BUM MAROON TEAM

Has About Thirty Eligibles Every Year and Rules Are Most Strict.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—The assumption of responsibility by Coach A. A. Stagg for the failure of the University of Chicago football team to make a better showing this season was much discussed today by football enthusiasts.

In an address at the annual dinner of the Chicago alumni of the university last night after declaring that he had promising material Mr. Stagg told the alumni the exact situation on the midway. He said he has about thirty men eligible for his team every year, that they must up hold scholastic conditions stricter than in any other university in the conference and that the great majority of them, although good students, are sadly lacking in football requirements. He said he had tried to teach men plays, offensive and defensive, but could not do their thinking for them on the field. He then referred to the defeat of Chicago by Carlton and Northwestern. "I have been criticised for not selecting a better schedule," he said. "I did not know Carlton was as strong as it turned out to be. I did not know Northwestern was as powerful. We have men on this year's team who are the best students in the college, but they fail to deliver in the pinches on the football field. I am not responsible for such conditions, but I am willing to assume the blame. We have a fighting chance to beat Illinois on Saturday and I am sure these men can accomplish their purpose if they play mental football."

Wonder Athletes of Yesterday—Where Are They? What Do You Mean by Fight? Big Jeff's Now a Buyer of Bulls.

BY MARK LARKIN.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 16.—Jim Jeffries, the greatest fighting white man that ever drew breath, has gone back to the soil. Jim is now a farmer. He goes around his Burbank ranch in a dirty, ragged pair of overalls, with a ten days' growth of whiskers decorating his face. And the hayseeds stick out all over him. If you talk to Jim about prize fights, he looks at you as bewildered as if you were addressing him in a foreign tongue. He doesn't understand. But talk to him about Holstein milk stock and he will lambast you with conversational wallop which will stagger you and have you holding on wishing for the end of the round.

Jim is specializing in Holsteins. He bought a bull the other day which cost him $2,500. In the last year he has spent $70,000 in improvements on his property, not counting a $20,000 house he is now building and $50,000 more which he expects to spend on his herd of cows.

At present there are some 160 head of cattle on the Jeffries ranch; also about the same number of hogs, and more chickens and turkeys than a man can count. Not all of the former champion's cows are thoroughbreds, however. But he is gradually weeding out the common stock and replacing it with pedigreed animals.

Today Jim Jeffries is the happiest man in the world. He is hard, brown and fit as a fiddle. Every morning he is up at 5 o'clock and busy until sundown with the cares of an agriculturist. If he gets a visitor who is a fan on farming he will walk the poor devil 5,000 miles between sunup and sundown over his 105 acres of fertile real estate. And he will never stop walking or talking until the visitor gives out or gives up.

Jim is milking 120 cows. "I do all my milking" by electricity," says the ex-fighter. "There are no dago test-wielders on this farm."

Jeffries is extremely scientific with his dairy, and it is spotlessly clean. He raises some alfalfa and also a great deal of corn. Some of his corn stands fourteen feet high and the stalks are less than an inch apart in the rows.

Jeff has a speaking acquaintance with every cow on his ranch. They come up and rub their noses on the big fellow's arm and he scratches their heads and pats their sleek flanks with great pride. "When I first began," says Jim, "ranchin' with me was just a fad; now, however, it's business. And it pays. I'm making a profit out of farming right now."

Jeffries knows to a cent how much money is spent and how much comes in on his ranch. He has moved his family to Burbank, and while he still keeps the Los Angeles house, it is no longer home to him. The ranch house he is building will contain a fireplace 7x6 feet on the inside. On the outside of the same chimney will be a place to barbecue a whole beef.

He always did like to eat and he intends that the friends who come to visit his dairy shall not go away hungry.

And does Jim Jeffries, former king of the ring, ever go to a boxing contest? He does not. He is farming, not fighting, these days. His one diversion is hunting. Even now he is carrying his arm in a sling, and one finger bears an ugly gash inflicted with a hunting knife early in the deer season. Jeff may yet lose this digit. But the point is that Jim Jeffries, the greatest fighting white man, now thinks, talks and dreams of nothing but hog, horse and cow.

And does Jim Jeffries, former king of the ring, ever go to a boxing contest? He does not. He is farming, not fighting, these days. His one diversion is hunting. Even now he is carrying his arm in a sling, and one finger bears an ugly gash inflicted with a hunting knife early in the deer season. Jeff may yet lose this digit. But the point is that Jim Jeffries, the greatest fighting white man, now thinks, talks and dreams of nothing but hog, horse and cow.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish in this manner to thank Rev. A. F. Meyers and neighbors for their beautiful floral offerings and kindness and sympathy shown us during our bereavement in the death of our beloved son, Arthur.

MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR EBELE AND GRANDPARENTS, MR. AND MRS. CHRIST MUNDT.

DELIVERYMAN TALKED WOMEN OUT OF COUPONS

Tells Court He Gossiped With Housewives Until They Forgot Them.

"Good morning, Mrs. Jones." "Great weather we are having." "I guess Wilson will be elected all right." "We don't care much for whiskers in this country." "Ha, ha." "I just noticed that the house on the corner is about finished." "Some question about the way old man Wier gets his money, I understand." "Guess his wife dresses the best in town since he got a job in the bank." "Well, good day, Mrs. Jones." "Giddap, Roger."

Just a little weather dope, a stale joke and a bit of gossip and Mrs. Jones had never thought to ask for the little coupon supposed to accompany her tea order, and for which pretty Japanese dishes could be obtained at the tea store.

Neither did Mrs. Kline think of the coupons, nor Mrs. Smith, nor Mrs. McCafferty. They were all swept away from the immediate issue by woman's uncontrollable instinct to grasp every accent of the discourse on topics of the day.

Sometimes the ladies aroused themselves to the understanding that they had forgotten the coupons, two hours afterwards. In such cases they called the tea store.

In a month of driving the delivery wagon for the Grand Union Tea company, West Wayne street, Harry Leonard, 24, talked more than a hundred housewives. In all sections of the city, out of 300 coupons.

He explained his process in police court, Thursday morning, where he was charged with petit larceny for using the coupons with which to redeem articles from the tea company. The plan was easy and always worked, but Leonard sobbed that he would never do it again if the court will only grant him a suspended sentence.

Judge Kerr will pass judgment on Leonard, Friday morning. Leonard pleaded guilty to the charge of petit larceny. F. Arney, manager of the tea company, identified dishes and a leather hand bag, which were found in Leonard's possession by Detective Sergeant Pappert, who arrested Leonard Monday.

Pappert produced letters taken from Leonard which show the young man to have a wife in Texas. She is begging him in the letter to sign a waiver that she might obtain a divorce from him at once.

Dishes were to go to a girl in Logansport, to whom Leonard has been paying attention. A letter from the Logansport miss reads:

"I cannot marry you Sunday. Father would not stand for it. I want to make a trip to El Paso, and dad can get me a pass if I am not married. Will see you Sunday."

Other Police Court Case. The only arrest made on Thursday was that of an inebriated tramp who wandered into the police station all by himself and stammered in drunken accents that he wanted a place to "stop." He was hurried into a cell. Judge Kerr fined him $1 and costs on Thursday morning. His name was Frank McCall.

Allen County Will Be Asked to Assist in Its Extermination.

Docmed is the English sparrow, and Fort Wayne and Allen county will be asked to assist in its extermination by the organization just formed for the purpose of ridding the country of the pest. The death knell has been sounded. Men in his might has taken up the fight of the song bird and the farmer, and, passing judgment on the sparrow, declares it must be exterminated. Experts declare it has absolutely nothing in its favor, not one redeeming quality—no reason why it should live in this land of freedom.

It is proposed to set aside a week in April or May next in each state to be known as "Sparrow Week." In which period there will be special efforts in the war of extermination. The heaviest damage done by the sparrow is in orchards and in flowers. It destroys fruit, especially cherries, grapes, pears, apples and peaches. The same is true of young vegetables, of wheat and other grains. A flock of fifty sparrows requires daily a quart of grain or its equivalent.

FRENZY MAY INJURE CONSUMERS OF COAL

Public Service Commissioners Decry Public Panic Over the Shortage.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 13.—That too much public frenzy over a continued coal shortage might operate against the consumer by permitting isolated mine operators and retail dealers to take advantage of the situation and boost prices, was the opinion of John F. McClure and J. L. Clark, members of the public service commission, yesterday. Admitting that the coal shortage situation as occasioned by a lack of railroad cars is worth serious consideration, the commissioners were rather of the opinion that there will be no great coal famine, as many think. Commissioner McClure cited a number of cases where carriers have begun to handle the shipping end of the trouble with better facilities than they were able to command some time ago.

Letters are pouring into the office of Governor Ralston each day, containing complaints over coal shipments and advice as to how the situation may be relieved. State institutions especially are inquiring of the governor if the shortage is to continue. Similar requests are being received of the public service commission and have occasioned a number of informal conferences with the result that in many cases arrangements have been made to obtain cars for the use of the institutions. A conference with representatives of all Indiana carriers will be held by the commission Monday morning. Something more definite in the way of handling the situation is to be expected from the meeting.

Governor Ralston said that he was turning the question over in his mind, but he had not yet determined as to what course he should pursue.

ALL THE DEMOCRATIC ELECTORS WILL WIN

Little Chance for Any Republicans in California

San Francisco, Nov. 13.—Twenty-one counties in California remained to be heard from today in the official canvass of the presidential election of November 5, the twenty-one including the most populous of the state, Los Angeles, Alameda, San Francisco, San Diego and Sacramento. When the count was resumed today the highest republican elector was credited with 118,228 votes, while the lowest democrat had 132,088, a plurality for the lowest democrat elector of 13,860.

As no notable upsets in the first unofficial returns have yet been noted, state democratic leaders predict their lowest elector will run ahead of the highest republican elector by about 600 votes.

COUNTING IN MINNESOTA.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 13.—With the Hughes lead back to its old place in the hundreds, democrats are watching closely today the retabulation of Hennepin county returns by officials at Minneapolis and possibly of Ramsey county returns at St. Paul. The latest unofficial returns from Hennepin showed a decided gain there for Mr. Hughes. There was no change over night in the totals. President Wilson throughout the state with 46 counties whose returns have been tabulated at the capital and 40 unofficial, polled 377,796 to Mr. Hughes' 178,183, making the Hughes margin 387,613.

RABBIT HUNTERS GET INTO A DEN OF BEARS

Bag Two of a Trio of the Animals After Exciting Fight.

Norway, Mich., Nov. 13.—Stephen Joseph and Peter Benzie, brothers, with Albert Wicklund, were on a hunt for rabbits Sunday and participated instead of a thrilling experience with three bears, according to a story reaching here today.

The hunters were near Spies Meadows when their dogs scented the bears in a den. At first the nimrods believed it was the hiding place of a porcupine. The entrance to the den had been skillfully blocked with sticks and dirt, and when this was removed three bears came growling from within. One of them—a large female bear—showed herself, and a charge of fine shot from Stephen's gun penetrated the nose, and a second discharge hit the animal in the ear.

Reaching into the hole, Wicklund dragged the bear into the den, when another bear came galloping out. One of the dogs entered the melee. He had taken hold of the bear's flanks. The scrap was of the buzz-saw order—round and round they went, the dog firmly holding on.

The hunters kept at a respectful distance. Then Joseph Benzie felt the ground give way under him—he fell into the bears' den—and the third bear came out.

A fusillade from four guns followed, the second bear fell and the hunters gave chase after the third bear, which escaped.

The carcasses were shipped to Chicago.

SITS DEAD 4 HOURS IN AUTO ON STREET

Chicago Man Unnoticed by Hundreds Who Passed During Time.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—While hundreds of persons passed in Clark street during the busiest hour, Charles Lichtenberger, 61 years old, sat bolt upright for four hours dead in his electric automobile in front of 1429 North Clark street yesterday. It is believed Mr. Lichtenberger, who was a board of trade member and once conspicuous as a member of the west park board, had driven up to transact some business in the vicinity. He evidently had just stopped his machine when he overcame by heart failure.

A letter carrier passing noticed the peculiar position of the body and called the police. An investigation showed that Mr. Lichtenberger had been dead for four hours. He was seen to drive up by F. E. Adams, manager of a tea store in the vicinity. This was at 11 o'clock in the morning. It was around 3 o'clock when the letter carrier summoned the police.

Identification was made by police of the Hudson avenue police station, who found a bank book containing the name and address and showing a bank balance of $16.74. The address was 322 Sherman street, which is that of the brokerage firm of Howard Bartels & Co., publishers of market letters and literature. Mr. Lichtenberger also was prominent on the board of trade.

Mr. Lichtenberger lived at 1316 North Dearborn street. He is survived by a widow and one son, Edward Lichtenberger, 4200 Denning place. The widow was prostrated when told of her husband's death.

The body was taken in charge by the police and an inquest called.

SEEKING TO INSURE SAFETY TO HUNTERS

Michigan Official Taking Note of Accidental Deaths in Woods.

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 13.—State officials here are considering measures to insure greater safety to hunters in the northern woods of Michigan. Since the hunting season in the state opened Sept. 10, with duck shooting, there have been twelve deaths directly traceable to hunting accidents and one man died of heart disease while hunting. The deer season opened less than a week ago and since then four men have been killed as a result of being mistaken for deer.

In addition to these fatalities a number of serious injuries also are shown in the records, at the state game commissioner's office. The state game commissioner attributes most of the accidents to the practice of "shooting at sounds."

WILL NOT BE SEATED UNTIL AFTER INQUIRY

Chicago Candidates Must Await Result of Fraud Investigation.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 13.—Candidates for offices in Cook county at the recent election will not be seated until investigations of alleged frauds are completed, according to the decision of county Judge Thomas F. Scully today, following a conference of the county election commissioners last night. He said there will be no proclamations of election issued in time for the successful candidates to take office on December 4, when the terms of the incumbents expire. On the face of the returns all republicans were successful, except in the case of one minor office.

"There has been a mass of fraud uncovered in the election," said Judge Scully. "Until the state's attorney and the federal government have finished their investigations the proclamations will all be held up."

The vote in hundreds of precincts in many wards of the city may be thrown out, Judge Scully said.

Nebraskan Will Urge Democrats to Espouse Dry Cause in 1920.

Washington, Nov. 13.—That William J. Bryan is a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination in 1920 in the prohibition issue, making one final attempt to reach the White House, was the unanimous conclusion today of Washington democrats who read Mr. Bryan's interview in New York.

In this interview Mr. Bryan frankly asserted that he would devote his time to the next four years to placing the democratic party on record as favoring prohibition in its platform of 1920; that the issue is here and must be met; that the democratic party must take the moral side of a moral issue; that it can not

FOR CROSS, SICK
FEVERISH CHILD

If little stomach is sour, liver torpid or bowels clogged.

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and children have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tight, packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered.

When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it can not cause injury. No difference what ails your little one—if full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomachache, bad breath, remember, a gentle "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.—Advertisement.

COMMERCIAL BODIES PLAN TO DISCUSS IT

Railway Situation Will Be Taken Up at Washington Meeting.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—Reflecting the interest of the country at large are resolutions coming into Washington from trade bodies requesting further action by the chamber of commerce of the United States on the railroad situation. The requests are a forerunner of a meeting of the chamber's national council to be held in Washington the latter part of next week at which there promises to be a vigorous discussion of all phases of the railroad controversy including proposed anti-strike legislation.

In addition to the national council meeting November 17 and 18 provision has been made by the national chamber for a committee to study the railroad problem in all phases pursued by the joint congressional committee of which Senator Newlands is chairman and which is to convene in Washington, November 20.

Prominent Organizations Act. The petitions from trade organizations appear to represent no particular section of the United States more than another, and national as well as local bodies are being heard from. Many are in response to a broad invitation from the Railway Business Association and the New York Merchants' association to other commercial bodies to join in a request for action by the national chamber.

The Railway Business Association favors an investigation upon correction of defects in the system of railway regulation. They advocate especially that the national government should on behalf of the states regulate instrumentalities of interstate commerce except in those spheres which are distinctively stated.

Also that congress, in order to keep regulation close to the people, should create regional sub-commissions, appointed by the president and subordinate to the inter-state commerce commission, to conduct administration over areas corresponding to traffic movement. Finally, it is recommended that congress having chosen to leave to private capital the function of providing the people with rail highways, should insure reasonable extensions of such highways into new regions as well as the improvement of existing roads by declaring it by statute the policy of the government to permit such a system of rates as will yield earnings sufficient to attract investment for new construction.

Anti-Strike Plan Outlined. The Merchants' association of New York has sent to other commercial organizations throughout the country copies of a pamphlet containing the resolutions adopted by the association in support of the plan for preventing the interruption, by strike, of the operation of public utilities, together with an outline by Henry R. Towne, of New York, telling how the plan might be carried into effect.

Briefly, it provides for the enforcement of a contractual relation between employers and employees on public utilities. It is suggested not so much as a final solution of this important question, although the Merchants' association hopes it may prove to be such a solution, but as a means of bringing the matter forward for discussion. The association has asked the chamber of commerce of the United States to submit the question to its constituent members in the form of a referendum in order that the sentiment of the business men of the country may be ascertained. It has also asked other organizations to join in requesting such a referendum.

THREE MORE CENTS IS ADDED TO CORN PRICE

Prediction is That It May Reach One Dollar Per Bushel.

Three cents more were added to the price of corn per bushel on the Port Wayne city markets Thursday, making the topnotch price 93 cents a bushel. Prediction is that the price may reach the dollar mark soon.

Wheat prices remain unchanged with $1.80 still reigning as the topnotch price. The market seems to be extremely quiet and receipts have been very light for the past week. The price fell off a few cents at the close of the market in big trading centers.

Oats prices are the same. Hog prices are unchanged. Hay is holding out strong, regardless of the fact that the receipts have been very heavy for the past month.

Local commission men state that the banana supply in this city is shorter by far than it has been for many years. The wind storms in the banana growing countries have played havoc with the crop. The price is rallying upward.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Hot winds damaging the wheat crop in southern Argentina caused a bulge here today in prices. Besides, farmers' deliveries in the domestic spring wheat states were light and interior elevator stocks were said to be small. The opening, which ranged from 1/8¢ to 3/4¢ advance, with December at $1.87 1/4 to $1.87 3/4, and May at $1.92 1/2 to $1.93, was followed by a decided gain all around, then reactions to below yesterday's finish and later a new upturn.

Corn showed strength in sympathy with wheat. After opening 1/4¢ to 1 1/2¢ to 1 1/4¢ higher the market scored a substantial general advance with later temporary setbacks.

In oats, as in other grains, the Argentine situation gave an advantage to the bulls. Purchases for Belgium brought about a rise in provisions.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Nov. 16.—Copper and steel shares again were the conspicuous features at today's active and strong opening. Gains in those issues ranged from mere fractions to 3 points for Sloss-Sheffield Steel, 5 for Bethlehem Steel preferred and 19 for Gulf States Steel. Virginia Iron, Republic Iron, Lackawanna Steel, Utah and Anaconda Coppers, American Zinc, Baldwin Locomotive and the shipping group also were materially higher. United States Steel was prominent on the usual heavy turnover. The movement embraced many minor specialties, such as Philadelphia company, United Railways and Corn Products. Rails were strong but comparatively inactive. Almost 600,000 shares changed hands in the first hour, steel and copper contributing fully one-third of the whole. Gulf States Steel, common and second preferred, were the sensational features, the former rising 3 1/2 points to 18 1/2 and the Encouraging Words

Things shaping up for a good work. Fine testimony meeting at close. Enthusiastic meeting for children. Revival spirit increasing. Increasing attendance and deepening spirit.

CENTRAL STATION IS
TO BE REARRANGEDFiremen at Work Tearing
Away Partitions and Raising Floors.

Firemen at No. 1 station formed a wrecking squad, Thursday, to test away partitions, formerly used for horse stalls and to raise the floor of what was once the hay mow, in the days of "Dave" and "Jerry" and other never-to-be-forgotten names.

The heavy, barred doors which used to swing before the animals at the top of the fire bell, are to be removed and the shop at the rear of the station thrown in with the big front room. The storage room and the big lobby formed by tearing down the horse stalls are to be connected with the main floor.

The floor of the former hay mow is to be raised even with the floor of the sleeping room, on the second floor. Next spring the upstairs partitions are to be removed and the size of the bunk room practically doubled by using the space formerly employed as a mow for firemen's beds.

WILL ATTEND CONGRESS.

Fort Wayne Expects to Be Represented
at Waterway Meeting.

Mayor Hoesy has been asked by Senator Joseph Ransdell, of Louisiana, president of the National Rivers and Harbors congress, to have Fort Wayne represented in the meeting of the congress at Washington, on December 6, 7 and 8.

Men most active in the deep waterway movement were called by Mayor Hoesy Thursday and asked to attend the assembly. One or two of the men will represent interests of Fort Wayne in promoting the Fort Wayne-Toledo canal before the body, Hoesy says. The men called by the mayor were T. J. Logan, United States commissioner; T. E. Ellison and Frank B. Taylor. Mr. Taylor has made a careful survey of the canal conditions and is expected to be one of the men to make the trip.

S. F. Bowser and Avery M. Groves have been asked to be at the congress. Representatives of the waterway canal through Fort Wayne is a project boosted by nearly all Fort Wayne organizations.

WILL ACT ON PETITIONS.

Board of Works Will Grant Sewers and Street Pavements.
Resolutions for the adoption of seven petitions asking sewers and action on assessment rolls for four paving jobs will be the sum of business to be transacted by the board of works Thursday night.

Resolutions for new sewers are for the following locations: Along the alley east of Mechanic street between Elm and Huron streets to the south line of lot No. 2 in Burden's addition; along the alley south of Main street from the sewer in the alley south of lots 22-24 in Rockhill's addition to the sewer in the alley south of Main street; from the sewer in the alley between Watkins street and Greenwood avenue to a point 230 feet south; along the alley between Piqua avenue and Barr street from main sewer No. 37 to Rudisill boulevard; along the alley north of Rudisill boulevard from the sewer on Beaver avenue to Indiana avenue; along the alley between Superior street and Columbia street from a point 100 feet west of Clay street to a point 70 feet east of Clay street; along the alley east of Barthold street and south of High street from High street to Barthold street.

Assessment rolls to be confirmed are for paving Lindley avenue from Taylor to Parkview; paving Lavina street from Broadway to Rockhill; paving Parkview from Lindley to Broadway and paving Nelson from Jefferson to Wilt.

PROMISE ACTION.

Board of Works Hears from Pennsylvania Railroad Officials.

Here is the exact message which Robert Kelley, president of the board of works, received from R. Trumble, Pennsylvania official, from the central office in Pittsburgh on Wednesday in answer to demands for action in regard to the track elevation over Hanna and Lafayette streets.

"We will give you an answer to your communication just as soon as we get a decision from our superior officers in regard to the matter. The matter has been submitted to them for consultation."

LABOR LEADERS CALL.

Ask Board of Works to Stop Contracts to Non-union Firm.

Representatives of the federation of labor called on members of the board of works Thursday morning and asked that the city stop using metal catch-basins and other fixtures put out by the Central foundry. It was argued that the foundry in question does not employ union molders.

Works board members explained that they had nothing to do with deciding what firm shall furnish catch-basins and other metal paraphernalia used in street construction. Buying of materials lay with the contracting company which has been awarded the street improvements.

GETTING READY FOR WINTER.

Park Benches and Lawn Swings Being Put Under Cover.

City parks are being prepared for the reign of bleak King Winter. The 600 park benches are being gathered into the park storehouses and the few lawn swings in use are being put under cover. All park seats are to be given a new coat of dark green paint during the winter months. They will look like new when they reappear beside the winding paths on the first of May.

Park Superintendent Getz has his men at work replanting all dead trees along Rudisill boulevard. New oriental plants are replacing those that have failed to sprout along the boulevard from Piqua to South Wayne.

MAY SPREAD SAND.

Cart for Distribution May Be Precaution Against Ice.

Fort Wayne may have an official sand spreader this winter as an aid to pedestrians along icy downtown streets. Attention of city officials has been called to a new invention for spreading sand. It is in the form of a cart carrying a basin from which the sand is automatically sifted to the walks. A man can put sand on ten miles of sidewalk a day by simply pushing the cart before him along the streets, it is claimed.

Street Superintendent Herman Strodel likes the automatic method of sanding the walks better than the plan suggested by the mayor, of installing sacks of sand in stores of the merchants and having industrious clerks place the mineral on the walks in the immediate vicinity of the store.

WALL OF SUBWAY CAVES IN.

Work of the Nickel Plate at Osage Street Will Be Retarded.

The east wall of the Osage street subway caved in Wednesday night. Tons of earth tumbled down across the roadway when the few boards, holding the wall, gave way. Frame was to have been built on Thursday and pouring of concrete started at once.

A score of laborers are at work shoveling the earth from the roadway. It will be three days before the forms for the moulds can be started on the east side of the passage.

ARE STAYING INDOORS.

Many Laborers Playing Off Sick Because of Chilly Weather.

Ranks of the work gangs of Fort Wayne contractors have been reduced during the past three days because of the frosty weather. Regular salaried men of the companies are all in their places, but the laborers who work by the day as "fillers" are mostly under cover, contractors say. "These men will report for work again when the weather moderates, it is predicted."

"They generally tell a story about being sick and we have to let them start to work again," one of the contractors explained Thursday, after telling that nearly half of his men are gone.

WILL FINISH PAVING.

Paving of both St. Joe boulevard and Swinney avenue will be completed this week by the Grace Construction company.

BUILDING PERMITS.

Building permits were issued to Charles Howell to build frame garage, 1714 West Main street, $200, and Charles McComb, build frame residence, 1909 Sherman street, $2,400.

HAS SCARLET FEVER.

Health board was notified on Wednesday that Ruth Mohr, 1311 Huestis avenue, is suffering from an attack of scarlet fever.

IN THE CHURCHES
SAYS MAN MUST NOT DOUBT WORD OF GOD

Rev. Watkin in Another
Grippingly Interesting
Sermon.

"Whenever a man puts a question mark behind the word of God, I'll pass him up like a pay car passes a tramp," declared Rev. Charles E. Watkin in his sermon Wednesday evening at the First Baptist church. The preacher declared that doubt was the root of all sin and that from doubt springs unbelief. From this it was but one step to disobedience and then another to death, he said.

Before the sermon Fred Butler led the song service. Last night's choir was larger and better than at any previous date. Mr. Butler sang "Shadows," by Robert Harkness, and "The Earth Is the Lord's," by Frank Lyons. His solos surpassed anything he has sung in this city.

Several epigrams were used in last night's sermon which served the purpose of emphasizing the subject.

"If you could squeeze real water out of watered stock, there would be a flood in hell in twenty minutes."

"God's laws are as narrow as the edge of a razor."

"Whether you believe the word of God or not does not change it one iota."

"Sin begins in doubt and ends in death."

At South Wayne Church.

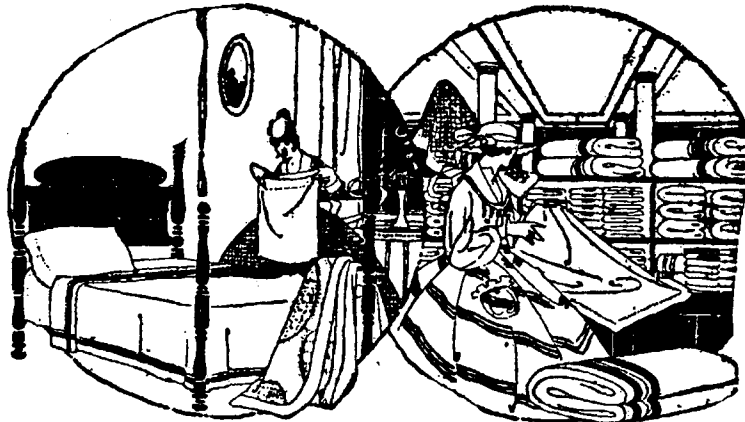

The biggest week night meeting since the beginning of the revival was held last night at the South Wayne church. It was a special young people's meeting and in addition, the Ladies' Bible class of the church attended in a body.

The subject of the sermon was "The Call to Heroic Service." The text was: "There will be a man's banquet at the

RICE OR POTATOES

Too many of my friends think of rice as a desert. They make delicious puddings and custards with rice, but that is as far as they go. Rice serves its best purpose when used as a vegetable, as a substitute for potatoes. It is a bulky food and will serve as a good foundation on which to build a satisfying and nourishing meal. Many think rice is flat and tasteless. This is because they cook and serve it without the proper ingredients. Boiled rice, sprinkled with a little cheese and baked slowly in the oven, will make a dish to please the most "finicky" taste. Rice served with brown gravy or with meat broth will satisfy anyone. Few people eat plain boiled potatoes. They insist on having them seasoned and served to taste. Rice, given the same treatment as potatoes, will please even more so. And don't forget the economy. Remember that ten cents worth of rice goes a third farther than the same amount of potatoes. The best rice is cheaper in the end than the poorer grade. If you want your family to be rice eaters you must start with the best rice. BURSLEY'S High Grade Rice in one and three pound packages, is the rice to use.

I know a number of good cooks who have rice recipes that I can use. I will send an order on your grocer for a package of Bursley's Rice to everyone who sends in an original rice recipe. Address RICE EDITOR, care of this paper.

RICE WITH CHEESE.

Steam one cup of BURSLEY'S Rice, seasoned with one tablespoon salt; cover bottom of pudding dish with rice, dot over with three-fourths table-spoon butter, sprinkle with thin shavings of mild cheese and a few grains of cayenne pepper; repeat operation until all of the rice and one fourth pound of cheese are used. Add milk to half the contents of dish, cover with cracker crumbs, and bake until cheese melts.

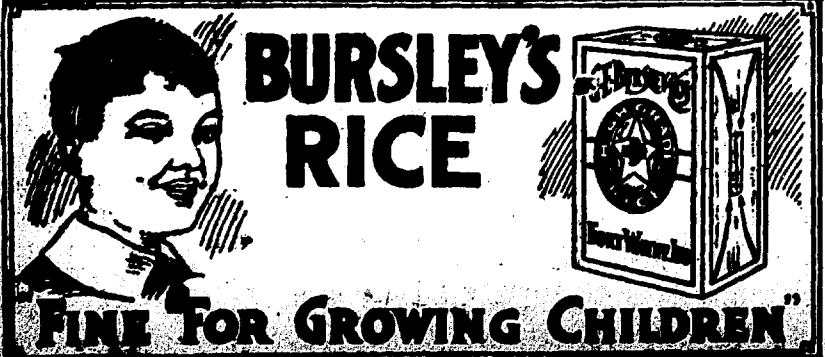

RICE HAMBURGER CROQUETTES.

One pound of hamburger, one cup of Bursley's rice steamed, season well with salt and pepper and roll in oblong shape of egg. Wrap each roll in a tender cabbage leaf, pin together with toothpicks and brown in hot butter. Add a few drops of water and place in an oven for twenty or thirty minutes. MRS. T. E. B., Fort Wayne.

BURSLEY'S HIGH GRADE RICE PUDDING.

Mix together one cup of boiled Bursley's High Grade Rice, two eggs well beaten, one-half cup of sugar, a pinch of salt and a little grated nutmeg or jam or jelly; add a cup of milk, heat on top of stove, then bake in moderate oven until firm. Serve with milk, cream or sauce.

DID NOT FIRE ON ROWANMORE'S LIFEBOATS

CHARGES ARE CALLED FALSE

U-Boat Commander Declares Men Owe Lives to German Precautions.

AMERICANS WERE ON DOOMED SHIP German Version of Sinking of British Steamer is Given to Public.

Berlin, Wednesday, Nov. 15 (by wire to The Associated Press).—Assessments that the German submarine which sank the British ship Rowanmore, on which there were several Americans, fired upon lifeboats containing members of the crew are dismissed as utterly false in the report of the commander of the submarine, further details of which became known today. In fact, it is said the men on the Rowanmore owe their lives to the precautions taken by the Germans and the skill with which their operations were carried out.

During the twenty-minute pursuit of the steamer the submarine's shots were aimed accurately to limit the danger to the crew, which was congregated at the bow. The Rowanmore was hit ten times, the last shell disabling the propeller. The submarine ceased firing, the report continues, immediately it was observed the Rowanmore had decreased her speed and abandoned the effort to escape.

No shots were fired at the men in the boats. Just before she stopped the Rowanmore hoisted a signal, but it was impossible to read it from the submarine at that time, about 2,000 yards away. Later it was shown that the signal was "I surrender."

There were two white Americans and five Filipinos in the crew of the Rowanmore, all of whom were saved. Last (Continued on Page 2, Column 4.)

TEACHERS URGED TO HELP IN CORN SHOW

County Agent Directs Letter to Pedagogues of the County.

Teachers of Allen county are asked to become interested in the boys' corn contest at the show to be held in the assembly room of the court house in this city, December 12 to 15, inclusive, in a letter sent to them by A. J. Hutchins, county agent, who is directing the show.

"As the corn show is now planned there will be two general classes, one for men and one for the boys of the seventh and eighth grades, and as teachers, you should be interested in the boys' contest," says the letter. According to present plans there will be classes for white, yellow and mixed corn with good prizes in each class.

The letter further says in part: "It is desired by D. O. McComb, county school superintendent, and myself, that every school where agriculture is taught, be represented by at least one boy sending a ten-car sample of corn. The corn can be sent to the office of the county agent and must be sent on or before December 11. No corn will be received after Monday, December 11. The corn will be taken care of and properly labeled. Have each sample well packed and do not put in bags. Have each boy write his full name plainly stating his township and school.

COAL WAGON DRIVERS HOLD UP STRIKE MOVE.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 16.—Leaders of the coal wagon drivers' union today held up their proposed strike order for several hours while they waited action of the Cleveland Federation of Labor and the arrival of Thomas Farrell, international organizer of the teamsters' union.

In the meantime schools, hospitals and orphanages were making desperate efforts to obtain as much coal as possible.

BORDER WAR GAME BEGINS

25,000 U. S. Soldiers Take Part in Big Maneuver Along Rio Grande.

FT. WAYNE MEN IN ARMY OF DEFENSE Company E and Battery D Aid in Resisting "Invaders."

Brownsville, Tex., Nov. 16.—Twenty-five thousand soldiers comprising national guardsmen from nine states and several regular army organizations today began what army officers declare to be the most extensive maneuver attempted since the coming of the national guard to the Mexican border. The soldiers are about equally divided into two armies, one to be known as "the brown army" and the other as "the white army."

The invading force, "the brown army," is to try to wrest a large section of territory known as the "lower Rio Grande valley" from "the white army," the defending forces, which is to be stationed in the neighborhood of Llano Grande, forty-six miles west of Brownsville. The territory in which the armies are to be active is bounded on the east by the Gulf of Mexico, on the south by the Rio Grande, on the north by Harlingen, twenty-nine miles north of Brownsville, and on the west by Llano Grande.

C., B. & C. ROAD MAY BE SOLD FOR JUNK

Such is Story Emanating from Portland—Will Be Sold Monday.

A story originating at Portland that a plan is on foot for the junking of the C., B. & C. railroad which operates from Huntington to Portland has caused no little excitement in the towns through which the road passes. The report started as the result of a remark made by an employee of the company to the effect that scrap-iron dealers have been inspecting the property during the past couple of weeks. In view of the fact that the road is to be sold in Huntington on Monday, November 20, it is believed that the junk dealers will submit bids with a view of tearing the road up and junking it. In their inspection of the property they have made very careful estimates of the "old iron value" of the rails and the rolling stock and even have figured on the possible "salvage" in selling the right-of-way back to the farmers along the line.

According to the story from Portland a number of scrap-iron dealers are pooling together to pull this deal with "ready cash" in an effort to stampede the court into a sale without committing themselves to operate the road. Fort Wayne junk dealers Thursday denied any knowledge of the contemplated purchase of the road by scrap-iron dealers.

THESE FIVE MEN WILL HOLD BALANCE OF POWER IN HOUSE.

Top to bottom, around the question mark: C. H. Randall, California prohibitionist; T. D. Schall, Minnesota progressive; W. P. Martin, Louisiana progressive-protectionist; Meyer London, New York socialist; A. J. Fuller, Massachusetts independent.

Latest figures on the election of members of the house apparently gives the republicans 217 votes, the democrats 213. Randall, of California, aligns himself with the democrats. Representative Martin, of Louisiana, is a democrat except on the subject of protection. The democrats now have revised the sugar tariff to suit him and his district, and he has no excuse for doing anything except support that party in the house.

Alvan Fuller, of Massachusetts, entered the race against a republican, Roberts, in the Ninth Massachusetts district, and was elected by democratic and progressive voters. He is absolutely independent in politics, but would not under any circumstances line up with the old guard republicans.

Thomas D. Schall, of Minneapolis, leans toward the republicans. His action, however, is uncertain. Schall is a blind man now about to serve his second term. His election was due largely to his wife's campaigning.

This shows a line-up of 217 republicans against 216 democrats, with Schall and London unaccounted for. If Schall drops into the democratic line-up on organization of the house, the lone socialist may decide the course of legislation for two years to come.

The body of Miss Diemer showing a broken neck and little water in the lungs was found in the Vermillion river a week ago. Miss Diemer was 33 years old. She was a college graduate.

MAY AGAIN BLOCK WAY

HIS COLLEAGUES SEEM CONFIDENT Believe Mexican Chairman Will Sanction Plan Now Proposed.

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 16.—Interest in the sessions of the Mexican-American joint commission today was in learning what would be the attitude of Luis Cabrera, chairman of the Mexican commission. During his absence at Philadelphia, Ognacio Bonillas and Alberto J. Pani, the other Mexican representatives, virtually agreed with the American commission on the essential points of a plan of border control.

They expressed confidence in the support of Mr. Cabrera notwithstanding the opposition offered by him on Tuesday, the last time he appeared in the conference.

The optimism displayed by the two Mexican commissioners was not shared by all those in touch with the conference early today. By a few of them it was regarded as not improbable that Mr. Cabrera might again stand in the way, although preparations have been made for reducing to writing the agreement.

Mr. Bonillas and Mr. Pani appeared confident that another hitch would be avoided. Mr. Cabrera remained non-committal.

DID LOCAL BURGLARS PULL VINCENNES JOB?

Detectives Working on Case Say It Resembles Robberies Here.

Burns detectives have notified the Fort Wayne police department that they believe the robbery of a large hardware store in Vincennes was committed by the same clever burglars who looted three South Calhoun street stores last month and obtained $1,500 in pens, razors, cameras and jewelry.

Fact that the same kind of safety razors were removed from the Vincennes store as were taken from the Meyer and Brothers drug store, corner of Wayne and Calhoun streets, leads detectives to feel that the same band carried out both robberies. The back window of the Vincennes store was opened by a jimmy exactly like entrance was obtained to the three Fort Wayne stores, the other two being Bader's book store and Beck's jewelry store.

Only the best brands of articles were taken by the men who entered the Vincennes store last Thursday night. The loot consists of three dozen razors, twelve dozen safety razors, knives and watches, amounting to $700.

READS OF OWN DEATH: THEN RECOVERY STARTS.

Danville, Ind., Nov. 16.—Since reading an account of her own death in a local newspaper, Mrs. Cunningham H. Stuart has been convalescing rapidly. She suffered from blood poison and her death was expected momentarily. By mistake a notice of her death was published and the nurse attending Mrs. Stuart left the paper lying near the bed. Mrs. Stuart got the paper and read the notice. She laughed heartily and began to improve immediately.

BURN TOWNS IN RETREAT

Von Mackensen's Forces in Dobrudja Falling Back, Petrograd Says.

RUSSO-RUMANIAN RALLY CONTINUES Somme Fighting Still Intense, With Little Advantage Shown.

Today's War News Given in Summary

Field Marshal von Mackensen's army, in the Rumanian province of Dobrudja, is in retreat, the Petrograd war office announces today, burning villages as it falls back.

Increasing pressure by the Russo-Rumanian army in Dobrudja, which rallied after its severe defeat by von Mackensen last month, has been in evidence for several days. Bucharest reported a further advance yesterday toward the important Tcheravoda-Constanza railroad, which the Teutonic allies captured in their drive. Berlin today entered a denial of the Rumanian claim and in its report on the Dobrudja campaign reported only encounters between advanced detachments.

Fighting in the Somme region of northern France shows little diminution in its intensity with attack and counter attack, following swiftly. The British advance in the Ancre region seems to have halted. London announces only artillery activity during the night. Berlin, however, reports heavy attacks by the British yesterday, notably one on the village of Grandcourt, which is declared to have broken down.

The successes against the French scored by the Germans north of the Somme yesterday are reported by Berlin today. They consisted, according to the statement, in the capture, in the house to house fighting of the eastern section of the village of Sailly, where the French were menacing the German positions in the St. Pierre-Vaast woods, and the French trenches on the northern edge of this wood. For their part the French reacted against the German south of the Somme, near Chaulnes, where a German counter attack was announced yesterday to have wrested a part of the village of Pressoire from French possession. The French recaptured this wood last night. Preliminary announcements in today's official bulletin.

The invasion of Rumania is continuing successfully, Berlin announces in today's official bulletin.

Petrograd, Nov. 16.—The war office announces that Field Marshal von Mackensen's army is in retreat in Dobrudja, burning villages as it falls back. On the Transylvania front in the region of Campulung, Rumania, fierce fighting is in progress.

WILL SEEK AN EARLY RULING

Department of Justice to Press Adamson Law Actions to Decision.

WILL BE RUSHED TO THE SUPREME COURT Hoping to Secure Final Judgment Not Far from January 1.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—Early decision by the supreme court of one of the railroad suits attacking the constitutionality of the eight-hour law probably will be sought by the department of justice. An appeal probably will be made in the first case decided in the hope that the supreme court may be able to pass judgment as near as possible by Jan. 1, when the law would become effective, if not suspended by injunction.

Official notice of the filing of sixteen suits had been received today by the department, but no determination reached as to where it would endeavor to have the first hearing.

Preparations were being made today for the meeting Monday of the joint congressional committee to investigate railroad questions including government ownership. The committee has sent notices to every state governor and attorney general and all state railroad commissions, to commercial and industrial organizations, and to the president of every railroad in the country. No dates for the appearance of witnesses have been set, but the hearing will open on Monday, with testimony by state railway commissioners.

JOHN R. EXTON IS OVERCOME BY GAS

Physicians Succeed in Reviving Stricken Man After an Hour.

While at work in a trench at Washington street and Broadway, Thursday John R. Exton, 1219 Lafayette street, employed by the Northern Indiana Gas and Electric company in the street department, was overcome by gas. He was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital where immediate medical attention was given him.

Physicians worked with him for nearly an hour before he was restored to consciousness. It was evident that had fellow workmen not discovered him when they were about to leave for their noonday lunch, he would have met death by asphyxiation.

Earlier in the morning he had been working on Broadway near Swinney avenue. At 11 o'clock the gang of men was moved to Washington street. Exton was making a coupling in a trench. When the workmen started home at 12 o'clock they looked into the trench and saw him lying there unconscious. He was taken to the hospital. At 1 o'clock the attending physician succeeded in bringing him back to consciousness. His condition is serious. S. M. Crawford, superintendent of the street department of the gas company, refused to talk on the subject. Exton is 55 years of age.

INDIANA TOWNS HIT WHEN GAS GOES DOWN

Anderson, Ind., Nov. 16.—Gas consumers in Anderson, Muncie and other cities supplied by the Central Indiana Gas company are suffering today from the gas shortage of the winter. At 8:30 a. m. today the gas pressure in the mains suddenly failed and at noon only a quarter of a pound pressure is being registered. The usual pressure is six pounds. Local company officials state that it is probable that a leak in the main line from West Virginia, where the gas is secured, is causing the shortage.

A. J. Hutchins, county agent, Wednesday attended a rural ministers' conference at St. Joe, DeKalb county. Rev. O. F. Thomas of Fort Wayne was one of the speakers. He spoke on the work of training school for Sunday school teachers. Others on the program were W. A. Link, professor of Purdue university; A. J. Erhart, county agent of DeKalb county; and Oakes F. Hall, student pastor of Purdue university, who was a rural church worker at New Ross, Ind., before going to Purdue.

Passengers View Sea Battle at a Distance

New York, Nov. 16.—The sea battle between British and German destroyers in the English channel on the night of October 26 when German war craft made a raid on the channel transport service, was witnessed at a distance by passengers and officers on the Cunard line steamer Andania, which arrived here today from London. Reports brought to the ship after the battle, the passengers said, were that eight British outposts were sunk, two destroyers and one transport were sunk.

Chief Officer T. A. Chester of the Andania said today that on the evening of the 26th a line of British destroyers were seen moving to the east at a rapid pace. Soon after they had passed flashes of light were seen and the thunder of guns was heard, coming from an estimated distance of about twenty miles.

The flashes and detonations indicated that a brisk battle was in progress which lasted all night. The Andania, later being permitted to go to sea, had her ports painted black and all her lights were screened. She was accompanied by two British destroyers until well past the danger zone.

PRELIMINARY WORK STILL UNDER WAY

National W. C. T. U. Convention at Indianapolis Opens Tomorrow.

Indianapolis, Nov. 16.—The preliminary meeting of the official and executive boards of the National Woman's Christian Temperance union, which opens its annual convention here tomorrow, were continued today. In addition the evangelistic conference of the national organization also was held. General uncertainty thought in all the addresses at the conference was that evangelism and prohibition go together.

Mrs. Ella Kraft, state superintendent for Indiana, welcomed the conference delegates, after which Miss Anna A. Corden, the national president of the W. C. T. U., spoke on "Prohibition in Action." She declared that abundant prosperity followed prohibition. Other speakers at the morning session were Mrs. Ella Roole, vice president of the national union, and Mrs. Frances Parks, the corresponding secretary. Mrs. Elizabeth Preston Anderson, of Fargo, N. D., spoke on "Evangelism in Activities."

WILL DROP WILSON PORTRAIT.

New York, Nov. 16.—Customers of a local wholesale dry goods house may no longer order "a thousand yards of Wilson," the firm announced today after receiving a letter from the White House requesting it to cease using a pen and ink portrait of the president as a trademark. The trademark will be eliminated. According to a statement by the firm no objection was offered when the idea was submitted for approval in 1912.

BRITISH DRIVE BROKEN.

Germans Check Attack in Hand Grenade Fighting.

Berlin, Nov. 16.—(By wireless to Sayville.)—Attacks by British troops on the German lines along the road from Mailly to Serre and also to the south-east of Beaumont, north of the river Ancre, were beaten off by the Germans in hand grenade fighting, the war office announced today.

Strong British forces attacked Grandcourt, but the assault broke down under the German fire.

South of the Somme, eastern section of Salliel was taken from the French, and French trenches on the northern edge of St. Pierre Vaast, were captured, together with more than 300 prisoners and five machine guns.

An attack by Russian troops on the German lines southeast of Riga, on the Russian front, was repulsed, the war office announced in today's official statement.

Answer: "I advise that you begin using three grain sulphur tablets (not sulphur). These tablets are laxative, act on the liver, kidneys and bowels and tend to keep the blood pure, by arousing the eliminative functions. Relief should follow quickly."

"Secretary" writes: "I have pains in my spine and frequent headache in back of head, fainting spells, twitching and trembling, nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of appetite and strength, and in fact am 'all over the place' when it comes to performing accustomed work, and duties. Please advise."

Answer: "In all such cases the assimilative functions have not kept pace with waste functions and a powerful harmless tonic treatment is needed. I find three grain cod-liver oil tablets unexcelled and astonishingly beneficial in such cases and advise them for you."

Mrs. C. W. R. asks: "I suffer greatly owing to too much fat. Can you advise me of a good reduction remedy?"

Answer: "Any well stocked pharmacy can supply you with 5 grain arbolone tablets, packed in sealed tubes with full directions for use. These tablets have proven wonderfully effective in reducing abnormal fat."

"Fern" writes: "I have suffered with a bad cough for some time and I am also weak and tired most of the time, which I think is due to the severe coughing. Can you give me a remedy?"

Answer: "Yes, your weakness is due to the coughing, but you should be well recovered by using the following: Get a 2½ oz. package of essence mentho-laxene and make according to directions on the bottle, then take a teaspoonful every hour or two until the cough is cured. This makes a full pint of the very best and safest cough syrup. If your druggist does not have mentho-laxene, have him order it for you of the wholesale firm."

C. O. C. asks: "I am constipated, tongue coated, have headache, dizzy spells and indigestion sometimes. Please

Half the Workers in Some Districts in Czar's Empire Are Women.

Petrograd, Russia, Nov. 4.—The imperial duma has had under consideration a bill providing for the appointment of forty women as inspectors of factories. This bill was introduced in February, 1913, by the Moscow deputy, M. N. Novikov, and was initiated by the Moscow branch of the League of Equal Rights for Women.

The inspection of all factories and workshops by women is in contemplation. At its inception only the inspection of minors was provided for, a matter for which women are peculiarly fitted. Thereafter, the protection of labor through factory inspection was extended also to woman workers.

The work of women in our industries threatens to bear hard on the work of men. As long ago as 1908 a census was taken of the increase, both relative and absolute, of the number of woman workers in our factories and workshops. The increase in the number of woman workers exceeded the total increase of workers, which shows that, in certain industries, the work of women is displacing the work of men.

And women's work is steadily finding its way into the more arduous industries.

In the first decade of the twentieth century the number of women employed in metallurgical industries doubled; in industries engaged in the manufacture of metal objects the number of woman workers increased one and a half times, and in chemical industries (which are younger) it more than doubled.

In 1900 25 per cent of the factory workers were women, in 1908 31 per cent, and in 1912 45 per cent.

The war has quickened this process, has made it conspicuous. Through evil necessity, women have been compelled to take up activities demanding special physical endurance, accompanied by a high degree of risk. Thus the immense new metallurgical undertakings in the Urals are possible under war conditions only because women fill all the positions of unskilled labor.

According to the data of the just published Journal of Commerce and Trade of the number of those engaged in metal works, the women were from 25 per cent to 33 per cent in 1912-1914; at the end of 1915 the number of women was already 11 per cent; that is, the number of women had increased five or six times. In technical industries, the number of women, after one and a half years of war, had increased 74 per cent. In the Moscow district in 1915 there were 49.8 per cent of woman workers in all districts.

DUCK DISLIKES AIRSHIP.

Kiel, Germany, Nov. 17.—Ornithologists have discovered that the wild duck does not like the aeroplane, apparently taking it for some huge bird of prey. From the North sea coast of Schleswig-Holstein it is reported that the great flocks of ducks which in previous years stopped for rest and food on the coastal sand islands on their flight from the far north to the south have avoided that region this year. The explanation offered is that they were frightened away by the many aeroplanes that are constantly scouting along the coast.

FOOD DICTATOR NAMED.

Budapest, Hungary, Nov. 17.—The appointment is announced of Baron Kuerthy to the newly created position of food dictator for Hungary. The new official, whose post is regarded as of almost equal importance to that of a cabinet minister, is practically unknown in the capital. He has held for some time past the position of governor of a northern province, where his work won the admiration of Count Tisza.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to flush Kidneys if Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells that meat forms uric acid, which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weak, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink.—Advertisement.

DAILY BIBLE READINGS FOR THE HOME

Luke 2:1-10.

1 And it came to pass, that, as he was praying in a certain place, when he ceased, one of his disciples said unto him, Lord, teach us to pray, as John also taught his disciples.

2 And he said unto them, When ye pray, say, Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed by thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, as in heaven, so in earth.

3 Give us day by day our daily bread.

4 And forgive us our sins; for we also forgive every one that is indebted to us. And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil.

5 And he said unto them, Which of you shall have a friend, and shall go unto him at midnight, and say unto him, Friend, lend me three loaves;

6 For a friend of mine in his journey is come to me, and I have nothing to set before him?

7 And he from within shall answer and say, Trouble me not: the door is now shut, and my children are with me in bed; I cannot rise and give thee.

8 I say unto you, Though he will not rise and give him, because he is his friend, yet because of his importunity he will rise and give him as many as he needeth.

9 And I say unto you, Ask and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you.

10 For every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened.

State Highway Department

One of the newly-elected members of the legislature from Indianapolis is already framing for introduction a bill to create a state highway department, modeled along the lines suggested by the highway bureau of the department of agriculture, in order that Indiana may share in the federal appropriation for good roads. There will no doubt be other bills of similar character and like purpose, and it will be up to the state solons to select the best one or to evolve an altogether different measure embodying the better points of each of them.

Past opposition to the creation of a state highway department has been general and pronounced, chiefly because it was feared that its machinery might be expensive, its control too highly centralized, and that it would be too little disposed to give hearing to residents and property owners along the roads regarding improvements. Within the past few years the state highway bureau idea has gained many friends, particularly among those who have come to realize that returns from expenditure for road improvement are infinitely greater when road improvement is scientifically and systematically done, than when the piecemeal, haphazard plan is followed, and when, as was the case in many instances, it was followed without competent direction and without sufficient care.

It is freely admitted on every hand that there has been tremendous waste in road-building through both incompetence and neglect. There will be agreement that recent progress toward betterment has been conspicuous, and there will be a general desire for its continuance. The opportunity to secure federal aid that amounts to $135,000 for the first year, $270,000 for the second year and an increasing sum for the succeeding years is one which Indiana has no desire to spurn, and we trust there may be compliance with the terms under which it may be obtained. So splendid a state as Indiana should be first in highway improvement as in everything else.

Another interesting sight these days is the long procession of job-hunters who are encamped on the trail of successful republicans who have just been elected to state office in Indiana. The scramble started the moment it became apparent Mr. Goodrich and his ticket had been swept in by Hoosier voters, and it has been gaining strength, height, depth, width, thickness, numerical scope and momentum every day since that historic occasion. There may not, and doubtless will not, be enough good things to go 'round, but despite Mr. Goodrich's campaign declarations that he intended to wipe out an uncounted number of useless state positions under a reform and business-like administration of affairs, there are indications that meat tickets may be provided for a good many of the faithful during the next few years. And we wish 'em all well. Grabbin' is free, but it's satisfying only when you succeed in being able to hold fast after you've got something.

And speaking of preparedness, it may be noted that one big Indiana brewery is now developing as a side-line the manufacture of carbonated and clarified sweet cider—a non-alcoholic beverage that is said to be attractive, refreshing and thirst-quenching, and its exploitation on a large scale was begun at the Indiana apple show now in progress at West Baden. It is pretty clear that this particular brewery sees what's coming in a few years at most, and is displaying foresight in selecting a soft spot on which to alight when the blow-up comes.

Ninety-one electoral votes from the equal suffrage states divided on the presidential race as follows: Wilson, 57; Hughes, 34. The score is chiefly interesting as affording an illuminating illustration of what happened to the effort to line up a distinctly woman's party and line it up wholly for the republican nominee. The women appear to have very sensibly refused to divide on sex lines. They followed sane judgment and voted their sentiments as individuals, precisely as did the male voter.

Car shortages are rather intangible things—interesting enough by way of variation in conversational theme but hardly worth worrying about—until they begin to result in coal famine with the mercury headed downward and going strong. Then we begin to realize that there are drawbacks even in a situation which finds the country with so blamed much business that it cannot properly take care of it all.

Perhaps, too, you fondly imagined you were through with the election business for awhile, but you're mistaken. Another vote comes along in Indiana on Saturday, December 16. It's for road supervisors, when the 1,016 townships in Indiana, voting between 2 o'clock and 5 o'clock in the afternoon, will select highway officials.

Doubtless a good many of the horses forced to stand unblanketed in the chill these days cannot help noticing that the radiators of standing automobiles are a good deal more fortunate in that regard than are the equines they have all but supplanted.

No Place to Ride

THE DEUTSCHLAND.

The principal item in the submarine Deutschland's supposedly secret cargo is said to be nickel; and most of it is from Canada.

What a feat for the Deutschland's directors, to obtain war supplies from a British colony, by devious methods, and to sneak it across the ocean under the very keels of the British navy that "rules the waves"!

Whatever commercial value the Deutschland may have, and whatever threat there may be in its masked prompt to the United States, the strange craft's greatest value to the Germans must lie in its ability to make the lion mad.

The more fury Britain wastes on inward fuming the less she will have to use against the outer enemy.

A JOB FOR A REAL INVENTOR.

A Kansas genius has invented a "shaving harness." It's an affair with straps that you put over your shoulders, and it holds a shaving mug with brush, a shelf (grooved) for the razor, and an adjustable mirror. It is so arranged that as you turn your head to one side and down the mirror follows automatically, this being controlled by movement of the shoulder straps. Thus any man can shave in comfort and without contorting the neck.

Our thanks to this Kansas inventor. When our driver is paid for we'll buy one of his contraptions.

But a greater debt will be humanity's to that man, blessed be his auburn beard, who invents an unloseable or self-finding collar button!

UN-AMERICAN.

Americans are known the world over for their generosity. They are good losers, the Europeans will admit.

When it is officially established that President Wilson has been re-elected, Charles Evans Hughes will lose no time in sending him a telegram of congratulations and good wishes.

Hughes has lost the greatest prize in the world, today. Everyone, winner or loser, gives him credit for his fight and, when that telegram is sent, will praise him for his American spirit of gamesness.

But along comes Rev. Francis von Glafenbeck, of Timamook, Ore., and re-signs his citizenship of the United States just because Wilson has been re-elected! The pastor, let it be known, is a naturalized citizen.

"To see a man returned to power after an administration and policy such as we have seen during the past four years is too much for me," he writes.

It is too bad that Paston von Glafenbeck has been disappointed. All good Americans will grieve with him, for that, just as they express condolence for the losing candidate.

But here is where good American tolerance ends. A real American is a "sport." He gives credit where credit is due. He hears and heeds the voice of the majority.

Did the pastor of Tillamook ever witness a baseball or football game where thousands of fans rooted for one side or the other? Did he notice the applause the losers were always ready to give the winners?

Did the pastor realize that, when he swore his allegiance to the United States, he also swore his faith in American spirit and gamesness?

Let's hope Europe does not hear of this extraordinary conduct of a naturalized American! If she does, let's hope she does not take it as a criterion upon which to judge the rest of America.

Taft as Peace Envoy.

BY THEODORE MARBURG.
(Former United States Minister to Belgium.)

To prevent such failure as that of the congress of Vienna the nations should declare war now in favor of "some sort of joint guarantee of peace"—President Wilson's words—to be set up after the war.

If, for example, the allies, embracing so many states, should do this now, it would go far to insure the ultimate success of the project. And so to declare their purpose now would not only strengthen their cause in the neutral world—just as Lincoln's proclamation of emancipation in the middle of our civil war won for the northern cause the sympathy of the world—but it would likewise stiffen the purpose of their own armies; for men who felt that they were fighting to help and war would fight with new zeal.

The best way to secure this declaration from the powers now is to ask no less a personage than an ex-president of the United States, Mr. Taft, to accept the mission and go abroad for this purpose. The United States is ready to commit herself to a plan of which her leading statesmen approve, but which involves so radical a departure from her traditional policies that it ought perhaps to be first indorsed by a joint resolution of congress, the task of getting the European powers to declare now in favor of the principle can be undertaken most appropriately by one of their own number.

No one is better fitted to urge this course upon them and to co-operate in acquainting the various chancelleries with the project than Mr. Taft, who knows the problem in all its phases and has been such a consistent friend of improved international organization.

Dachshunds with their tongues hanging out; open-jawed crocodiles, clowns, rocking horses, sea lions and other animals in queer forms come from her shop. And that makes the toy a real live animal, not just a piece of wood, says Mrs. Santa Claus. "Little blue-eyed Gretchen taught me

Boston, Mass., Nov. 15.—There's a woman Santa Claus in Boston!

Mrs. Maria Weniger has imported from her native home in the Black Forest district of Germany, ideas for making children happy and has her own workshop where she carves out weird creatures of wood and paints them to look more quaint and humorous.

Since the earliest days she could remember, this woman Santa Claus had a knack for making toys. When a child she whittled playthings for herself and friends. Later she took a course in man-

But the prayer is Mrs. Weniger's secret. If that were known by others, she would not be a woman Santa Claus, she contends.

Prepare This for a Bad Cough—It's Fine

Cheaps and Easy Made, but Does the Work Quickly.

The finest cough syrup that money can buy—costing only about one-fifth as much as ready-made preparations—can easily be made up at home. The way it takes hold and conquers distressing coughs, throat and chest colds will really make you enthusiastic about it. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth). Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Shake thoroughly and it is ready for use. The total cost is about 54 cents and gives you a full pint—a family supply of a most effective, pleasant tasting remedy. It keeps perfectly.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the inflamed or swollen throat membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough will disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, whooping cough or bronchial asthma. Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway spruce extract, combined with guaia-cum and is known the world over for its prompt healing effect on the throat membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for ½ ounce of Pinex with full directions and don't accept any thing else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Now, by asking at any drug store for "Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease. Advertisement.

PROBE ERECTION OF COURT HOUSE

Thorough Investigation of Sensational Charges Will Be Made by Jay County Grand Jury.

Portland, Ind., Nov. 16.—Assuming duties yesterday, Judge E. E. McGriff, in the Jay circuit court, made his first official act the issuance of a call for the grand jury to convene today. Charges made in connection with the new court house being erected here, and the Roy Brown murder mystery at Red Key, will be investigated. The regular panel of grand jurors is equally divided politically. County Commissioners Davis and Robey were not candidates for re-election.

BITTEN BY A RAT.

Lagrange Man May Lose His Arm as a Result.

Lagrange, Ind., Nov. 16.—The bite of a rat may cause Will Davis to lose his arm. Monday afternoon Mr. Davis attempted to release a live rat from a trap at the Timmis meat market, where he is employed. The rodent suddenly turned on him and bit him on the left hand near the base of the index finger.

The hand became inflamed at once and started to swell, giving him much pain. A local physician was consulted, but he was unable to stop the swelling, which was rapidly affecting his whole arm. Fearing blood poisoning, Mr. Davis was taken to a hospital in Fort Wayne by Dr. C. C. Rozello and James Brady.

SUFFERS FRACTURED SKULL.

Columbia City, Ind., Nov. 16.—A few days ago William Nichols, tenant on the William Raup farm north of this city, was suddenly stricken with an attack of vertigo and fell from the wagon upon which he was standing. His head struck a stone in the fall and upon the arrival of Drs. Otto and E. G. Grissler it was thought that the inner table of the skull had been fractured, as the right ear bled continuously. Mr. Nichols continued to bleed at the ear for several days and on Tuesday afternoon the doctors discovered a fracture of the skull, as first thought by them. Mr. Nichols has been suffering severely from his injuries and it may be some time before the injuries properly heal.

Sutton, of Dunkirk, prosecuting attorney-elect of Jay county, who will take up his duties on January 1, will, it is announced, name deputy prosecutors to serve at Redkey, Bryant, Pennville and Portland. It is said that the scramble on for the deputyship appointment at Portland, between Charles O. Sutton's commission has not yet been received and it is probable that he will not make public his intended appointments until this comes.

GAS CONDITIONS BAD.

Hartford City, Ind., Nov. 16.—Gas conditions in this city again went far below "par" Wednesday morning about 11:30 o'clock when the small supply which had accumulated in the storage tanks of the company at Marion and Muncie gave out, after the tanks had been filled during the night. Van Wert, Ohio, Nov. 16.—A restaurant man in Grover Hill, an erstwhile supporter of Mr. Hughes, defunct, has got himself into a very uncomfortable situation. Mr. Mohr, (the gentleman in question) in his pre-election order for the G. O. P. candidate for the presidency, made a bet with a fellow townsman, a strong pro-Wilson man, that he would walk to Van Wert backwards if Hughes was defeated.

It is now up to Mr. Mohr to make good, which he says he will do. He will start from Grover Hill Friday and expects to reach Main street, Van Wert, via Washington street, in a space of time that would do Weston credit.

MOTHERS' CLUB MEETING.

Uncommonly Good Program Carried Out at Important Gathering.

When the president, Mrs. Arthur Remmel, called the Mothers' club to order at the Y. W. C. A., on Wednesday afternoon, it was a large and rather a most keenly interested audience of women that responded. The announcement that both Mr. and Mrs. George Baillie would appear on the program and give something unusual from the customary routine of club meetings had served to attract much interest and everyone was glad she had been there when the program ended. Mr. Baillie's talk concerned the "Value of Music to the Child," and every one present caught the practical as well as educational idea, that music is no longer merely an accomplishment for those who have money, or just worth while to those of marked talent. Mr. Baillie made plain that music is a necessary part of an education, the cultivation of the ear being an important factor in its study as the training of the fingers on an instrument. A new thought to many was that as child is taught music in the home that the rest of the family may be taught to enjoy music, too. Intelligent musical enjoyment is a part of popular education. Children in school learn of many things, in fact, in theory, and through ear cultivation that they might otherwise miss altogether. Mr. Baillie emphasized the fact that the first teacher of the child in music instruction is at the best, that faulty instruction that the beginning may cause faults that are never overcome. Quality and not price is considered by the careful mother. Mr. Baillie characterized as an illusion the considering of one "method" or another, saying there is but one correct method, and that is to have none at all, but to consider each pupil as a separate individual with regard to his talent, ability, temperament and natural inclination to work. Mrs. Baillie sang a group of songs in a truly delightful manner with Mr. Baillie at the piano. Mr. Baillie answered questions willingly after his talk. Miss Erickson, a kindergarten teacher in the Miller school, gave a talk to mothers that was very practical and interesting. Miss Calmerton spoke of the difficulty to secure proper picture films to show children and highly recommended the story hour at the public library every Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. The Mothers' club also took action on a plan of work for which they adopted resolutions commending the plan of the Rotary club whereby each member has agreed to look after one newshy until he reaches manhood, were passed by the Fort Wayne Mothers' club. The plan was characterized as one of the most worthy undertakings that could have been conceived for the help, advancement and encouragement of the young street merchants. The secretary of the Mothers' club was instructed to send a copy of the resolutions to the president of the Rotary club.

AT THE PALACE.

THE METROPOLITAN DANCERS.

George and Mac LeFevre's Famous Act at the Palace.

The international dancing revue, an annual offering arranged by the famous exponents of the modern dance, George and Mac LeFevre, with a group of six Metropolitan dancers, is the feature attraction on the bill that will run the remainder of the week at the New Palace. Lavishly costumed, brilliantly staged and gracefully executed this dancing revue is the mark at which all others in vaudeville shoot. For several years the LeFevres have taken on tour a group of the most promising dance students of New York, presenting them with remarkable success over the vaudeville circuits.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

"Broadway After Dark" Again This Evening.

"Broadway After Dark," the modern melodrama in four acts, which will come to the Majestic tonight is from the pen of W. C. Hoffman, and is offered by the producer, Halton Powell. The play tells the story of the downfall and the redemption of a young woman and the story is told with many thrills, with many stirring climaxes and with many good comedy points. It is a human play, in which some excellent types of modern life are depicted vividly.

"The Girl of the Whispering Pines" on Saturday.

The International Amusement company has touched the psychological moment in presenting Miss Grace Joyner, supported by an excellent cast of players, in Sherman L. Jones' great play, "The Girl of the Whispering Pines." This splendid production comes to the Majestic theater on Saturday, matinee and night.

This startling melodrama is gripping in interest and filled every moment of it with tense action and good, bubbling comedy.

To see "The Girl of the Whispering Pines" adds much to the sum of human happiness and enjoyment.

The play is a great laugh producer and yet it holds you in a vice-like grip. It is uplifting and makes you feel that there is something worth living for in life. It tells the story of a lone girl of a loving and tender nature, of how she was left motherless in the hills of Tennessee, of her travels to the city and to finally find a home among the whispering pines of New Mexico.

AT THE TEMPLE.

Playgoers are this week having every opportunity to see a first-class production of "Arizona" at the Temple theater.

ter, as the stock company is offering Augustus Thomas' great story of the western plains, ranch life and military as one of the best drawing cards of the season. There are no battle scenes, or letting of blood, although the military scenes are suggestive of that sort of thing. Instead the author has written a drama full of human interest around a young army officer, Lieut. Denton, of the Eleventh U. S. cavalry, who is the ideal of a soldier. True to his commanding officer, who is also his friend and benefactor, Lieut. Denton frustrates the attempt of Col. Bonham's wife to elope with an army officer, who has momentarily turned her head, and in so doing finds himself embroiled in a network of circumstantial evidence which causes his colonel to believe him to be the guilty man. Sooner than tell the truth, which would wreck the domestic happiness of Col. Bonham's home, he sacrifices his chosen military career and leaves the service. Later the young officer is exonerated and wins a bride in the bargain, who is the colonel's own sister-in-law. There will be two performances at the Temple today and two as usual on Saturday.

AT THE JEFFERSON.

E. H. Sothern, Noted Stage Star, in Film Drama at Jefferson.

With the distinguished American actor, E. H. Sothern, and the charming London beauty star, Peggy Hyland, the Jefferson today is offering a program of unusual excellence in "The Chatter," with another chapter of "Gloria's Romance" by Billie Burke as the companion offering.

The supreme genius of the modern stage, the man whose mastery will leave its indelible influence on the drama for all time gives the most wonderful performance of his entire career in this production. His motion picture appearance vindicates every claim to distinction and respect which the motion picture ever possessed; his art elevates the theme to realms of genius and renders an inspired portrayal. Assisting E. H. Sothern the charming London beauty star, Peggy Hyland, who has never appeared to better advantage than in this big realistic greater Vitaphone production.

"The Chatter" is a smashing story of the revolt of woman against the bondage of tradition and the tyranny of a man's domination. To the superb work of Sothern and Peggy Hyland is added the wonderful stage effects of the master producer, Frederick Thomson, which goes to make up one of the best stories ever unfolded on the screen. Billie Burke will be an extra feature today, which constitutes one of the best-balanced bills seen at the Jefferson.

REALTY MEN DIVIDED

Theme is Big Subject Before State Convention at Evansville.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 16.—Booming enthusiasm on the part of hosts and guests, marked the opening of the third annual convention of the Indiana Real Estate association here yesterday afternoon, which will continue two more days. Real estate men of this, the capital city of Indiana's "Pocket District," presented streets all bedagged and alighting with the spirit of welcome.

Taxation and city planning are the pre-eminent issues that confronted the convention. Decisive action is certain and the temper of the delegates now is to declare in favor of radical revision of the taxing system and to push with all their power the legislation now proposed for a city planning commission in Indiana. Next to these subjects come those of agricultural development and a state road department, both of which are intimately linked with the progress of the real estate business in Indiana.

It is not improbable that the convention will approve the movement to bring a federal land bank and a government armor plate plant to Indiana. Indianapolis is accepted as the logical place for the land bank and Evansville will receive the benefit of the association's organized effort on the armor plant proposal.

These six topics form the basis of recommendations made by the governors to the committee on resolutions, and a report is expected when the committee is heard Friday afternoon.

On the taxation question there is a divergence of views and it is probable that the discussion to be held tomorrow afternoon, following an address by William L. Elder, of Indianapolis, will show the cleavage between adherents of constitutional amendment and property classification, and the others who believe that the present tax laws are adequate if they are strictly enforced. Mr. Elder, who is chairman of the special commission appointed by Governor Ralston to study the tax question, indicated that he will propose reforms that will not require either a constitutional amendment or property classification.

Schaaf Has Bill. A. H. Schaaf, of Fort Wayne, chairman of the committee, has drafted a bill which, with such amendments as are considered necessary, will be presented to the next legislature. While real estate men generally recognize the need for municipal regulation of streets, buildings and other conditions of private property that affect values adversely, there is a feeling among the delegates here that the Schaaf bill is too drastic and should give more latitude to subdivisions of rural or suburban additions. This object is not vital, however, in the opinion of the men who gave it, and they are positive that a bill embodying the essential ideas of all members can be drafted and pushed forward by the association.

Midday luncheons and committee sessions put a kink into the schedule of the first session yesterday and it was 2:40 o'clock when the gavel of Pres. Lee J. Ninde, of Fort Wayne, fell. The large auditorium of the Evansville chamber of commerce, on the top floor of the new eight-story building of the Old State National bank, was well filled with visitors and local wellcomers. The spirit of jolly fellowship that permeated the hosts was infectious and uproarious applause, ably abetted by songs, horns and ear-piercing rattlers, broke the thread of the afternoon's short session at frequent intervals.

Mayor Delivers Welcome.

After an invocation by Rev. Morton P. Gillin, the first address of welcome was delivered by Mayor Ben Bosse, who, besides mayoring, does considerable real estate work. He touched indirectly on the need for a city-planning commission and complimented real estate men in Indiana for the lively co-operation toward city development which they displayed through their local boards and state associations.

Dr. John R. Mitchell, president of the Evansville real estate board and the probable successor of Mr. Ninde as state president, spoke a welcome on behalf of local agents.

President Ninde's address covered briefly the principal activities of the year, including the promotion of membership, the development of new boards, of which three are now forming, and the splendid financial condition of the association. Mr. Ninde spoke in highly complimentary terms of his predecessor, J. Edward Morris, of Indianapolis, who, he said, had set a gauge of efficiency which subsequent presidents would find it difficult to match.

The report of Treasurer Jay A. Egbert, of Indianapolis, showed receipts of $6,195.45 in the year and expenditures of $6,185.27.

The following committees were announced:

Resolutions—Jay A. Egbert, Indianapolis; A. H. Schaaf, Fort Wayne; C. P. White, Lafayette; J. W. Faris, Peru; W. N. Bergen, South Bend; Orin Jessup, Tipton; H. G. Mauzy, Gary.

Nominations—J. P. Pfister, Terre Haute; L. H. Moore, Fort Wayne; M. S. Sonntag, Evansville; J. S. Cruise, Indianapolis; J. J. Kelley, Gary; William C. Meyers, St. Francisville; Joseph Bruns, New Albany.

Auditing—John W. Holmes, Portland; H. C. Venn, Indianapolis; J. C. Shafer, Anderson.

South Bend, Anderson and Kokomo are contestants for the 1917 convention. The latter two cities probably will pool their interests and decide which one shall make the fight against South Bend. The precedent has been established in the association of giving the presidency to the city in which the convention is held and under this rule Dr. John R. Mitchell would become the successor of Mr. Ninde.

PAINTING BRYAN'S PORTRAIT.

New York Artist Prepares Picture for Department of State.

New York, Nov. 16.—A New York artist is painting a portrait of William Jennings Bryan to hang on the walls of the department of state at Washington beside the portraits of other former secretaries of state. Several months ago Mr. Bryan was asked to find an artist to paint his portrait, but campaigning in the west caused a postponement of the search until he came to New York after election.

Anna Case

the miracle girl of the Metropolitan, proving by direct comparison of her living voice with Edison's Re-Creation of it that the one is absolutely indistinguishable from the other.

There Are Only Two Ways

There are only two ways in which you can become fully familiar with and truly appreciative of a great artist's voice—or instrumental performance.

The first way is to hear him sing—or play.

The second way is to hear the Re-creation of his voice—or instrumental performance—on the New Edison.

The New Edison Is Not a Talking Machine

It differs from any and all talking machines in that talking machines give but a hollow imitation of an artist while the New Edison literally Re-creates the artist's performance.

Great artists have stood beside the New Edison and have sung—or played—in direct comparison with it.

More than 200,000 music lovers have seen and heard these comparisons and have been utterly unable to distinguish the living artist's performance from Edison's Re-creation of that performance.

More than two hundred of America's leading newspapers compare freely in their own columns that the New Edison Re-creates music so perfectly that the Re-creation cannot be distinguished from the original.

The New York Globe refers to the New Edison as "the phonograph with a soul." The New York Tribune says, "Edison has snared the soul of music."

You Do Not Need Imagination

With the New Edison in your home you do not have to imagine what an artist's voice sounds like. When you play an Edison Re-creation of that artist's voice you know exactly how the artist's voice would sound if you heard it in real life.

We want you to hear "The phonograph with a soul."

We want you to hear the Re-created voices of Emmy Destinn, Margarete Matzenauer, Marie Rappold, Anna Case, Julia Heinrich, Alice Vernet, Luciezia Bori, Zenatello, Anselmi, Middleton, Urie, Goritz and Chalmers.

We want you to hear the Re-creation of the masterly bowing of Albert Spalding and Carl Flesch.

We want you to hear the Re-creation of every kind of musical instrument.

There is no obligation to buy. We merely want you to come and hear and be convinced that "Edison has snared the soul of music," just as the New York Tribune says.

CORNERS ON FOOD ON LAND WILL BE PROBED

Federal Official Has His Own Ideas as to High Living Cost.

BY BASIL M. MANLY.
Washington, Nov. 16.—Louis F. Post, assistant United States secretary of labor today, discussing the rapidly increasing prices of all elements of the cost of living, said:
"Until there has been opportunity for complete investigation of the recent sharp increase in prices, it would be rash for one to hazard any opinion either as to its causes or remedies. "However, there are two primary causes which operate constantly on prices and which should be carefully and thoroughly investigated. These two causes, I may call 'individual cornering' and 'social cornering'.

"By 'individual cornering,' I mean the conscious action of one individual or a group of individuals to monopolize some of the products upon which the people are dependent. This occurs when a group of dealers restrict the sale of eggs or when a great trust undertakes to control some primary product. There is much evidence that this has been operating in the present crisis. The department of justice is now directing its investigations along this line.

"Of greater importance as a cause of high prices is 'social cornering' by which the use of the land and natural resources is so restricted that there is a maladjustment of national opportunities. The holding out of use of land which any human being can utilize is equivalent to a corner, not only in the land itself, but also in all the products which might be obtained from that land.

"The great problem of the nation is to secure the maximum utilization of its land and natural resources by its people. If all the available farm land in the United States should be put to efficient use, there would be no such prices!

"It is of the greatest importance that the wage standard of all classes of labor be adjusted to meet the rapid increase in the cost of living. A nation is burning the candle at both ends when it fails at their standard of living.

"But where the welfare of the entire business fabric of the nation is dependent upon its laborers, not only as producers but as consumers of its products, the most elemental business policy would seem to dictate that this problem should take precedence over all others."

IRELAND CROP FAILURE.

Dublin, Ireland, Nov. 16.—Ireland is faced with partial failure of its all-important potato crop. The official estimates indicate a yield of at least a third, and probably a half, less than last year. The loss to farmers through the damage to potatoes is figured at $15,000,000.

Trial Would Open German Secrets, Says Alleged Spy

ARMGARD GRAVES

Graves, called the "international spy," is charged with attempting to blackmail Countess von Bernstorff, the German ambassador's wife. He has expressed confidence the trial of his case will not be pressed because, he says, the code letters he is charged with trying to sell to the countess contained German diplomatic secrets which would be revealed on the witness stand and which would put the ambassador in a serious position.

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME!

SHIPPING INCREASE SEEN.

Edinburgh, Scotland, Nov. 16.—A striking illustration of the increase in value of shipping since 1914 is given in a will contest now before the Edinburgh courts.

The estate involved is that of John Gaff, a Glasgow shipowner, who died in December, 1914. At the date of his death his property was officially valued at slightly over $400,000. The division of the estate was prevented by litigation among the heirs, and it was stated at the final hearing in the case that the value of the property has increased, during the time devoted to legal wrangling, to over a million dollars.

DRASTIC ACTION IF ROADS FAIL TO OBEY

McChord is Determined to Have Coal Cars Sent Back Promptly.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 16.—Commenting upon the apparent failure of several carriers to fully observe informal instructions for the return of foreign coal cars to the owning roads, Commissioner C. C. McChord, of the interstate commerce commission, said today that continued laxity in this connection would result in drastic action.

Today when called upon for reports as to what their lines had done to carry out the informal instructions, counsel for a number of carriers reported that cars were being returned to certain lines and that the "carservice rules were being lived up to," or that they had not understood the commissioners' instructions to apply to roads which had on their lines fewer coal cars than they owned. "The commission," said Mr. McChord, "does not want to do anything drastic. It has preferred to achieve its objects through argument with the carriers, but it seems that this method is not meeting with success, and I am less sanguine than I was a few days since that efforts along this line will be successful. The railroads do not seem to trust each other; they do not want to take each other's word."

"If the commission is forced to take drastic measures it will be done and I will serve notice now that I am done issuing informal requests and that next instructions you get unless those already given are complied with will be in the form of formal orders from the full commission."

B. P. LUGIBHL IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Business Manager of Bible Training School Passes Away.

B. P. Lugibhl, business manager of the Fort Wayne Bible Training school, passed away at noon Thursday at the school where he had made his home. He was 67 years of age. The deceased had been in failing health for the past year, but had been seriously ill only about four weeks.

Mr. Lugibhl was born in Bluffton, Ohio, but came to Fort Wayne when the Bible Training school was founded in this city. Since that time with the exception of two years he had been serving in the capacity of business manager for the institution.

He is survived by the widow and two children—Rev. Walter Lugibhl, of Lima, Ohio, and Mrs. Hinkley, a missionary in China. Both children, however, were at his bedside when he passed away.

The remains will be shipped to Bluffton, Ohio, Saturday morning, where funeral services will be held and burial take place.

20 DRIVERS IN START FOR VANDERBILT CUP

Santa Monica, Cal., Nov. 16.—Twenty drivers got away today in the eleventh Vanderbilt cup road race with M. J. Moosie and Lewis Jackson getting the starter's flag first, the others following in pairs at ten seconds' intervals over the 3.401 mile triangular boulevard course for thirty-five circuits, a total distance of 294,035 miles.

Besides the cup and prize money there was at stake for the winner 900 points in the season's American automobile association's competition for the title of "master driver, of the world," and $13,500, in which Johnny Atken has a lead of 240 points over Dario Resta.

Fair weather with a slight high fog promised good conditions for the long grind, and there were expectations of breaking the record of 76.67 miles an hour, established on the same course by De Palma, winner in 1914.

Johnny Atken and Earl Cooper fifth and third in starting order, drove into the lead immediately and crossed the line at the end of the first lap with Moosie and the field following. Unofficial time for the first lap was six minutes and fifteen seconds, bettering the record.

The second preferred gained 23 points to 120, an advance since Saturday of 61 points.

Gulf States Steel is a reorganization of the old Southern Iron and Steel company, with headquarters at Birmingham, Ala. The company's capitalization is small and its earnings for the past year are reported to be very large. There has also been rumors of a consolidation or merger.

FIRST FLOWER SHOW OPENS AT ANTHONY

Fort Wayne and New Haven Florists' Association Offers Its First Exhibit.

The first flower show to be given by the Fort Wayne and New Haven Florists' association since its organization two weeks ago opened Thursday afternoon in the ballroom on the second floor of the Hotel Anthony and will continue tonight. Miss Rhoda Doswell is president of the association; Edgar Wenninghoff, vice president; Miss Marguerite Flick, secretary; and Herman Leitz, treasurer. A. J. Lanterner is general chairman of the show.

There are eight florist firms with displays, including A. J. Lanterner, New Haven Floral company, George Doswell, V. J. Knecht & Co., Flick Floral Co., W. J. and M. S. Vesey, Edgar Wenninghoff and Markey Brothers.

"The chief purpose of the show is to get people acquainted with flowers," declared Mr. Lanterner. By attending the show, he said, the public would be better able to fix their opinions as to the kind of flowers they wanted to buy.

In discussing the fact of its being the first show held by the new association Miss Margaret Flick, secretary, said it would be an annual affair and that the association hoped to hold its next display in the new convention hall.

The ballroom was a mass of flowers as the florists in many ways had to crowd their exhibits to fit the space allotted. The Franklin orchestra furnished music from 3 to 5 and tonight will play from 8 to 11 o'clock.

The Flick Floral company offered a display of chrysanthemums, roses, potted plants and other flowers in season. As a special feature wax figures representing a wedding party were erected in a corner of the floral exhibit of the Flick Floral company. There was also a table decorated in flowers of the season. (Wax figures furnished by courtesy of Wolf & Dessauer and table by D. N. Foster Furniture company).

The display of A. J. Lanterner, including ferns, decorative and blooming plants, stock baskets and a special feature, the Anthony Wayne fern. The Lanterner display also included white, yellow, pink and red (novelty) chrysanthemums, with American Beauty roses.

The Doswell display included lilies, roses, potted plants and chrysanthemums in the usual varieties.

The exhibit of W. J. and M. S. Vesey was made up of orchids and a general plant collection.

The collection of the New Haven Floral company contained carnations, spring and bedding plants.

The display of F. J. Knecht & Co. specialized in the Russell roses; also the Sawyer roses.

Roses, chrysanthemums, ferns and potted plants were in the display of Edgar Wenninghoff.

The exhibit of Markey Brothers has roses, potted plants and all flowers in season.

Invitations to the show were sent out in limited number, but the public is cordially invited to attend both afternoon and evening.

SULTAN ELATED AT TURKISH VICTORIES

Hopes for Ratification of a New Agreement With Germany.

Amsterdam, Nov. 16.—A Constantinople dispatch says the sultan opened parliament in the presence of the cabinet and the German ambassador with a speech from the throne in which he referred to the Turkish victories at the Dardanelles and eulogized the achievements of Turkish troops in all theaters of war.

The sultan said that after the abolition of the capitulations, granting extra territorial rights to foreigners, Turkey began negotiations with Germany in regard to an agreement to regulate their legal relations on the basis of European laws and the principle of reciprocity. He hoped the agreement would soon be ratified.

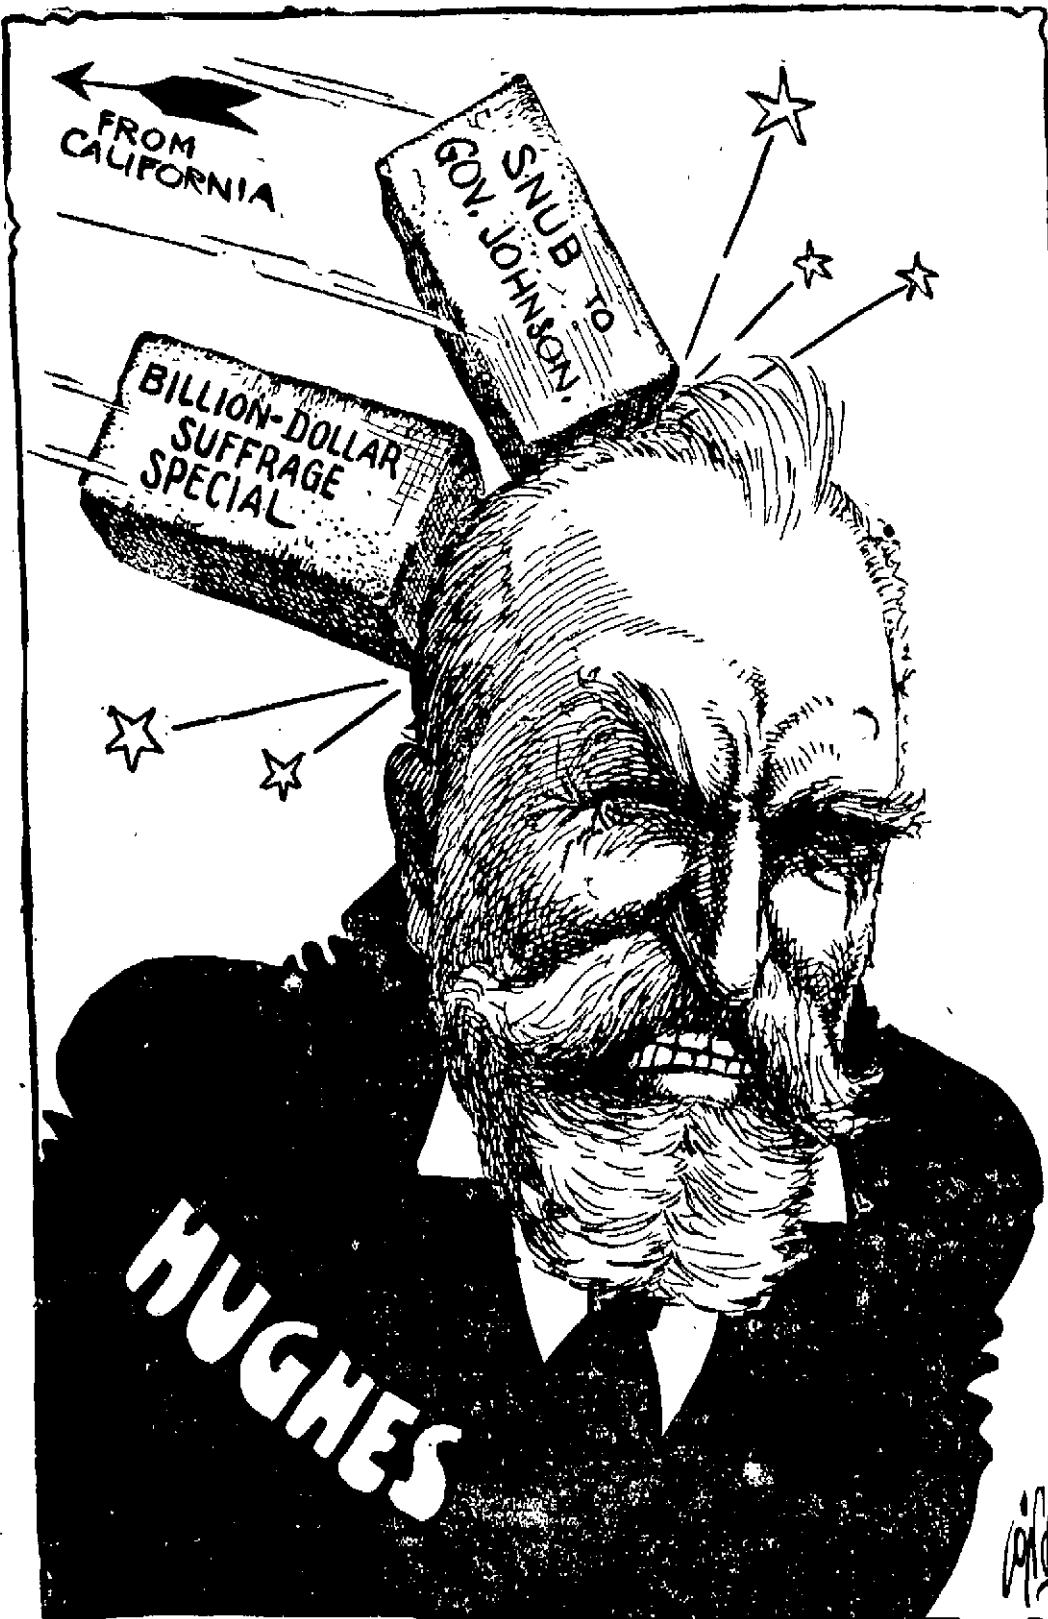

PRaises His Troops.

Berlin, Nov. 16.—A Constantinople dispatch says that in the speech from the throne the sultan dwelt on the achievements of the Turkish troops at the Dardanelles, at Kut-el-Amara and in Persia, saying: "One of our aims in the war is to obtain good conditions for the free evolution of Persia." Turkish soldiers, he continued, had freed Kermanshah and Hamadan from the Russians and were approaching Teheran.

"Our troops fighting in Yemen (southwestern Arabia) far from the fatherland," the sultan continued, "have driven the British army to the district of Aden. Troops fighting in Tripoli under command of Turkish officers have inflicted defeats on the enemy."

The ruler eulogized Akmed Pasha, chief of the Senussi tribesmen (who had been defeated by the irresistible advance of the armies of the central powers). In Galicia and Dobruja Turkish soldiers were fighting bravely side by side with the most courageous and best organized armies of the world.

UNHAPPY RETURNS

Police Chief Lenz Will Allow No Liquor to Be Sold.

The new year will steal over Fort Wayne like the passing of a silent winged angel.

In the fading hours of the old year the solemn chant of well-known anthems will rise above the deep-throated church organs to soothe the flagging spirits of that ancient wielder of the scythe. Approach of the new-born year will not be heralded by the blare of brass, groans of the deep basso and tinkle of wine glasses.

The last day of 1916 is on Sunday this year. The New Year's revel would start on Sunday evening if the watch were to be kept in buffet or hotel wine room. But no such orgies as have been known to prevail in past years will mark the coming of 1917.

Police Chief Lenz says the lid is on tight. Saloons are to be closed on Saturday night and be kept shut until Monday morning. No sale of wine will be allowed in any hotel on Sunday evening.

In some of the larger cities wine rooms are to open from 12 until 1 o'clock on Monday morning. There will be none of that in Fort Wayne. Police will see that no joy feasts start on Sunday evening.

"This drinking beer and whiskey is not my idea of a proper New Year's celebration anyway," Lenz said, Thursday. "There should be some meditation when another year is counted out."

At least 1917 headaches are to be tabooed in Fort Wayne this year. No use for anybody to save their nickels for a grand "send off" for none of the sparkle of wine, rattle of ice, bits of broken song and a glorious, hilarious, reeling into the next year goes.

AND THE LITTLE FORD RAMBLER RIGHT ALONG

A Ford runabout turned the corner at Wayne and Clinton streets. There was a loud report as that of an explosion. The car lurched forward. As it neared Calhoun street a large piece of sheet metal, perhaps tin, went clatter-clatter to the pavement. The driver jumped out and picked up the article, threw it into the air and resumed his position at the wheel. He got the signal and went on his way rejoicing.

The entire muffler was blown to pieces when gas gathered there and then exploded. Nevertheless the little old Ford rambled right along.

ARE PUTTING OUT GLASS DOLLARS

Counterfeit dollars, made of glass, iron pyrites and silver are being put out in Paulding county, Ohio. Captain of Detectives, Bonk, of the Nickel Plate railroad, is carrying one of the coins about. It was received by the Nickel Plate station agent at Payne, Ohio, on election day in exchange for a railroad ticket to Fort Wayne. The coin was broken in two in a Cleveland Bank and returned to the railroad company, labeled "counterfeit."

The broken and valueless dollar was turned over to Bonk by railroad authorities. He will give it to the next federal inspector who visits Fort Wayne.

It is said that a number of the counterfeit coins have been circulated through Paulding county, Ohio, and a strenuous effort is being made to locate the makers of the spurious currency.

The dollar in possession of Bonk is dated 1881 and is properly "aged" to pass for a coin of that date. It bears the rounded edges of the mold, when closely inspected. Glass is the principal mineral used in the making of the coin, which is coated with silver. It has a "ring" which makes it hard to detect from the real product of Uncle Sam.

LETTER FROM KARL DETZER.

Elias H. Bookwalter, the newly elected recorder of Allen county, is in receipt of a letter of congratulations from Karl W. Detzer, a former Fort Wayne newspaper man who is now a member of the Second Indiana infantry stationed on the Mexican border. The letter says: "Election night we were camped on the Rio Grande far from the nearest town and while our field wireless picked up bits of election news we watched the camp fires of the Mexican outpost on the opposite shore. It was not until today that I knew of the Allen county result and I send heartiest congratulations. We are going to Mexico yet, I believe."

ODD FELLOWS WILL MEET HERE FRIDAY

Afternoon and Evening Sessions Will Be Held at Majestic.

Officers in charge of the I. O. O. F. meeting in Fort Wayne Friday, are expecting between 1,500 and 2,000 Odd Fellows. The Marion Rebekah lodge, No. 247, will exemplify the Rebekah degree at 2 o'clock and the Indianapolis lodge, No. 465, will give the first, second and third degrees in Odd Fellowship at 7:30 o'clock. The work will be given at the Majestic theater.

These degree staffs are among the best in the world and this is one of the few opportunities which Odd Fellows of this section of the state will get to see their work.

Every Odd Fellow and Rebekah within a radius of fifty miles is invited, urged and expected to be present. Many surrounding cities will send large delegations. A most interesting program has been arranged.

Among the state officers who will be present at this gathering are Grand Master Jesse MacBeth, of this city; Fred A. Stewart, grand patriarch, of Indianapolis; Miss Florence McGregor, president of Rebekah assembly; Dr. A. A. Spears, deputy grand master of Brazil; Judge W. E. Deupree, grand warden, of Franklin; Fred A. Rogers, grand secretary of the state of Michigan, and Grand Master Sulphalm, of Michigan, and Lela Chesline, secretary of Rebekah assembly, of Marion, Ind.

GIVES PRECAUTIONS AGAINST DIPHTHERIA

Dr. Gilpin Explains How Spread of Disease May Be Prevented.

Diphtheria days are here. Indianapolis is in the grasp of a diphtheria epidemic, which has reached critical proportions.

Dr. J. H. Gilpin, secretary to the board of health, gave the following precautions Thursday, to be followed by way of preventing diphtheria reign in Fort Wayne.

"Take children out of school the minute they are discovered to have sore throat."

"Call in a physician. Do not take chances by trying the old home remedies. Diphtheria may develop in a day."

"Keep the sick children at home. Do not let them visit neighbors' children or parents of other children. Isolation is the only method of stopping spread of the disease."

"Do not allow the child to play with other children until he or she has been examined by the health board and pronounced cured."

"Do not invite bad colds by getting very warm and cooling off too rapidly." Keeping the body at an even temperature is not a matter of heavy under-wear, Dr. Gilpin adds. Children in the classroom all day do not need to wear woollens. They are the more likely to take cold by allowing their bodies to be overheated by heavy garments while in the warm room. A warm wrap, when they go out of doors, is more essential.

At 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon the government thermometer registered thirty-four degrees, the warm it has been for several days. Friday will be a fair day.

TRAIN DELAYED BY SNOW.

Storm Along Nickel Plate in Ohio Causes Trouble.

Snow to the depth of four or five inches fell in northern and eastern Ohio Thursday morning. It was particularly heavy along the Nickel Plate and as a result trains were delayed. No. 1, the west-bound passenger train due in Fort Wayne at 11:50, did not arrive until 2:30. It was necessary to "split" the train at Bellevue and send it forward in two sections, the first carrying all through passengers and the second the local passengers and the baggage and express matter. The cars were covered with snow when the train reached the city.

SAYS PLAIN MAN WILL REGARD IT AS PROTEST

London, Nov. 16.—Commenting upon the announcement from Washington that instructions have been sent to Joseph C. Grew, American charge at Berlin, to take up with the German government the matter of deportation of Belgian civilians into Germany, the Manchester Guardian says the plain man will think this amounts to a protest, adding:

"If, therefore, such a measure is conveyed to the German chancery, we welcome it, not because any change in the German policy is likely to follow but because it is at any rate a declaration that the latest German offenses concern not only the powers at Washington but America also and probably influence the whole of humanity."

SHOP AND RAILROAD NEWS

Firemen at the Electric Works Will Eat Oysters and Play Games.

The volunteer fire company of the General Electric works will inaugurate the winter social season tonight, when it will have an oyster supper at 6 o'clock, followed by cards, shuffle and pool in the firemen's hall in the office building. There are now thirty-five members of the fire department at the works and each will be on hand this evening to take part in the festivities. Oysters will be served in every known form to the company chef, who is an expert in that line. There were five of these events last winter, and it is the intention to hold as many and maybe more this coming winter.

SURPRISED HER ASSOCIATES.

A Resignation at the Lights Brings out Marriage News.

When asked her reasons for wishing to resign a position with O. B. Rinehart, head of the small motor production department clerical force at the General Electric works, Miss May Baker admitted that she was married and that she and her husband were about to engage in housekeeping in Zanesville, O. B. F. Dickerson, the husband, is a foreman of a department in a large foundry at Zanesville. He and Miss Baker, who had been friends many years, were married at Covington, Ky., Sept. 2. Mrs. Dickerson returned to Fort Wayne to resume her duties at the electric works and said nothing about the wedding until yesterday, when she tendered her resignation to become effective the latter part of next week. The announcement was a surprise to all of Mrs. Dickerson's associates at the works, where she is held in the highest esteem.

According to the new scale, forty-eight hours is allowed for the unloading of the car and afterwards the rate will be as follows: $2 for first day; $3 for second day; $4 for third day; $5 for the fourth and each succeeding day.

HAS THREE TRAINS.

Carland Company Gets Busy on the Nickel Plate.

The J. C. Carland Construction company, which has the contract of building a second track for the Nickel Plate from Clay street to New Haven, put two more work trains on the "job" this morning, making three trains and three crews in service. At present the trains are busy on the hill at Combs street, getting the earth near New Haven. The Carland company has its own train and engine crews, but the Nickel Plate furnishes a pilot for each train. They are Conductor W. D. Erickson, Conductor J. W. Miller and Conductor C. D. Snyder.

SIX NEW FIREMEN.

Nickel Plate Increases the List to Meet Demands.

Six firemen have been added to the list on the Nickel Plate. All have made their trial trips and are now ready for business. They are C. R. Seane, H. Deveny, H. D. Baker, R. J. Morgan and F. Meyers. Business on the road is up to the capacity of the power.

BOUGHT A RAIL LOADER.

The Western division of the Nickel Plate now owns an American rail loader, an ingenious machine that with five men performs 50 per cent more work than they could do by hand. It consists of some air cylinders, a long arm with holding connections, some hose and levers. It is operated by air and is connected with the airbrakes just like the cars. It is light and can be readily transferred from one car to another. The purchase was made Monday, after a demonstration was made at Stony Island in the presence of C. B. Hoyt, the superintendent of construction, and R. A. Blair, the track supervisor. Many of these rail loaders are in use in the country, but this is the first one purchased by the Nickel Plate.

FIND ONE EFFECTIVE PRICE-CONTROL METHOD

Government Competition is About Only Thing That Has Succeeded.

BY GILSON GARDNER.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—In view of the high cost of living agitation—and that is the principal agitation today in Washington—the success and failure of the different remedies employed by the federal government in meeting the question has been reviewed by the officials of the various departments with the result that one method of price-control has been found to show beneficial results, namely, control by government competition.

The parcels post went into competition with the express companies and the result was beneficial to both the public and the express companies. The former got a real reduction in parcel prices with vastly increased facilities, while the express companies awoke from their lethargy and developed an enormous new line of business so that the past year showed a profit of 300 per cent.

Meantime, it is found that regulation by investigation has failed, as for instance in the investigation of food prices two years ago, four years ago and eight years ago by the department of labor statistics, the department of justice and a special committee appointed by congress. Another instance is the recent inquiry into the increased cost of gasoline by the federal trade commission.

Regulation by Sherman anti-trust law prosecutions has also failed, as shown by the government's successful prosecution of the Standard Oil and other trusts.

Regulation by federal control of railroad freight rates has failed. See the general railroad situation with particular attention to the 5 per cent increase in freight rates granted by the interstate commerce commission, and the prospective increase promised by President Wilson, if necessary to take care of the eight-hour day for railroad trainmen.

Regulation by state laws and state commissions has failed as proved by the recent increases in the prices of bread and milk.

This about covers the ground. Agitation and threats of litigation may temporarily check local and individual extortion, but the fundamentals of relief are found only in the one instance of regulation by the use of government competition.

Who is responsible for Wilson's election? John M. Parker says the progressives elected Wilson. William Allen White backs him up and says it was the idealism of the west and revival of the old spirit of 1896 that did the job.

The "fighting pacifists" claim that they did it. The American Union Against Militarism, of which Amos Pinchot, Lillian Wald and Jane Addams are leading lights, point to the defeat of Dupont, the ranking republican member of the senate committee on military affairs, and of William S. Bennett, of New York, who ran on a platform including universal military service, and to the re-election of such ardent peace advocates as Gen. Isaac Sherwood and Representatives Gordon and Cresser as evidence that it was the "kept us out of war" voters in the west that did the business.

Samuel Gompers points with pride to himself and says: "The cause of labor, justice and freedom has been vindicated."

The Navy league says: "President Wilson declared for preparedness and the American people decided to keep him four years more."

But from the west comes the statement of Hiram W. Johnson, governor of California, that "General Otis, W. H. Crocker and Francis V. Keessling have the proud distinction" of having elected

Rheumatism

Send No Money—Just Your Address.

Years of awful suffering and misery have taught this man, Mark H. Jackson of Syracuse, N. Y., how to cure an acute attack of rheumatism. He has given his remedy to all who have written him, and he has given him sympathy with all who are suffering from the same. He wants every sufferer to know how he was cured. Read what he says:

"I Had Sharp Pains Like Lightning Flashes Shooting Through My Joints."

"In the spring of 1900" I was attacked by muscular and inflammatory rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried every remedy after remedy, and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number of people who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case. I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatism to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long looked for means of curing your rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when positive relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today. MARK H. JACKSON, No. 640 Gurney Bldg., Syracuse, N. Y."

A LASS OF THE LUMBERLANDS

NOVELIZED FROM THE MOTION PICTURE SERIAL OF THE SAME NAME. PRODUCED BY THE SIGNAL FILM CORP.

Third Episode.

Helen's exceptional intelligence and mental alertness made her an apt pupil of the telegraph operator at Dawsonville, so that within three months after her meeting with Rupert Holmes, she was able to send and take messages with a facility that astonished her instructor. Within six months she was able to take the messages of the fastest sender on the circuit.

The situation existing in the lumber territory adjacent to Dawson was as peculiar one. The railway itself was but a pawn in the shrewd game which the trust was playing in its effort to control the northern forests. It had been built by the Amalgamated at the insistence of Rupert Holmes, in order to tap the rich holdings of the independent owners to the north and east of Dawsonville.

No sooner was it put in operation than Holmes gave orders to boost the freight rates, for he was not hampered in that day by interstate commerce legislation, and he figured that if the rates were gradually raised to a point where the independents could no longer ship except at a loss, they would be forced, in order to save themselves, to sell their holdings to the trust at the trust's price.

But just as Holmes had ridden to success on the importance of a river, so his latest scheme was doomed to failure because he had forgotten the fact. The Calapooia boom rights, which had been the basis of all Holmes' wealth, had been no more important, proportionately than were the boom rights of the Oregonians.

And just as Holmes, twenty years before, had owned the boom rights on the Calapooia, so the same privileges on the smaller stream were controlled by a shrewd old homesteader named Timothy Thomas. Under the terms of the homestead act Thomas had still five months to live on his land before the government would give him clear title to it. And the boom rights on the Oregonians went with the land.

With the completion of the railway, old Tim Thomas began to see a light shining on the tortuous channel of the Oregonians. When the Amalgamated put its staggering freight rates into effect on the new line, independent owners turned perforce to the only other channel of transportation—the river. As a result, within a year after the last rail had been laid and the last spike driven, the railway sidings were filled with flat cars lying idle, while the once despoiled Oregonians was fairly choked with logs hurtling along on their way to the coastwise mills. It was a transformation that delighted old Tim Thomas, for on every log floated away its owner paid him toll.

It is not difficult, therefore, to comprehend why Rupert Holmes was in an unpleasant mood, when, on his return from a prolonged business visit to European points, he summoned his confidential manager to a conference. "Clarkson," he began, abruptly, "that fellow Thomas, with his cursed boom rights has us in a devil of a hole. He seems to be doing all the business while the railroad is not paying for its grease."

"The railway is in bad shape," Clarkson admitted. "There is hardly any business outside the passenger traffic and a little local freight."

"You're right there," said Holmes. "We can't compete with the river so the job we've got before us is as plain as the nose on your face. We'll have to close the river up."

"How?" demanded Clarkson, curiously. "By buying Thomas out, lock, stock and barrel," Holmes answered. "He'll make us pay through the nose, I suppose, but it can't be helped now. We're in a hole and we've got to get out of it before we sink any deeper."

"I ran down to Dawsonville a month ago," said Clarkson, "and had a talk with Thomas. I told him we might consider buying the river rights if the price was low enough."

"Oh, he'll sell, all right. If we offer enough," Holmes said cynically. "Every man has his price. Where is Behrens now?"

"He was at Dawsonville a day or two ago," the other replied. "Good! That's just where I want him. He can put through this deal, if anyone can. Just take down this telegram:

"William Behrens, Dawsonville:—It is imperative that we acquire immediately, boom rights on Oregonians, now owned by Timothy Thomas. See him and close deal without delay. Am wiring Hewitt, lawyer, Capital City, to meet you at Dawsonville tonight and draw papers. Holmes."

The message was taken off the wire late that afternoon by the operator at Dawsonville. The operator was a very pretty girl who wrinkled her brows in a puzzled way as she copied the message on a yellow slip. The operator's name was Helen Dawson. Helen had to read the telegram several times before she realized its full significance. Suddenly the solution dawned on her. The trust wanted those water rights, whatever they cost, so that it might monopolize transportation.

For a long time the young girl sat at her desk, heedless of the chattering instrument, debating her action. Behrens, to whom the message was addressed, she knew by sight. He was a curly fellow, unscrupulous and domineering.

There was only one thing to do, she decided. She would show the telegram to Dave Dawson, her foster father, and abide by his decision.

It was five o'clock. In an hour the night operator would report for his trick and Helen would be free to leave her post. A few minutes after six she ran breathlessly into the living room of the Dawson home.

"Uncle Dave," she cried, holding out the square of yellow paper. "read this! I wanted you to see it before it was delivered to Behrens."

Twice, thrice, David Dawson read the message. Then, his mind made up, he rose and donned his hat.

"Come along, my dear," he said. "We'll go over to Tim Thomas and have a talk. He's pretty hard-headed, is old Tim, but whatever they may say of him he's not hard-hearted. If we can make him see things as we do, he'll not be likely to sell to the Amalgamated at any price."

Tim Thomas listened to the story, absently poking the fire as he did so. An inscrutable grin overspread his mahogany-hued countenance. At last he turned to Dawson with a gesture indicating that he had heard enough.

"Dave," he said, "you've sized me up right. I reckon I've got the reputation around here of being a close-fisted old fellow, but I ain't so greedy for money that I'd ruin somebody else to get it. You needn't worry no more about this business, Dave, for you either, Miss Helen—I ain't going to sell to the Amalgamated, no matter what they offer me. I'm getting a pretty fair income from the boom rights, anyhow."

So intent on their conversation were the three in old Tim's cabin, that they did not hear the approach of two men whose footfalls were denuded by the soft earth they trod. These new arrivals stood for a time outside the cabin door, listening intently. One of them was "Big Bill" Behrens, the other was Hewitt, the lawyer.

They were not slow to realize the desperate state of their mission, these two worthies. It was well into the evening before they again approached the cabin.

"Little matter of business to talk over with you, Thomas," said Behrens, as the old man opened in response to his knock. "Mr. Hewitt, here, happened to be in town so I brought him along."

"Go ahead," said Thomas, but none too amiably, for he had no love for the Amalgamated or its emissaries. "Spit out what you've got to say," urged the old lumberman.

"It's about your boom rights on the Oregonians," said Behrens, easily. "A while ago you offered to sell out to Mr. Holmes. Isn't that so?"

"I offered to sell the rights and he refused to buy them. Now they ain't for sale."

"Perhaps you'll change your mind when you hear my offer," suggested Behrens.

"They ain't for sale, I tell ye," repeated the other.

"What would you say to an offer of thirty thousand?"

"You've had my answer," said Thomas, shortly, "there's nothing doing."

"Forty thousand."

"Nothing doing, I say."

"Now be reasonable, Thomas—I'll make it fifty thousand and we'll close the deal right now. Mr. Hewitt will draw up the papers. What do you say to that?"

"I'll say this," cried Thomas, "now, thoroughly exasperated, the Amalgamated ain't got enough money to induce me to sell. And you fellows get out of here—we've had our talk."

"No man can talk that way to me and get away with it," snarled Behrens, advancing on the old man with a threatening gesture. But he had reckoned without his host. Old man Thomas had a frame of steel. Behrens realized too late that the bluff he intended had failed to work.

"You fourflusher," shouted the old man as he clutched at Behrens. "If half the stories I've heard are true, you ought to be wearing a striped suit."

The next instant Behrens was lifted high and sent crashing through the door which stood ajar. The Amalgamated agent landed with a crash, while Hewitt, his legal aide, fled in terror. With a contemptuous glance at his crumpled foe on the ground, Tim Thomas turned to re-enter his cabin.

Crack! sounded the report of an automatic. It proceeded from where Behrens lay. The doctored servant of Rupert Holmes was shooting through his pocket.

The old lumberman stopped at the first shot. Half turning, he started again for the doorway, but, with a shuddering gasp, Tim Thomas fell forward on his face. Within a few seconds he was dead and the man who had killed him was skulking off through the dense timber.

David Dawson, sad at heart, walked slowly over to his own home where the other members of the family were eagerly awaiting news of Thomas' condition.

"The old man's gone," he said, dropping into a chair. "He was mortally wounded. I guess the whole thing was deliberately planned. Now the Amalgamated will step in and grab his claim. That means ruin for the poor fellows up river."

"But how can the Amalgamated take Tim's claim?" demanded Helen. "Won't it go to his heirs?"

"Tom didn't leave no heirs," said Dawson, "leastways, none that I ever heard of. Even if he had any heirs it wouldn't make no difference, for he had still five months to live on his land before he could get a clear deed. Now he's gone the title lapses."

"Do you mean to say," Helen interrupted excitedly, "that Behrens could file a homestead claim on Tim's land and the boom rights that go with it?"

"That's about the size of it," Dave admitted.

"Tom," cried Helen, "have you got steam up on the engine?"

"Sure thing," was the answer. "I'm pulling out for Fort Jefferson in thirty minutes."

"No, you're not," Helen fairly screamed. "You are pulling out for Big Falls in three minutes, and I'm going with you."

"Why, what on earth—" Tom began, but Helen interrupted him.

"No talk," she ordered. "We haven't a second to lose. Don't you understand! Behrens and Hewitt have heard that Tim is dead. They know that his claim has reverted to the government so they've gone to Big Falls to file on it."

It should be explained that the railway parallels the Oregonians from Dawsonville to Shore Ruce Bend, a distance of fifty miles, after which it makes a long detour through the hills, regaining the river at Big Falls, the county seat. Between Horse Race Bend and Big Falls the river pursues an almost straight course, racing with the speed of a derby winner between high walls of rock.

Casting caution to the winds, Dawson threw wide his throttle and the engine hurried at terrifying speed over the twin lines of steel which stretched ahead. Telegraph poles flashed past like pallings in a picket fence. Behind them, a single flat car, retained to balance the engine, rocked and swayed like a raft in a rough sea. Lashed to the car was Helen's Indian canoe.

What the intrepid girl had in her mind Tom Dawson knew and it terrified him. Helen's plan was to leave the railway at Ruce Horse Bend and shoot the rapids into Big Falls.

Meanwhile Behrens and Hewitt were having a scarcely less thrilling ride in the latter's motor car. Though they were quite unaware that they were being raced for the county seat, they nevertheless were taking no chances.

Twenty miles they covered at reckless speed—thirty . . . forty . . . fifty miles an hour. Then, swinging round a curve in the road as a racing machine turns into the home stretch, they saw before them an old fashioned wooden bridge spanning the river. A repair gang was at work on the bridge and one of the men started forward waving his arms, but too late.

"Hang tight!" screamed Behrens, to his companion. "Half the planks are out and we've got to take it flying."

There was a growling rumble as the tires hit the bridge structure—then the crash of reeling timbers as the rotten old supports gave way, dropping the car and its occupants into the rushing torrent beneath.

Almost simultaneously Tom Dawson brought his panting engine to a stand on the curve at the Horse Race.

The canoe was quickly lowered into the water, and leaving his engine with banked fires on the siding, Tom Dawson accompanied Helen on board the frail little craft in which they were to complete their journey.

Twenty minutes of hard paddling brought them to the wrecked bridge where lay all that was left of a yellow automobile. A little shriek of triumph broke from Helen's lips and a roar came from the powerful lungs of her escort, as they saw two men standing on the rocky shore. They squeezed through the mess of timbers with only inches to spare, and were on their way, while Behrens and Hewitt shook their fists in impotent rage.

Ten minutes away lay Big Falls. The chimneys of the mills were already visible. From that on it was a mere canoe trip.

When Helen stepped down the broad stone front entrance of the courthouse an hour later, a buckboard furiously driven, drew up at the curb. From it leaped two men. Helen stalled upon them sweetly.

"If you've come to file on the Thomas property, Mr. Behrens," said the young woman, "you're just a little late. I filed a claim for it myself an hour ago. Tell your employer, Mr. Holmes, that if he still wants the boom rights on the Oregonians, he will have to deal with me."

Why He Saluted Her.
As a pleasant-faced woman passed the corner Jones raised his hat to her and remarked feelingly to his companion:

"Ah, my boy, I owe a great deal to that woman."

"Your mother?" was the query.

BABY HAD WHOOPING COUGH
Mothers who have used Foley's Honey and Tar would not be without it. Mrs. Sam C. Small, Clayton, N. M., writes: "My grandson had whooping cough when he was three months old. We used Foley's Honey and Tar and I believe it saved his life. He is now big and fat." It is a fine thing to have in the house in case of whooping cough, croup, coughs, colds. The first doses help loosen phlegm, heat inflammation, clear air passages, stop racking coughs. Dreier Drug Co.—Advertisement.

Friar Players Get Together for Game George Sutton Plays Long After Willard Yale Confidence Is Leaving Fast

ENTIRE TEAM READY FOR SUNDAY'S GAME

Friars Showing Up in Full Force as Time for Mas-sacre Nears.

Word has been received from Gus Dorias informing the interested ones of his convalescence and that he will be in the game Sunday. Anyone who saw last Sunday's contest can have his but the best words for Conny Checkey and the way he played, but an All-American quarterback makes it sort of comfortable to think about when he's on his favorite team.

There's a certain end named Showalter who plays football with the Wabash A. A.'s and is going to have the time of his life Sunday when he starts to play the mysterious Edward off his feet. For Edward will be here Sunday and he will know the signals, too. Then on the other end of the line of the Wabash team is our old friend Rene. This tricky gentleman will have the honor of testing his wits against our other mysterious wingman, whom we call Hunter.

The Friar front wall from one end to the other Sunday will be as tight as the proverbial brick wall. And the back field—Dorias, Chambers, Pilska, Johnson—can be depended upon to put up the necessary fight to send Wabash rooters back home with tears in their eyes.

RESTA FAVORITE IN VANDERBILT CUP RACE

Aitken and Rickenbacher Are Possibilities in the Motor Classic.

Santa Monica, Cal., Nov. 16.—Twenty-one racing cars, primed for speed, gave their final tuning up yesterday preparatory to the Vanderbilt race today. All eyes were turned on the "Big Three," Resta, Aitken and Rickenbacher. Dario Resta, champion of England, nursed his French Peugeot around the eight mile triangle with an ease and quiet that stamped him a gentle driver, while Rickenbacher thundered his Duesenberg around for the fastest time ever made on the course.

Resta is favorite. Rickenbacher and Aitken also are well backed, while Pullen, Mercer and Cooper, Stutz, are considered likely dark horses.

Managers of the races are preparing for 150,000 spectators for each of the events. The 254 mile Vanderbilt will be started at noon today and the 400 mile grand prize at 11 a. m. on Saturday.

TALKS TO FRIARS.

Before nearly one hundred members of the Friar club Wednesday evening, C. E. Fitch, a prominent business man of this city, gave a talk that was full of good suggestions and pointers for the younger business men who make up the club. His talk was highly appreciated by those who heard it and Mr. Fitch expressed his pleasure in addressing them. He presented the club an interesting volume, "The Kingship of Self-Control," which is to be added to the club library.

The address was preceded by a short business meeting, in which football and other business was discussed. Eight new applicants were elected to membership and now only ten vacancies separate candidates from the waiting list.

CAN YOU IMAGINE THIS?

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Jess Willard, the heavyweight champion, is considering entering the real estate business in Chicago, according to information received by his associates. His contract with a circus has expired and he plans to motor from Fort Worth, Tex., to Chicago, arriving here about November 27. He is reported to be much heavier than when he started out with the circus. He weighs in the neighborhood of 275 pounds. It is said.

The office will be open this evening. Come up and get full particulars about our SPECIAL 15 WEEKS' PRIVATE SECRETARIAL COURSE for stenographers only. INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS COLLEGE.

STAGG ASSUMES BLAME FOR BUM MAROON TEAM

Has About Thirty Eligibles Every Year and Rules Are Most Strict.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—The assumption of responsibility by Coach A. A. Stagg for the failure of the University of Chicago football team to make a better showing this season was much discussed today by football enthusiasts.

In an address at the annual dinner of the Chicago alumni of the university last night after declaring that he had promising material Mr. Stagg told the alumni the exact situation of the team. He said he has about thirty men eligible for his team every year, that they must uphold scholastic conditions stricter than in any other university in the conference and that the great majority of them, although good students, are sadly lacking in football requirements. He said he had tried to teach men plays, offensive and defensive, but could not do their thinking for them on the field. He then referred to the defeat of Chicago by Carlton and Northwestern. "I have been criticized for not selecting a better schedule," he said. "I did not know Carlton was as strong as it turned out to be. I did not know Northwestern was as powerful. We have men on this year's team who are the best students in the college, but they fail to deliver in the pinches on the football field. I am not responsible for such conditions, but I am willing to assume the blame. We have a fighting chance to beat Illinois on Saturday and I am sure these men can accomplish their purpose if they play mental football."

Wonder Athletes of Yesterday—Where Are They? What Do You Mean by Fight? Big Jeff's Now a Buyer of Bulls.

BY MARK LARKIN.

Low Angeles, Cal., Nov. 16.—Jim Jeffries, the greatest fighting white man that ever drew breath, has gone back to the soil. Jim is now a farmer. He goes around his Burbank ranch in a dirty, ragged pair of overalls, with a ten days' growth of whiskers decorating his face. And the haysacks stick out all over him. If you talk to Jim about prize fights, he looks at you as bewildered as if you were addressing him in a foreign tongue. He doesn't understand. But talk to him about Holstein milk stock and he will lambast you with conversational wallop which will stagger you and have you holding on wishing for the end of the round.

Jim is specializing in Holsteins. He bought a bull the other day which cost him $2,500. In the last year, he has spent $70,000 in improvements on his property, not counting a $20,000 house he is now building and $50,000 more which he expects to spend on his herd of cows.

At present there are some 160 head of cattle on the Jeffries ranch; also about the same number of hogs, and more chickens and turkeys than a man can count. Not all of the former champion's cows are thoroughbreds, however. But he is gradually weeding out the common stock and replacing it with pedigreed animals.

Today Jim Jeffries is the happiest man in the world. He is hard, brown and fit as a fiddle. Every morning he is up at 5 o'clock and busy until sundown with the cares of an agriculturist. If he gets a visitor who is a fan on farming he will walk the poor devil 5,000 miles between sunup and sundown over his 105 acres of fertile real estate. And he will never stop walking or talking until the visitor gives out or gives up. Jim is milking 120 cows. "I do all my milking by electricity," says the ex-fighter. "There are no dogs test-wielders on this farm."

Jeffries is extremely scientific with his dairy, and it is spotlessly clean. He raises some alfalfa and also a great deal of corn. Some of his corn stands fourteen feet high and the stalks are less than an inch apart in the rows. Jeff has a speaking acquaintance with every cow on his ranch. They come up and rub their noses on the big fellow's arm and he scratches their heads and pats their sleek flanks with great pride. "When I first began," says Jim, "ranching" with me was just a fad; now, however, it's business. And it pays. I'm making a profit out of farming right now."

Jeffries knows to a cent how much money is spent and how much comes in on his ranch. He has moved his family to Burbank, and while he still keeps the Los Angeles house, it is no longer home to him. The ranch house he is building will contain a fireplace 7x5 feet on the inside. On the outside of the same chimney will be a place to barbecue a whole beef.

He always did like to eat and he intends that the friends who come to visit his dairy shall not go away hungry. And does Jim Jeffries, former king of the ring, ever go to a boxing contest? He does not. He is farming, not fighting, these days. His one diversion is hunting. Even now he is carrying his arm in a sling, and one finger bears an ugly gash inflicted with a hunting knife early in the deer season. Jeff may yet lose this digit. But the point is that Jim Jeffries, the greatest fighting white man, now thinks, talks and dreams of nothing but hog, horse and cow.

SPORT CHATTER

Every fan in the country who doesn't live in Boston got a lot of joy out of the six-day bicycle race because it was held in Boston.

Georges Carpentier wants to fight Les Darcy after the war. Not at that age, Georges. It isn't done.

Will that 1,000 plank bet that's up on the Friars ever be covered?

Mike Gibbons is the greatest fighter in the world, a number of stilet scribers reported. We just happen to remember what those geniuses said after Mike's lamentable affair with Facky McFarland.

One time a football player doctored up a lot of comparative scores and actually predicted a result.

We will now make the following prediction: Oliphant, 27; Navy, 3. If it doesn't come out that way don't kick to us. It won't be our fault.

JESS HAS NOTION BUT NO AMBITION

Likes Looks of the Kale But Not of Youngster He Must Meet.

Jess Willard is still wrapped in silence regarding the offer from Baron Long, formerly of Fort Wayne, for a championship match at Tia Juana with Charley Weinert. Fifty thousand dollars is a lot of dough, but Jess has evidently been given the "low-down" on the manner in which the Newark heavyweight has "come on" during the past few months and is going to let well enough alone. It was Weinert's twenty-first birthday a couple of weeks ago, and he is growing so fast that every week he has to be measured for a new suit of clothes. He has hit the 200 mark, and is six feet two. Every day he gets bigger and he is so strong and hits so hard it is impossible to get sparring partners for him.

Jess does not seem to be the only one who has been "tipped off," as Carl Morris flatly refused to meet him when offered a match in Kansas City. Instead of taking on Weinert, Morris let them match him up with Danny Morgan's worn-out and battered battler, "Battling" Levinsky. The "Battling" had just been given a fearful trimming by a second-rate, unknown middleweight—one Mike. Morris surely believes in picking them out while they are soft.

Weinert proclaims his readiness to fight anybody and makes it strong enough so it sounds as if he is right. According to reports he has changed the old saying, "First come, first served," to "First come, first licked."

It will have a bad effect on Coach Yost's tactics next Saturday in the Pennsylvania game.

Both Yost and Foltwell have been expected to use much forward passing, and unless there is a decided change in the weather open football will not be of much advantage. Yesterday's drill was short and light. There was a brief signal practice and then some kicking and a little passing. Jimmie Watkins, the second former gridiron star to arrive this week, joined the athletes this afternoon and will stay with them until after Saturday's game.

VALE.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 16.—A half hour's scrimmage, during which the varsity scored two touchdowns against the scrubs, featured the practice of the Yale eleven. The remainder of the drill was devoted to individual instructions to the freshmen, a dozen former stars assisting Coach Tad Jones in this work. Legore, the speedy halfback, who is said to be slightly overtrained, was given a rest. Carey took his place and scored one of the touchdowns. Jacques played fullback and it is considered likely that he will start against Princeton on Saturday instead of Braden.

HARVARD.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 16.—The Harvard Athletic association last night announced that few, if any, of the players who started against Princeton would be in the Crimson's initial line-up against Brown on Saturday. The Harvard coaching staff, it was explained, had made this decision in order to avoid possible injuries to first string men and to give the substitutes who may be used against Yale experience in a hard game. The association added that the team that would start would be by no means a weak one. The announcement of the association included a notice that tickets purchased with the expectation of seeing leading players start the game would be redeemed.

PURDUE.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 16.—Still crippled, but determined to make a better showing than in previous Big Nine games, the Purdue football squad completed its preparations yesterday for the game with Northwestern Saturday at Evanston. It is likely that at least three regulars will be out of the game. The team had snappy signal drill and tomorrow afternoon it will leave with Coach O'Donnell for Chicago. The players will go directly to Evanston and will have secret practice there tomorrow. In all probability Jordan will play in Bern's place at tackle, while Dixon will play fullback in Allen's place. VanAken may get into the game. If he does not Mize will play right end. Huffine probably will do the punting unless Allen gets into the game. The big fullback is in good trim.

YALE LESS CONFIDENT THAN EVER THIS YEAR

Legore is Going Stale and Condition of Others Causes Worry.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 16.—Yale's last hard football practice before the Princeton game will be held in the bowl this afternoon. The first and second teams will have a drill in secret for half an hour, after which the gates will have been thrown open to enable the students to see the remainder of the work. The entire student body, headed by a band, planned to march to the field to practice cheers and songs. The physical condition of a number of players still causes the coaches considerable anxiety. Legore, the star back, is believed to be trained down too fine and he will do nothing except run through signals and practice punting for the remainder of the week. While Yale men generally are optimistic over the outcome they are demanding odds from Princeton. Betting so far has been light.

START TRAINING CAMP.

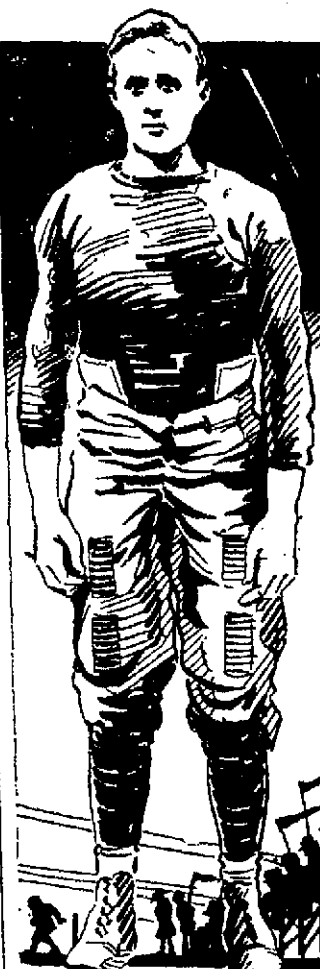

Cleveland, Nov. 16.—Battery men of the Cleveland American league club will be sent to the spring training camp at New Orleans at least ten days in advance of the other players, according to plans announced by Manager Lee Fohl.

"We got the jump on the other clubs last spring because our pitchers were ready, and barring accidents, I propose to have them in as good shape next April," Fohl explained.

Eleven pitchers and three catchers will form the advance squad of the club, which is to report about February 20. The men are Morton, Coveleski, Beebe, Boehling, Coumbs, Gould, Lambeth, Smith, Pettit, Klepper and Panner, pitchers; O'Neill, Daly and DeBerry, catchers.

Pitt Center Looks Best in Country

CAPT. DEEK

There are five or six good centers in the country this year, but foremost among them stands Peck of Pittsburg University. Walter Camp's choice on the mythical All-American team last year and regarded as almost a sure repeat this fall.

Peck is a center of the roaming type. He covers a lot of territory and often takes a hand in tackling men on plays far from his position in the line.

On defense he has been able to outpoint such centers as the giant Wray of Pennsylvania, who is doped as one of the best snappers in the east this year.

Peck is captain of Glenn Warner's great football machine.

Tells Court He Gossiped With Housewives Until They Forgot Them.

"Good morning, Mrs. Jones."
"Great weather we are having."
"I guess Wilson will be elected all right."
"We don't care much for whiskers in this country."
"Ha, ha."
"I just noticed that the house on the corner is about finished."
"Some question about the way old man Wier gets his money, I understand."
"Guess his wife dresses the best in town since he got a job in the bank."
"Well, good day, Mrs. Jones."
"Giddap, Roger."

Just a little weather dope, a stale joke and a bit of gossip and Mrs. Jones had never thought to ask for the little coupon supposed to accompany her tea order, and for which pretty Japanese dishes could be obtained at the tea store.

Neither did Mrs. Kline think of the coupons, nor Mrs. Smith, nor Mrs. McCafferty. They were all swept away from the immediate issue by woman's uncontrollable instinct to grasp every accent of the discourse on topics of the day.

Sometimes the ladies aroused themselves to the understanding that they had forgotten the coupons, two hours afterwards. In such cases they called the tea store.

In a month of driving the delivery wagon for the Grand Union Tea company, West Wayne street, Harry Leonard, 24, talked more than a hundred housewives, in all sections of the city, out of 300 coupons.

He explained his process in police court Thursday morning, where he was charged with petit larceny for using the coupons with which to redeem articles from the tea company. The plan was easy and always worked, but Leonard sobbed that he would never do it again if the court will only grant him a suspended sentence.

Judge Kerr will pass judgment on Leonard, Friday morning. Leonard pleaded guilty to the charge of petit larceny. F. Arney, manager of the tea company, identified dishes and a leather hand bag, which were found in Leonard's possession by Detective Sergeant Pappert, who arrested Leonard Monday.

Pappert produced letters taken from Leonard which show the young man to have a wife in Texas. She is begging him in the letter to sign a waiver that she might obtain a divorce from him at once.

Dishes were to go to a girl in Logansport, to whom Leonard has been paying attentions. A letter from the Logansport miss reads:

"I cannot marry you Sunday. Father would not stand for it. I want to make a trip to El Paso, and dad can get me a pass if I am not married. Will see you Sunday."

Other Police Court Case.

The only arrest made on Thursday was that of an inebriated tramp who wandered into the police station all by himself and stammered in drunken accents that he wanted a place to "sop." He was hurried into a cell. Judge Kerr fined him $1 and costs on Thursday morning. His name was Frank McCall.

END OF THE ENGLISH SPARROW IS IN SIGHT

Allen County Will Be Asked to Assist in Its Extinction.

Doomed is the English sparrow, and Fort Wayne and Allen county will be asked to assist in its extermination by the organization just formed for the purpose of ridding the country of the pest.

The death knell has been sounded. Men in his night has taken up the fight of the song bird and the farmer, and, passing judgment on the sparrow, declares it must be exterminated. Experts declare it has absolutely nothing in its favor, not one redeeming quality—no reason why it should live in this land of freedom.

It is proposed to set aside a week in April or May next in each state to be known as "Sparrow Week," in which period there will be special efforts in the war of extermination.

The heaviest damage done by the sparrow is in orchards and in flowers. It destroys fruit, especially cherries, grapes, pears, apples and peaches. The same is true of young vegetables, of wheat and other grains. A flock of fifty sparrows requires daily a quart of grain or its equivalent.

FALL CONVOCATION TO CLOSE TONIGHT

Fall convocation of Scottish Rite Masons, valley of Fort Wayne, will close tonight with the conferring of the thirty-second degree on a class of 125 candidates. Work began in the twenty-second degree Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

Banquet of more than 1,000 Masons was held Wednesday night at the cathedral. Talks expressive of the thirty years' service of William Geake, sr., as thrice potent master of the Fort Wayne Lodge of Perfection, and to William C. Geake, who conferred the fifteenth and sixteenth degrees, were made.

Prof. J. W. Fairfield, of Angola, Twelfth district congressman-elect, responded on behalf of the class at the banquet. Rev. E. W. Averill gave a toast on Masonry, and B. Paul Roseman, orator of the Rose Croix chapter, presented a past commander-in-chief's jewel to William Geake. E. C. Hoffmann presented a jewel of the fifteenth degree to Will C. Geake.

FRENZY MAY INJURE CONSUMERS OF COAL

Public Service Commissioners Decry Public Panic Over the Shortage.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 16.—That too much public frenzy over a continued coal shortage might operate against the consumer by permitting isolated mine operators and retail dealers to take advantage of the situation and boost prices, was the opinion of John F. McClure and J. L. Clark, members of the public service commission, yesterday. Admitting that the coal shortage situation as occasioned by a lack of railroad cars is worth serious consideration, the commissioners were rather of the opinion that there will be no great coal famine, as many think. Commissioner McClure cited a number of cases where carriers have begun to handle the shipping end of the trouble with better facilities than they were able to command some time ago.

Letters are pouring into the office of Governor Ralston each day, containing complaints over coal shipments and advice as to how the situation may be relieved. State institutions especially are inquiring of the governor if the shortage is to continue. Similar requests are being received of the public service commission and have occasioned a number of informal conferences with the result that in many cases arrangements have been made to obtain cars for the use of coal lines. A conference with representatives of all Indiana carriers will be held by the commission Monday morning. Something more definite in the way of handling the situation is to be expected from the meeting.

Governor Ralston said that he was turning the question over in his mind, but he had not yet determined as to what course he should pursue.

Little Chance for Any Republicans in California Tabulation.

San Francisco, Nov. 16.—Twenty-one counties in California remained to be heard from today in the official canvass of the presidential election of November 7, the twenty-one including the most populous of the state, Los Angeles, Alameda, San Francisco, San Diego and Sacramento. When the count was resumed today the highest republican elector was credited with 118,228 votes, while the lowest democrat had 132,068, a plurality for the lowest democrat elector of 13,840.

As no notable upsets in the first unofficial returns have yet been noted, state democratic leaders predict their lowest elector will run ahead of the highest republican elector by about 600 votes.

COUNTING IN MINNESOTA.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 16.—With the Hughes lead back to its old place in the three hundred, democrats are watching closely today the retabulation of Hennepin county returns by officials at Minneapolis and possibly of Ramsey county returns at St. Paul. The latest unofficial returns from Hennepin showed a decided gain there for Mr. Hughes. There was no change over night in the totals. President Wilson throughout the state with 46 counties whose returns have been tabulated at the capitol and 49 unofficial, polled 177,796 to Mr. Hughes' 175,182, making the Hughes margin 2,614.

RABBIT HUNTERS GET INTO A DEN OF BEARS

Bag Two of a Trio of the Animals After Exciting Fight.

Norway, Mich., Nov. 16.—Stephen, Joseph and Peter Beazle, brothers, with Albert Wicklund, were on a hunt for rabbits Sunday and participated instead of a thrilling experience with three bears, according to a story reaching here today.

The hunters were near Spies Meadows when their dogs scented the bears in a den. At first the nimrods believed it was the hiding place of a porcupine. The entrance to the den had been skillfully blocked with sticks and dirt, and when this was removed three bears came growling from within. One of them—a large female bear—showed herself, and a charge of fire shot from Stephen's gun penetrated the nose, and a second discharge hit the animal in the ear.

Reaching into the hole, Wicklund dragged the bear into the open, when another bear came galloping out. One of the dogs entered the melee. He had taken hold of the bear's flanks. The scrap was of the buzz-saw order—round and round they went, the dog firmly holding on.

The hunters kept at a respectful distance. Then Joseph Beazle felt the ground give away under him—he fell into the bears' den—and the third bear came out.

A fusillade from four guns followed, the second bear fell and the hunters gave chase after the third bear, which escaped.

The carcasses were shipped to Chicago.

Chicago Man Unnoticed by Hundreds Who Passed During Time.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—While hundreds of persons passed in Clark street during the busiest hour, Charles Lichtenberger, 51 years old, sat bolt upright for four hours dead in his electric automobile in front of 1429 North Clark street yesterday.

It is believed Mr. Lichtenberger, who was a board of trade member and once conspicuous as a member of the west park board, had driven up to transact some business in the vicinity. He evidently had just stopped his machine when he died of heart failure.

A letter carrier passing noticed the peculiar position of the body and called the police. An investigation showed that Mr. Lichtenberger had been dead for four hours. He was seen to drive up by F. B. Adams, manager of a tea store in the vicinity. This was at 11 o'clock in the morning. It was around 3 o'clock when the letter carrier summoned the police.

Identification was made by police of the Hudson avenue police station, who found a bank book containing the name and address and showing a bank balance of $15,784. The address was 332 Sherman street, which is that of the brokerage firm of Howard Bartels & Co., publishers of market letters and literature. Mr. Lichtenberger also was prominent on the board of trade.

Mr. Lichtenberger lived at 1816 North Dearborn street. He is survived by a widow and one son, Edward Lichtenberger of 430 Tremont place. The widow was prostrated when told of her husband's death.

The body was taken in charge by the police and an inquest called.

Michigan Official Taking Note of Accidental Deaths in Woods.

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 16.—State officials here are considering measures to insure greater safety to hunters in the northern woods of Michigan. Since the hunting season in the state opened Sept. 10, with duck shooting, there have been twelve deaths directly traceable to hunting accidents and one man died of heart disease while hunting. The deer season opened less than a week ago and since then four men have been killed as a result of being mistaken for deer.

In addition to these fatalities a number of serious injuries also are shown in the records at the state game commissioner's office. The state game commissioner attributes most of the accidents to the practice of "shooting at sounds."

Chicago Candidates Must Await Result of Fraud Investigation.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 16.—Candidates for offices in Cook county at the recent election will not be seated until investigations of alleged frauds are completed, according to the decision of county Judge Thomas F. Scully today, following a conference of the county election commissioners last night. He said there will be no proclamations of election issued in time for the successful candidates to take office on December 4, when the terms of the incumbents expire. On the face of the returns all republicans were successful, except in the case of one minor office.

"There has been a mass of fraud uncovered in the election," said Judge Scully. "Until the state's attorney and the federal government have finished their investigations the proclamations will all be held up."

The vote in hundreds of precincts in many wards of the city may be thrown out, Judge Scully said.

In this interview Mr. Bryan frankly asserted that he would devote his time in the next four years to placing the democratic party on record as favoring prohibition in its platform of 1920; that the issue is here and must be met; that the democratic party must take the moral side of a moral issue; that it can not

lator known.

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—really does—overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid, head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back.

It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach regulator in the world.—Advertisement.

COMMERCIAL BODIES PLAN TO DISCUSS IT

Railway Situation Will Be Taken Up at Washington Meeting.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—Reflecting the interest of the country at large are resolutions coming into Washington from trade bodies requesting further action by the chamber of commerce of the United States on the railroad situation. The requests are a forerunner of a meeting of the chamber's national council to be held in Washington the latter part of next week at which there promises to be a vigorous discussion of all phases of the railroad controversy including proposed anti-strike legislation.

In addition to the national council meeting November 17 and 18 provision has been made by the national chamber for a committee to study the railroad problem in all phases pursued by the joint congressional committee of which Senator Newlands is chairman and which is to convene in Washington, November 20.

Prominent Organizations Act.
The petitions from trade organizations appear to represent no particular section of the United States more than another, and national as well as local bodies are being heard from. Many are in response to a broadest invitation from the Railway Business association and the New York Merchants' association to other commercial bodies to join in a request for action by the national chamber.

The Railway Business association favors an investigation upon correction of defects in the system of railway regulation. They advocate especially that the national government should on behalf of the states, regulate instrumentalities of interstate commerce except in those spheres which are distinctively stated.

Also that congress, in order to keep regulation close to the people, should create regional sub-commissions, appointed by the president and subordinate to the inter-state commerce commission, to conduct administration over areas corresponding to traffic movement. Finally, it is recommended that congress having chosen to leave to private capital the function of providing the people with rail highways, should insure reasonable extensions of such highways into new regions as well as the improvement of existing roads by declaring it by statute the policy of the government to permit such a system of rates as will yield earnings sufficient to attract investment for new construction.

Anti-Strike Plan Outlined.
The Merchants' association of New York has sent to other commercial organizations throughout the country copies of a pamphlet containing the resolutions adopted by the association in support of the plan for preventing the interruption, by strike, of the operation of public utilities, together with an outline by Henry R. Towne, of New York, telling how the plan might be carried into effect.

Briefly, it provides for the enforcement of a contractual relation between employers and employees on public utilities. It is suggested not so much as a final solution of this important question, although the Merchants' association hopes it may prove to be such a solution, but as a means of bringing the matter forward for discussion. The association has asked the chamber of commerce of the United States to submit the question to its constituent members in the form of a referendum in order that the sentiment of the business men of the country may be ascertained. It has also asked other organizations to join in requesting such a referendum.

If little stomach is sour,
clogged.

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs" because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tight, packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered.

When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it can't cause injury. No difference what all your little one—full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomachache, bad breath, remember, a gentle "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.—Advertisement.

THREE MORE CENTS IS ADDED TO CORN PRICE

Prediction is That It May Reach One Dollar Per Bushel.

Three cents more were added to the price of corn per bushel on the Fort Wayne city market Thursday, making the topnotch price 93 cents a bushel. Prediction is that the price may reach the dollar mark soon.

Wheat prices remain unchanged with $1.30 still reigning as the topnotch price. The market seems to be extremely quiet and receipts have been very light for the past week. The price fell off a few cents at the close of the market in big trading centers.

Oats prices are the same. Hog prices are unchanged. Hay is holding out strong, regardless of the fact that the receipts have been very heavy for the past month.

Local commission men state that the banana supply in this city is shorter by far than it has been for many years. The wind storms in the banana growing countries have played havoc with the crop. The price is rallying upward.

CENTRAL STATION IS
Away Partitions and Raising Floors.

Firemen at No. 1 station formed a wrecking squad, Thursday, to tear away partitions, formerly used for horse stalls and to raise the floor of what was once the hay mow, in the days of "Dave" and "Jerry" and other never-to-be-forgotten names.

The heavy, barred doors which used to swing before the animals at the top of the fire bell, are to be removed and the shop at the rear of the station thrown in with the big front room. The storage room and the big lobby formed by tearing down the horse stalls are to be connected with the main floor.

The floor of the former hay mow is to be raised even with the floor of the sleeping room, on the second floor. Next spring the upstairs partitions are to be removed and the size of the bunk room practically doubled by using the space formerly employed as a mow for firemen's beds.

WILL ATTEND CONGRESS.

at Waterway Meeting.

Mayor Hoesy has been asked by Senator Joseph Ransdell, of Louisiana, president of the National Rivers and Harbors congress, to have Fort Wayne represented in the meeting of the congress at Washington, on December 6, 7 and 8.

Men most active in the deep waterway movement were called by Mayor Hoesy Thursday and asked to attend the assembly. One or two of the men will represent interests of Fort Wayne in promoting the Fort Wayne-Toledo canal before the body, Hoesy says. The men called by the mayor were T. J. Logan, United States commissioner; T. E. Ellison and Frank B. Taylor. Mr. Taylor has made a careful survey of the canal conditions and is expected to be one of the men to make the trip.

S. F. Bowser and Avery M. Groves have been asked to be at the congress. Re-establishment of the waterway canal through Fort Wayne is a project boosted by nearly all Fort Wayne organizations.

WILL ACT ON PETITIONS.

Board of Works Will Grant Sewers and Street Pavements.
Resolutions for the adoption of seven petitions asking sewers and action on assessment rolls for four paving jobs will be the sum of business to be transacted by the board of works Thursday night.

Resolutions for new sewers are for the following locations: Along the alley east of Mechanic street between Elm and Huron streets to the south line of lot No. 3 in Burden's addition; along the alley south of Main street from the sewer in the alley south of lots 23-24 in Rockhill's addition to the sewer in the alley south of Main street; from the sewer in the alley between Watkins street and Greenwood avenue to a point 230 feet south; along the alley between Piqua avenue and Barr street from main sewer No. 37 to Rudisill boulevard; along the alley north of Rudisill boulevard from the sewer on Weaver avenue to Indiana avenue; along the alley between Superior street and Columbia street from a point 100 feet west of Clay street to a point 70 feet east of Clay street; along the alley east of Barthold street and south of High street from High street to Barthold street. Assessment rolls to be confirmed are for paving Lindley avenue from Taylor to Parkview; paving Lavina street from Broadway to Rockhill; paving Parkview from Lindley to Broadway and paving Nelson from Jefferson to Wilt.

PROMISE ACTION.

Board of Works Hears from Pennsylvania Railroad Officials.

Here is the exact message which Robert Kelley, president of the board of works, received from R. Trumble, Pennsylvania official, from the central office in Pittsburgh on Wednesday in answer to demands for action in regard to the track elevation over Hanna and Lafayette streets:

"We will give you an answer to your communication just as soon as we get a decision from our superior officers in regard to the matter. The matter has been submitted to them for consultation."

LABOR LEADERS CALL.

Ask Board of Works to Stop Contracts to Non-union Firm.

Representatives of the federation of labor called on members of the board of works Thursday morning and asked that the city stop using metal catch-basins and other fixtures put out by the Central foundry. It was argued that the foundry in question does not employ union molders.

Works board members explained that they had nothing to do with deciding what firm shall furnish catch-basins and other metal paraphernalia used in street construction. Buying of materials lay with the contracting company which has been awarded the street improvements.

GETTING READY FOR WINTER.

Park Benches and Lawn Swings Being Put Under Cover.

City parks are being prepared for the reign of bleak King Winter. The 600 park benches are being gathered into the park storehouses and the few lawn swings in use are being put under cover. All park seats are to be given a new coat of dark green paint during the winter months. They will look like new when they reappear beside the winding paths on the first of May.

Park Superintendent Getz has his men at work replanting all dead trees along Rudisill boulevard. New oriental plants are replacing those that have failed to sprout along the boulevard from Piqua to South Wayne.

MAY SPREAD SAND.

Cart for Distribution May Be Precaution Against Ice.

Fort Wayne may have an official sand spreader this winter as an aid to pedestrians along icy downtown streets. Attention of city officials has been called to a new invention for spreading sand. It is in the form of a cart carrying a basket from which the sand is automatically sifted to the walks. A man can put sand on ten miles of sidewalk a day by simply pushing the cart before him along the streets. It is claimed.

Street Superintendent Herman Strodel likes the automatic method of sanding the walks better than the plan suggested by the mayor, of installing sacks of sand in stores of the merchants and having industrious clerks place the mineral on the walks in the immediate vicinity of the store.

WALL OF SUBWAY CAVES IN.

Work of the Nickel Plate at Osage Street Will Be Retarded.

The east wall of the Osage street subway caved in Wednesday night. Tons of earth tumbled down across the roadway when the few boards, holding the wall, gave way. Frane was to have been built on Thursday and pouring of concrete started at once.

A score of laborers are at work shoveling the earth from the roadway. It will be three days before the forms for the moulds can be started on the east side of the passage.

ARE STAYING INDOORS.

Many Laborers Playing Off Sick Because of Chilly Weather.

Ranks of the work gangs of Fort Wayne contractors have been reduced during the past three days because of the frosty weather. Regular salaried men of the companies are all in their places, but the laborers who work by the day as "fillers" are mostly under cover, contractors say. These men will report for work again when the weather moderates, it is predicted.

"They generally tell a story about being sick and we have to let them start to work again," one of the contractors explained Thursday, after telling that nearly half of his men are gone.

WILL FINISH PAVING.

Paving of both St. Joe boulevard and Swinney avenue will be completed this week by the Grace Construction company.

BUILDING PERMITS.

Building permits were issued to Charles Howell to build frame garage, 1714 West Main street, $200, and Charles McComb, build frame residence, 1909 Sherman street, $2,400.

HAS SCARLET FEVER.

Health board was notified on Wednesday that Ruth Mohr, 1311 Huestis avenue, is suffering from an attack of scarlet fever.

IN THE CHURCHES

DOUBT WORD OF GODRev. Watkin in Another
Grippingly Interesting
Sermon.

"Whenever a man puts a question mark behind the word of God, I'll pass him up like a pay car passes a tramp," declared Rev. Charles E. Watkin, in his sermon Wednesday evening at the First Baptist church. The preacher declared that doubt was the root of all sin and that from doubt springs unbelief. From this it was but one step to disobedience and then another to death, he said.

Before the sermon Fred Butler led the song service. Last night's choir was larger and better than at any previous date. Mr. Butler sang "Shadows," by Robert Harkness, and "The Earth Is the Lord's," by Frank Lyons. His solos surpassed anything he has sung in this city.

Several epigrams were used in last night's sermon which served the purpose of emphasizing the subject.

"If you could squeeze real water out of watered stock, there would be a flood in hell in twenty minutes."

"God's laws are as narrow as the edge of a razor."

"Whether you believe the word of God or not does not change it one iota."

"Sin begins in doubt and ends in death."

The first thing that Satan brought into the Garden of Eden was an interrogation point.

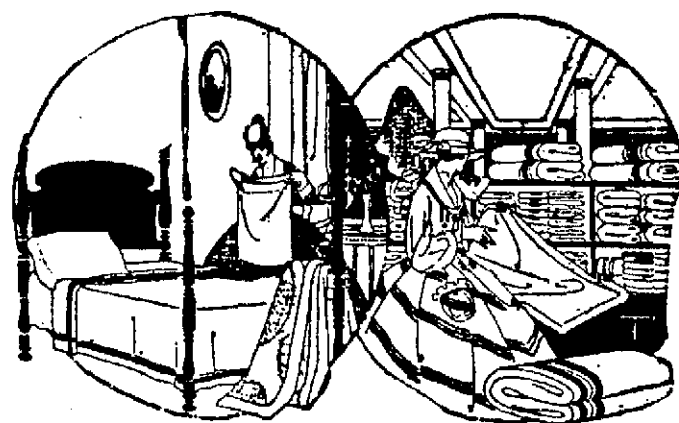

At South Wayne Church. The biggest week night meeting since the beginning of the revival was held last night at the South Wayne church. It was a special young people's meeting and in addition, the Ladies' Bible class of the church attended in a body. The subject of the sermon was "The Call to Heroic Service."

There will be a men's banquet at the

RICE OR POTATOES

Too many of my friends think of rice as a desert. They make delicious puddings and custards with rice, but that is as far as they go. Rice serves its best purpose when used as a vegetable, as a substitute for potatoes. It is a bulky food and will serve as a good foundation on which to build a satisfying and nourishing meal. Many think rice is flat and tasteless. This is because they cook and serve it without the proper ingredients. Boiled rice, sprinkled with a little cheese and baked slowly in the oven, will make a dish to please the most "finicky" taste. Rice served with brown gravy or with meat broth will satisfy anyone. Few people eat plain boiled potatoes. They insist on having them seasoned and served to taste. Rice, given the same treatment as potatoes, will please even more so. And don't forget the economy. Remember that ten cents worth of rice goes a third farther than the same amount of potatoes. The best rice is cheaper in the end than the poorer grade. If you want your family to be rice eaters you must start with the best rice. BURSLEY'S High Grade Rice in one and three pound packages is the rice to use.

I know a number of good cooks who have rice recipes that I can use. I will send an order on your grocer for a package of Bursley's Rice to everyone who sends in an original rice recipe. Address: RICE EDITOR, name of this paper.

RICE WITH CHEESE.

Steam one cup of BURSLEY'S Rice, seasoned with one tablespoon salt; cover bottom of pudding dish with rice, dot over with three-fourths tablespoon butter, sprinkle with thin shavings of mild cheese and a few grains of cayenne pepper; repeat operation until all of the rice and one fourth pound of cheese are used. Add milk to half the contents of dish, cover with cracker crumbs, and bake until cheese melts.

RICE HAMBURGER CROQUETTES.

One pound of hamburger, one cup of Bursley's rice steamed; season well with salt and pepper and roll in oblong shape of egg. Wrap each roll in a tender cabbage leaf, pin together with toothpicks and brown in hot butter. Add a few drops of water and place in an oven for twenty or thirty minutes.
